Walk Straight, or Sleep. Gangsters, Cruel, Silent. Psychological Prosperity.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.

INTERESTING things on this Pacific Coast, trees that were growing when Christ was born, earth's biggest ocean, greatest water power, wonderful future.

But most interesting, as a measure of our civilization, are the gentlemen "sleeping it off" on the way north from the Mexican boundary.

A CAR comes wobbling, a representative of government stops it. The driver, ordered to get out and walk a straight line, can not do it. He must park his car by the roadside, and is told "lie down by the roadside and sleep it off."

Six were lying down, sleeping it off, their cars parked nearby, recently.

SOMETIMES there are more than six. California provides for driving while drunk, a penalty more severe than "sleeping it off." It is, perhaps, only fair to make certain allowances for our prohibition situation and temptations beyond the border.

GANGSTERS are not kind to each other.

John "Billiken" Rito, described by police as "a bootleg racketeer," member of the "Bugs" Moran gang, lies in the morgue. Wires with which his arms, hands and ankles were bound, when he was taken out of the Chicago River, have been removed. The police wonder who burned the tip ends of his fingers in the process of torturing him before he was murdered, and why they did it. They will never know.

Racketeers kill, and don't talk.

BUSINESS men here are cheerful about the "business situation." Los Angeles income tax receipts for 1929 show an increase of $5,000,000 over 1928.

The Los Angeles Examiner and other Hearst papers print daily brief statements of FACT showing improving conditions.

Other newspapers might do the same.

WHAT people think decides what they are. Prosperity is to a considerable extent a matter of psychology.

Once a man was fastened in a chair, his feet put in warm water, and, as a practical joke, he was shown a razor of which the blunt end was drawn across the soles of his bare feet. He was told "you will bleed to death painlessly in this warm water." He didn't lose a drop of blood, but he died.

Don't let prosperity die in that fashion, killed by imagination.

PRESIDENT HOOVER, like a good family doctor for the nation, says nothing or says things that are encouraging. There is a great deal of value in that.

Buy what you want, beginning with a good automobile, buy it NOW and then enjoy it NOW. Life does not last forever. Keep it busy, and full.

WHAT name would you suggest for the new planet just added to our solar family, revolving around the sun, endless millions of miles outside of our orbit?

The name should be chosen among these six:

Copernicus, Tycho, Brahe, Kepler, Galileo, Descartes, Newton.

They are the six greatest astronomical names in history, and represent six nations, Poland, Denmark, Germany, Italy, France, England.

Genius has no nationality.

ST. PATRICK was honored in the West and in the East yesterday, with green colors, friendly cartoons, editorials, and slices of ice cream decorated with shamrocks. St. Patrick's fame has lasted because he wasn't afraid of anybody, mentally or physically.

To defy the Irish king himself, in his castle on the hill of Tara, with his red hair and no clothing, but a raw bull's hide, took courage.

THE death of Primo De Rivera, former Spanish dictator, killed by heart disease, reminds you that being dictator is a wearing job. It takes such a man as Mussolini to stand it, for a long time.

Wise Mussolini.

DAGUE TALKS IN DEFENSE OF IRENE

Sweetheart on Stand After 'Emotional Insanity' Plea Of Blonde Strikes Snag

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, March 18.—W. Glenn Dague was the first witness to take the stand today in the defense of his sweetheart, Irene Schroeder, on trial for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul.

Dague was put on the stand after defense plans had been blocked to call relatives of Irene to testify that a fall suffered by her in childhood caused her to have an "irresistible impulse" as a basis for her defense of emotional insanity.

TWO SPANISH GUNS

Dague testified on direct examination that he and Irene both had Spanish revolvers. His was a .38 caliber, he said, and hers a .32.

The purpose of Dague's testimony was to discredit the commonwealth's contention that Paul was slain by a .38 caliber gun in the hands of Irene.

On cross-examination, Dague testified he had bought both his and Irene's gun near East Ohio street, Pittsburgh. He wanted his own gun "for protection," he said.

IRENE TO TAKE STAND

Irene herself will take the stand, Attorney Benjamin Jarrett, for the defense, told the jury in his opening address. She will admit being at the scene, "but we will prove she did not fire the fatal shot."

Mrs. Sarah J. Muldoon, of Wheeling, W. Va., a sister of Irene, was called as the first witness by Attorney Jarrett after the commonwealth had closed its case, on the ninth day of the trial.

Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti demanded to know the purpose in placing Mrs. Muldoon on the stand. The jury was excused and Judge R. L. Hildebrand heard arguments of counsel on the propriety of the defense's offer.

Mrs. Muldoon, Attorney Jarrett asserted, would testify that in her early life, Irene had suffered a fall which had caused her to have an "irresistible impulse."

PROSECUTOR OBJECTS

Dague's Story Told on Stand To Help Irene

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 18.—W. Glenn Dague, called to testify in defense of his blonde sweetheart, Irene Schroeder, at the opening of this afternoon's session, in direct testimony admitted that both he and Mrs. Schroeder had Spanish guns. Margiotti questioned him as to where Dague bought his gun.

"Somewhere in Pittsburgh," Dague replied.

"Near East Ohio street."

"Why?"

"For protection."

"To protect whom?"

"Myself."

AFRAID OF BEING ROBBED

"Why did you need protection?"

"I was afraid I'd be held up."

"Afried of being held up, eh? Were you ever held up?"

"No, sir."

"From whom did you buy the gun?

"There was an old man and a young man in the store."

"How much did you pay for it?"

"Eighteen dollars."

"Where did Irene get her gun?"

"I bought it for her."

"Where?"

"Another pawnshop near East Ohio street."

"What did you pay for her gun?"

"Sixteen dollars."

IRENE NEEDED ONE, TOO

"Why did she need a gun?"

"I was afraid someone would attack her."

"Was she ever attacked?"

"No."

"Was there any person with you on the Butler road?"

"Irene Schroeder."

"Anybody else?"

"Yes."

"Who?"

"I can't say positively, I was told who he was."

"Why are you hesitating?"

"I was told it was Tom Crawford."

Danish Royalty Greeted in Japan

Baron Kijuro Shidehara, minister of foreign affairs, and court officials met them at the railway station. The party which arrived at Yokohama today aboard the Danish liner Fionia will remain in Japan one week as guests of the imperial household.

Senators Delay O. K. on Thacher

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Confirmation of Judge Thomas Day Thacher, of New York, as solicitor general was blocked today in the Senate by Senator Overman (Dem.), of North Carolina, who gave no explanation for asking that consideration go over "temporarily."

The Judiciary Committee ordered a favorable report on Judge Thacher's nomination last week after he had reported to it that he had sold his stock in four power companies.

13 Men Fall 35 Feet When Pit Collapses

LONGVIEW, Wash., March 18.—(AP.)—Thirteen workmen were thrown 35 fet into a pit when a concrete form at the Long Bell Lumber Company's log pond here collapsed last night. Ten men suffered only slight injuries while three were seriously hurt.

Those in a serious condition are C. F. Evans, J. H. Swanson and I. K. Clark.

BONDS SPEED COUNTY WORK

$7,400,000 Issue Authorized By Commissioners for New Roads, Bridges, Buildings

The County Commissioners today authorized the sale of bonds totaling $7,400,000 to be used for public projects. The list includes $100,000 to begin the newly-conceived Juvenile Detention Home, to be erected at an estimated cost of $475,000. Work may start within a month.

Of the total, $6,125,000 is in peoples' bonds and $1,275,000 in commissioners' bonds. It is expected the work will give hundreds of men employment. Commissioner McGovern asked Norman Brown, director of public works, to speed up the work.

The projects to be financed by the sale are:

PROJECTS INVOLVED

The Westinghouse Bridge, Turtle Creek, $250,000, with a total estimated cost of $1,500,000.

Reconstruction of roads, $725,000.

Workhouse buildings, Blawnox, $200,000, of an estimated cost of $370,000.

Horace street ramp to connect Boulevard of the Allies and Liberty Bridge, $121,000.

New highways, $674,000.

McKees Rocks Bridge, over the Ohio River, $460,000, of a total of $7,233,000.

West End—North Side bridge over the Ohio River, $200,000, of a total of $3,540,000.

Ohio River boulevard, $850,000, of a total of $5,343,000.

Saw Mill Run boulevard, $500,000 of a total of $1,162,000.

WORKHOUSE LAND SALE

The authorization was unanimously passed by the members of the board, McGovern asking only that the workhouse properties be considered with a view of selling some of the surplus land surrounding them so that the county could benefit from the taxes.

The authorization of bonds for the Juvenile home followed the appropriation of $475,000 for two buildings on the present home site, Fifth avenue, near Craft avenue. The detention is to be a three-story affair costing $300,000, to face Forbes street. The Juvenile Court, to face Fifth avenue, will cost $175,000.

DOHENY WEEPS ON STAND

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—For the first time in the long series of criminal oil cases, the government today got before a jury the fact that the award of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to a Doheny company had been termed by courts in civil cases as a fraud on the part of Edward L. Doheny, on trial for bribery, and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior.

Doheny broke down and wept on the stand at the morning session when queried about his son, Ned, who was killed in February a year ago.

His voice broke, and tears flooded his eyes. The court excused him until he recovered.

Doheny himself opened the door for admission of the testimony in his bribery trial by reciting under

A quick change weather program is the schedule for Pittsburgh during the next 48 hours, Forecaster W. S. Brostman announces. It will rain until tonight, then change to snow, but the snow will have vanished by tomorrow morning, according to the weather seer.

The temperature, falling slowly, will drop to the freezing point during the night.

30 CABS RUN DOWNTOWN GUARDED

135 Extra Police Prevent Attacks; Strikers Deny Drivers Deserted Ranks

Thirty taxis were being operated downtown today by the Parmelee Transportation Company in another effort to break the nine-weeks-old drivers' strike.

In each cab, beside the driver, was a deputy sheriff. For additional protection, 135 extra city police were stationed at strategic points in the downtown area.

From the time the taxis appeared on the streets at 8 a. m., they did a rushing business. They were not molested as they operated between railroad stations and hotels. Women as well as men were passengers.

15 DEPUTIES IN RESERVE

The Parmelee officials refused to state whether they would extend operations. It was learned, however, that they have assembled a reserve squad of 15 deputy sheriffs at the company's garage at First avenue and Ross street.

There was some disagreement as to who was operating the cabs placed in service. Parmelee officials claimed that the taxis were manned by old drivers returned to work. Ralph Trafford, strikers' committeeman, after riding with newspapermen on an "inspection trip" and scanning the 25 Yellow Cabs lined up at the Pennsylvania Station, said:

"Not a one of those drivers is an old-time driver."

STRIKERS MEET

Girl's Mother Testifies, Collapses

Mrs. Fannie Bosh, 50, of Castle Shannon, collapsed after she had left the witness chair today in Criminal Court, where she had testified against the man charged with murdering her daughter.

Mrs. Bosh had testified that she heard the two shots which the prosecution charges Michael Kowal, 30, of Baltimore, fired at Catherine Bosh, 17-year-old hair dresser, in the Bosh home after Catherine had refused to marry him.

Mrs. Bosh had followed to the stand her husband, Wasil, and two sons, Frank and Charles, 11, upon whose testimony the prosecution will base its demand for a first-degree murder verdict.

56 RUSS CHURCHES CLOSED ON EVE OF VATICAN PROTEST

MODERATION PROGRAM UPSET

Moscow Action Contradicts Reports of Abandonment Of Anti-Religious Crusade

MOSCOW, March 18.—The regional Soviet authorities have voted to close 56 churches in the Moscow district, it was learned today, "upon demand of the people and public organizations."

The decision of the council was reached after perusal of a number of petitions containing, it was said, a demand for the closings from more than a majority of the populations in the parishes affected.

The area affected by the new closing order is comparable in size to the American state of Ohio. A number of churches in the City of Moscow are included.

All of the edifices will be converted into schools, club houses, libraries, restaurants and laboratories.

New Soviet Anti-Church Crusade Surprises Vatican

VATICAN CITY, March 18.—(AP.)—Tomorrow's expiatory ceremonies at St. Peter's as a result of outrages against Christians in Russia will be carried out as scheduled.

Reports received here of a moderation in the attitude of the Soviet government were contradicted today by news of an order closing 56 more churches, 12 of them within Moscow.

"FAITHLESS"

This recalled a recent semi-official Vatican note, which said:

"Experience has shown that the declarations of the Bolshevik government do not merit too much faith."

Even before word was received of the new crusade against the churches in Moscow there had been no intention of altering the program for the ceremonies tomorrow. The news, however, brought disappointment, as the previous reports of a more moderate policy had given hope that Russia was impressed by the Pope's determination to take a stand against religious persecution there.

GRUNDY SCORES TARIFF DELAY

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—(AP.)—Marshalling his facts and arguments for "old fashioned protective tariff" United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, in an address here last night, laid responsibility for unemployment and industrial depression in the United States upon the shoulders of the Senate coalition.

Speaking at the one hundred and fifty-ninth annual dinner of the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Mr. Grundy declared that "lack of effective tariff legislation" was partly responsible for industrial depression and unemployment in this country.

The junior senator asserted that it is within the power of Congress to keep the work of the United States within the boundaries of the nation, and that Congress also has the power to give to American industry and labor the maximum of work required to meet domestic consumption and export demand.

OUST NANKING GOVERNMENT

PEIPING, China, March 18.—(AP.)—All Nanking government offices and administrative bureaus in Peiping, former capital of China, were taken over today by the local authorities who said they were acting under orders of Yen Hsi-Shan, so called "model governor" of Shansi province.

The action implied a very definite widening of the breach between the administration of President Chiang Kai-Shek at Nanking, in Central and South China, and the Shansi Kuominchun generals, headed by Yen.

SHANGHAI, March 18.—(AP.)—Bandits and Communists attacked and captured Fuan, a town near Kianfu, Central Kiangsi Province, massacreing all Fuan officials and 2,000 men, women and children, early this month, delayed Chinese reports stated today.

CHILE EMBASSY CAR HITS MAN

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—An automobile collision involving a car driven by Commander Juan Polich, naval attache at the Chilean embassy, resulted last night in serious injuries to Paul E. Hammond, of this city.

Polich, who was in uniform, accompanied police to the nearest precinct station, but was not booked.

Hospital attaches said Hammond received a probable fracture of the skull, severe lacerations of the scalp and a badly cut ear.

"Hurry Up," Man Says Awaiting Gallows

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18.—Walter Crabtree, 38, sentenced to die on the gallows May 9, for the murder of Justice of the Peace H. C. Inskeep, of Romney, W. Va., arrived at the State prison last night and was assigned to Death Row.

"Hurry up, let's get it over with quick," the condemned man said as he was placed in the cell.

Crabtree was charged with killing Inskeep, Ben Miller, Romney jailer, and Edward Woolford, who had been instrumental in prosecuting him for liquor violations.

FIRE ROUTS 28, COUPLE SAVED

Twenty-eight members of 10 families living in a row of 10 houses on Gloster street, Hazelwood, were driven from their homes early today when fire started in one of the buildings and spread to several others.

Edmund Ellis, 65, and his wife, Alice, 63, of 4865 Gloster street, where the fire started, were carried to the street by Police Lieut. M. M. Murphy and Patrolman William Flaccus. They were partly overcome.

The flames spread to the home of John Soddereen, at 4863, and two vacant houses at 4867 and 4869 Gloster street, damaging the upper floors. Sparks set fire to the roofs of most of the other buildings, but did little damage.

Decision to place the cabs upon the streets again followed failure of all efforts to settle the strike. In a joint statement issued yesterday, Mayor Charles H. Kline and Sheriff Robert S. Cain announced that the Parmelee company would be permitted to operate in the downtown district.

With the resumption of cab service, A. T. Siford, chairman of the strikers' committee, said:

"We will not picket the cabs, and will fight the company by peaceful measures. We think that the people of Pittsburgh are in sympathy with us and will not ride the non-union cabs."

The "back-to-work" committee of striking drivers called on Mayor Kline this morning and presented a petition which members of the committee said was signed by 400 strikers, asking that another meeting of the drivers be called to vote on acceptance of settlement terms proffered by the company.

Following the conference, Fromme, spokesman for the committee, said that the Mayor informed them that if they wished to return to work their proper course would be to open negotiations with the Parmelee Transportation Company.

JOB SALE QUIZ ORDERED BY HOOVER

President Insists, However, That South Is 'Cleaned Up;' Blease Raps Appointments

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—President Hoover today announced he had asked the Department of Justice to analyze the report of the Senate committee on federal patronage in the South with a view to possible action against the men it indicted.

At the same time, however, the President pointed out, the Brookhart report "refers to incidents, men and conditions which have already been cleaned up by the action I took on March 26 last."

A year ago, Mr. Hoover read several Republican organizations in the South out of the party and took definite action to prevent further sale of patronage.

OUSTERS DEMANDED

While Mr. Hoover was making his statement Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, was demanding in the Senate the immediate dismissal of District Attorney John D. Hartman and Collector of Customs Roy A. Campbell, of Texas, because the patronage committee found them "unfit to hold federal office."

Senator Fess, (Rep.), of Ohio, told the Senate the President was not pleased with some of the things that had gone on in the South, and condemned any effort toward sale of patronage. He also referred to the President's utterance that a "sound Republican organization" would be built up in the South to "command respect."

Defending existing conditions within the party in the South, the President today said:

"Under instructions to the various departments of the government, a system has been established by which these reprehensible practices have been absolutely stopped and the system of purchase and sale of appointments, so far as it existed, has been ended. All federal officials known to have engaged in such practices have either resigned or been removed."

BLEASE RAPS HOOVER

Senator Blease, (Dem.), of South Carolina, today condemned the President and Postmaster General Brown for appointments of postmasters in South Carolina. He said:

"The Republican party in South Carolina stands for graft and corruption and dishonest government and dishonorable disposition of patronage."

Asserting the government was "a stench in the nostrils of every decent man in the state," Blease added that every one who had participated in the purchase or sale of public offices should be put in the penitentiary.

Referring to the attitude of President Hoover and Brown, whom he described as the "supposed-to-be Postmaster General of the United States," Blease asserted:

"By their works and not by their words shall we know them."

2 Unidentified Men Killed Walking Road

HARRISBURG, March 18.—(INS.)—Two unidentified men, believed to be itinerant vagrants, were killed today when struck by an automobile on William Penn Highway at Rutherford, near here. Elmer Dusenbury, Negro orchestra leader, of Reading, drove the car that struck the men. Dusenbury brought them to Harrisburg Hospital. One of the men carried a letter addressed to "Jack Kimberling, 811 Race street, Philadelphia."

2 MEN BURNED IN HOTEL FIRE

Two men who registered at the Kirkwood Hotel, Whitfield and Kirkwood streets, at 5 a. m. as T. G. Andrews, of 465 Center avenue, Verona, and Arch Young, of 640 South Negley avenue, were burned seriously by a fire in their bedroom two hours later. Both were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

J. S. Stump, a permanent resident of the hotel, noticed smoke pouring from a sixth floor window. He informed Night Clerk J. F. Powell, who turned in a fire alarm.

Firemen under Capt. Roy Miller found Andrews and Young, in their underwear, on the floor in the sixth story hall. Young was unconscious, Andrews dazed.

At the hospital it was said Young's condition was critical and Andrews' was but little better. Both men were severely burned on the face, arms and body. They could not be questioned on account of their condition.

The damage to the hotel was placed at $250.

a gruelling cross-examination by Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecutor, how he accepted security for what the government charges was a $100,000 bribe to Fall.

The witness said that in 1924, after the first criminal indictments had been quashed, Fall sent him shares in his cattle company for what he termed the loan.

"He could do it then," he explained, "without being accused of trying to cover up, as nothing in this case was pending."

"The civil cases were pending and you knew it, didn't you?" Roberts shot back.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Didn't you refuse to testify on the grounds that it would incriminate you?" asked the prosecutor.

COURT ORDERS REPLY

Doheny wouldn't give a direct answer and the court directed that he do so.

Roberts then asked Doheny if he did not know the civil court had held the leases to have been procured by fraud and had returned the leases to the government.

Doheny hesitated and answered: "And I know why he (the civil judge) did it."

The millionaire operator did not seem to realize he had made it possible for the government to get before the jury the civil decision in the oil lease case, but his counsel frequently interrupted Roberts.

The government has been prevented heretofore from getting this evidence before a criminal jury due to objections that it had nothing to do with the criminal charges.

Navy Aide Opposes Air Enlistment Law

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Asserting the requirement that at least 30 per cent of naval air pilots should be enlisted men was too large, Acting Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy, today asked Congress to pass legislation to do away with the provision.

Jahncke wrote that the requirement was based on limited experience and said present conditions indicated that the number of enlisted pilots as compared to officers who are pilots should be approximately 21 per cent.

He advocated flexibility to allow the proportion to be fixed as conditions warranted.

PROBERS ASK BANK DATA ON HUSTON

G. O. P. Leader Is Resentful At 'Attack on Character;' Raskob Also Faces Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—After a heated exchange with Chairman Huston, of the Republican National Committee, and a row among its members, the Senate Lobby Committee today issued a subpena to obtain from the New York brokerage firm of Blythe and Bonner, records of a $36,100 deposit made last year by Huston.

Huston, formerly president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, objected strenuously to the committee action and characterized it as unwarranted interference with his personal affairs. He also asserted that his "character had been attacked."

SENATOR PROTESTS

The committee first proposed to obtain a record of all of Huston's accounts with the New York firm, but when Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, protested and threatened to carry the fight to the Senate, the subpoena was limited to the records of the $36,100 contribution from the Union Carbide Company.

The discussion raged in the committee room for several minutes and was one of the stormiest scenes that has taken place since the Lobby Committee started its sessions several months ago.

Huston was called by the committee for questioning about his activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation while president of the improvement association. He said he collected $36,100 from the Union Carbide Company, which was to get a part of the shoals power if the bid of the American Cyanamid Company was accepted. Huston's former association advocated acceptance of the latter company's offer.

On the stand last week, the Republican chairman testified he had kept the $36,100 in his personal accounts and a committee investigator was sent to New York to get the records. He reported today he was unable to get them and Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, proposed the subpena.

ASKS RASKOB PROBE

While the proposal to produce all Huston's accounts was being considered, Robinson said it was "just as fair" to subpena the accounts of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Huston said there was not the "slightest objection" to giving the Union Carbide records, but he added he would protest against going into all his accounts.

The subpena, modified and limited to amounts paid by the Union Carbide Company, then was issued.

Senator Blaine asked Huston if he knew of any lobbying engaged in by Raskob.

Huston replied that he knew Raskob was connected with an organization advocating repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The committee then excused Huston indefinitely, advising him he might be recalled.

Triumvirate 'Gag' Rules House, Howard Says

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(INS.)—Three men control the House of Representatives under a "gag rule system" like "a schoolboy controls his own marbles," and the Senate is the only bulwark between the average citizen and predatory interests, 70-year-old Representative Edgar Howard, (Dem.), of Nebraska, declared in a speech in the House today.

He followed the denunciation of his own body with an appeal for a revision of rules to allow "reasonable debate" to individual members.

He inferentially named Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader, and Representative Snell, (Rep.), of New York, chairman of the rules committee, as the "big three" of the House.

The latter, he declared, has more power than the rest, because his committee frames the House program.

"He has more power than the President of the United States," said Howard.

Although defending the individual ability of members of the House as compared with the Senate, Howard contended that the "popular branch" had become a plaything for a few men.

He said it has been transformed from a body directly representing the people "by a linking and a welding of influences in the two great political parties—influence preferring that it shall become the plaything of official masters, rather than the handmaid of its membership."

"My object is not to debase the House, but rather to direct attention to its own shameful mistreatment of itself," said Howard.

He cited the speed with which the tariff bill was rushed through the House, individual members being denied the right to propose amendments. He asserted that the House passed it with expectation that the Senate would change the bill.

Supreme Court Keeps Ice, Ginger Ale in Dry Ban

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(Universal)—Hotels cannot legally serve ginger ale, cracked ice and empty glasses to patrons who use them for mixing highballs or other intoxicating drinks, the Supreme Court in effect ruled.

The court refused to review a hotel's appeal from a padlock injunction issued against a dining room.

The Butler Hotel in Seattle, Wash., filed the appeal from a lower court decision adverse to the hotel. Two years ago a similar appeal by a Chicago restaurateur case from Philadelphia based on a Court.

Announcement was made by Chief Justice Hughes that the court on April 28 would hear arguments in the Norris conspiracy case from Philadelphia besad on a liquor purchase. Here the government is trying to convict the purchaser on the ground he conspired to transport liquor illegally.

The Farrar case from Boston, raising the direct issue of whether the mere purchase of liquor is in violation of the Volstead act, probably would be heard at the same time.

MAE WEST LEAVING CRIMINAL COURT

"Broadway Mae" leaving court in New York after the opening of her trial with members of the cast for her production of the "Pleasure Man," play she wrote. Indecency's the charge.

MAE PROMISES TO BE 'GOOD'

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Mae (Diamond Lil) West isn't sorry she did it, but she isn't going to do it again.

Broadway's blonde playgirl, on trial for writing and producing an allegedly indecent show, "Pleasure Man," today told how she feels about it.

"I write about life," she said. "There's nothing about my plays that's out of the ordinary. It's just things. Sociological? No, they are life."

Was she going to keep on writing these "life plays" if she were freed?

"I'm not considering doing such," she said.

In court, she appeared slim and willowy.

"Have I been reducing? Why, no, I never have been plump," she said. "That's an optical illusion. I weigh only 126 pounds. Of course, I lost five or six pounds from worrying over the recent death of my mother."

Fifty-seven others were accused with Miss West as taking part in "Pleasure Man," but many failed to appear for trial.

"I'd take the full responsibility for all the defendants if the court would let me," said the blonde Mae. "I think, anyway, that if anything happens, it will be to me alone. Why should the others get the 'rap'?"

Leon H. Lowe, Finder Of Gas Process, Dies

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—Leon H. Lowe, 69, discoverer of a process of manufacturing gas from crude oil, son of the late Prof. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, scientist, died yesterday. He had been ill for six months.

Lowe was born in New York. He spent most of his life in San Francisco, where he directed the erection of numerous gas manufacturing plants.

Department Store Damaged by Fire

WELLSBURG, W. Va., March 18.—Fire early today damaged the department store of Peter Seltner $15,000. The origin of the fire was being investigated today.

COAL OUTPUT SHOWS GAIN

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Bituminous coal production increased 6.3 per cent in the United States during 1929 on the basis of estimates made public today by the Bureau of Mines, placing the output at 532,352,000 net tons as compared with 500,745,000 in 1928.

With the exception of Kentucky, all the major coal producing states shared in the increase. Pennsylvania regained the lead from West Virginia by producing 142,400,000 tons, while West Virginia, which had previously led for two years, produced 138,015,000 tons.

COLD REIGNS IN MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, March 18.—(INS.)—Central United States today was treated to a taste of winter as a contrast to the spring-like weather that has prevailed for the last several days.

Snow in varying quantities fell in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming. Temperatures barely above the freezing point were common in the Great Lakes area.

The deaths of Mrs. Louis Pelton, 86, of Bancroft, Mich., and Frank L. Ward, 73, here when they stepped in the path of a taxicab last night were ascribed to the blinding snowfall. Ward's wife, seriously injured, is expected to die.

"Rain, sleet or snow will occur today in most of the southern half of the North Central States," the weather bureau announced here today.

Victim of Stabbing In Card Game Dies

Carminica Pascuzzi, 53, of 504 Alvin street, died in Pittsburgh Hospital today of stab wounds, suffered late Sunday night in a fight over a card game at 7311 Tioga street, according to police. Joseph Pince, of 7419 Susquehanna street, alleged to have done the stabbing, was being sought by detectives.

Guns Roar King's Salute To De Rivera in Spain

IRUN, Spain, March 18.—(AP.)—The Spanish batteries topping the hills along the French frontier roared a 21-gun salute today as the body of Primo de Rivera crossed the border into Spain.

Thus was the former dictator, who died in Paris on Sunday night, honored with the same salute that would be given a king.

As the train halted at the little railway station here, where sometimes exiles have seen their last of Spain, the coffin was removed and placed in state in a chapel of the station. Masses were said by priests and prayers were offered.

Late this afternoon the funeral train was to leave for Madrid.

MADRID, March 18.—(AP.)—The body of Don Miguel Primo de Rivera was brought back to Spain today.

Friends and foes alike, their bitterness quenched at the bier, planned for him the highest honors the Spanish monarchy accords to one not its sovereign. He will be buried with the military pomp of his rank of captain general.

The funeral cortege will be escorted by representatives of every branch of the Army and Navy carrying draped banners. It will go directly to San Isidro Cemetery, where the body will be interred in the family vault.

King Alfonso himself probably will not march in the cortege, because of tradition, but the infante Don Jaime prpbably will represent him.

CHICAGO WAITS IN VAIN FOR AL CAPONE

Police Squad Patrols Depot; Racketeer Eludes Throng In Dawn Release From Jail

By JAMES L. FILGALLEN,
International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—Chicago watched apparently in vain today for the homecoming of "Scarface" Alphonse Capone, freed after 10 months in a Pennsylvania prison. When the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad arrived at 9:55 a. m., a squad of police patroled the Union Station in search of Capone, but he was not aboard.

It had been reported generally the gang chief was Chicago-bound on the train, but conductors and trainmen said he had at no time been aboard.

HOME WATCHED

His return by airplane was regarded as extremely doubtful in view of the snowstorm over this region today.

Detectives watched the neighborhood of the Capone home at 7244 Prairie avenue, where the gangster's mother and sister live. But Capone, as his friends expected, had slipped from view.

Three alleged Capone henchmen, Joe Montana, Ralph Camardo and Spino Amallo, were arrested for questioning as they left the home of the gang chief today.

Freed at Dawn, Racketeer Eludes Crowd of Thousands

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Scarface Al Capone, most talked of racketeer in America, was at liberty today after having served a 10 months' sentence for carrying what the boys call a "rod." He made an "undercover" getaway that was so mysterious, and masked by such solicitousness on the part of the authorities as to provoke a furor that is re-echoing from one end of the City of Brotherly Love to the other.

Capone was spirited out of the Eastern Penitentiary here in one of the slickest coups ever devised by penal officials. The idea was, it was officially announced, to prevent any "bodily harm" befalling him, for it has been widely reported that he is a marked man. He was "eased" out of the prison to another jail and then released in a manner that completely deceived more than 100 newspaper men and photographers, to say nothing of the several thousand people who waited at the prison gates.

THREATS RUMORED

The unusual precautions of the authorities lent credence to rumors that members of rival gangs were awaiting anxiously for the release of Capone and his bodyguard, "Slippery" Frankie Cline, both of whom were freed simultaneously and both of whom were arrested at the same time and on the same charge.

Where Capone and Cline were today was a matter of conjecture. It was believed they had taken a train for Chicago, closely guarded by their friends.

It was not until 8 o'clock last night that it was officially announced that Capone and Cline had been spirited out of the prison—hours before. At 6 o'clock in the morning, to be exact.

WARDEN GETS RELEASE

Warden Smith drove to Harrisburg, 100 miles away, and personally obtained Capone's parole papers after they had been signed, and instead of coming back to Philadelphia he headed for Gratersford, superintended Capone's release and saw to it that he was safely delivered into the custody of waiting friends. At 4 p. m. Capone and Cline stepped into an automobile at Gratersford and were whisked away.

U. S. DISLIKED, SAYS DARROW

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, was back in the United States today after nine months in Europe, prepared for two debates on prohibition.

Tomorrow night he will have as his opponent United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart, and on Friday night he will debate against Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

Darrow, upon his arrival aboard the liner Saturnia, said he had been abroad long enough to learn the United States had not a friend in the world. This he held to be due to this country's insistence on repayment of war loans and the high tariff.

To Fight Sentences In Film Catastrophe

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Attorneys today prepared to appeal sentence of guilty passed on John C. Flinn and Henry P. Lally, two officials of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., in whose studio 11 persons were burned to death last December. They were fined $500 each for violating an ordinance prohibiting storing of film without a permit.

The two executives still face charges in connection with manslaughter complaints in hearings before Chief Magistrate McAdoo.

British Politician Divorced at Reno

RENO, Nev., March 18.—(INS.)—Mrs. Julia Hannan Lyle-Samuel, of New York and New Jersey, today had been granted a divorce from Alexander Lyle-Samuel, once a member of the British House of Commons. Papers in the case were sealed. The couple was married in New York in 1916.

Senators Row Over Bible And Racy Literature; Smoot Assailed

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP.)—Clashes over the Bible and the essays of Brigham Young, founder of the Mormon Church, pierced the calm of the Senate tariff debate today during a speech by Senator Cutting (Rep.), New Mexico, in favor of repeal of the customs law ban on foreign literature regarded as immoral.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, interrupted Cutting to ask Senator Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, a high official in the Mormon church, and advocate of continuation of the customs censorship, whether any of Brigham Young's essays would be barred under the present law.

Smoot replied heatedly that if these essays came within the scope of the intent of the law, they should be prohibited from entry.

HOT ROW ON FLOOR

Chiding Smoot for distributing many seized foreign books for Senators to peruse during the debate, Senator Cutting offered the Utahan a copy of "Pornography and Obscenity," by D. H. Lawrence, and said:

"I commend this to the Senator from Utah. It might fill some of the hours he previously used in reading 'Lady Chatterly's Lover'."

Jumping to his feet in a rage, Smoot asserted he had not spent 10 minutes reading this book.

"I would not think of reading anything the senator suggested after hearing his speech today," Smoot added.

A copy of "Lady Chatterly's Lover" at this juncture reposed in the hands of Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, who sat near Smoot, reading extracts from it.

Pointing to the book the lanky Utahan shouted:

"No man would write a book like that unless his soul was so black it would be a shining light in hell."

Smoot told Cutting if he would read the "Bible altogether" he would not make the speech he was delivering.

"That's just the point," Cutting replied, adding that if one read it in its entirety one found nothing wrong, but if certain extracts were read some objection might be found.

CITES YOUNG ESSAYS.

Wheeler said there were certain essays of Bringham Young which might be banned as inciting to stir up rebellion yet the country lived through them.

"I'm not worried about the Senator from New Mexico, or the Senator from Montana reading these books," put in Smoot, "but what about the boys and girls?"

Wheeler said he had not read a line of any of the exhibits until yesterday when Smoot showed him an extract.

Charges of intolerance were leveled at Smoot as Wheeler joined Cutting in insistence that the Mormon church, "above all others," should maintain tolerance.

Smoot met the barrage with a story of the "prosecution" that preceded writings of Mormon leaders. He pleaded for consideration of such persons as "my father and mother," who, he said, were "driven from their homes" by persecution.

Wheeler and Cutting pressed that the law Smoot was endorsing, if it had been on the books at the time the church was young "would have sent your own forbears to prison for 10 years or 5 years."

GALLERY LAUGHS

Cutting produced a number of popular magazines, and asserted that he considered them "far more indecent in every way" than the books which Smoot had brought into the chamber.

Producing another book, he said it contained the "condensed indecency of English authors and was in the Congressional Library."

When Cutting had finished with the book Senator Couzens, (Rep.), of Michigan, reached over for it and started reading amid laughter from the Senators and the galleries.

Pointing to Couzens, the New Mexico Senator said:

"There is nothing indecent about this book except what may be indecent in the classics."

Leaping to his feet, Senator Smoot asserted that "There can't be words put together more vile and rotten than are in these books."

He referred to the collection he had assembled.

"If the senator will come around sometime I will read him some excerpts," Cutting replied.

"There is no more comparison between these books and Shakespeare than there is between heaven and hell," Smoot retorted.

Couzens interrupted to suggest that Smoot "explain the difference between heaven and hell."

FRANCE WARNED OF WAR PERIL

PARIS, March 18.—(AP.)—Warning that the world of today faces the same risk of war as preceding epochs was issued today by Senator Henry Berenger, former ambassador to Washington, in a report to the French Parliament.

The report was submitted in behalf of the finance committee on the budget of the ministry of foreign affairs and reviewed the external politics of France, which M. Berenger insisted has ceased to be a European continental nation and has become inter-continental.

After affirming that all countries are forming international political systems, M. Berenger made a critical analysis of the League of Nations, the Young Plan, the League Court, the project for a United States of Europe and the London naval conference.

He concluded that if intercontinental politics sought the consolidation of peace, it was not necessarily a synonym of peace, and that the crisis was found in the fact that democracies while wishing peace, feared war, and that, though wishing to disarm, they remained armed.

New British Envoy Reaches N. Y. Today

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Twelve liners from Europe and the West Indies were scheduled to reach New York today with more than 2,200 passengers.

On the Cunard liner Aquintania is Sir Ronald Lindsay, new British ambassador to the United States. He is accompanied by Lady Lindsay, daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt, of New York.

Estranged Fiancee Pays Tribute to De Rivera

PARIS, March 18.—(AP.)—When the casket, draped in the red and yellow of Spain, bearing the body of the late Gen. Primo de Rivera was lifted on to the funeral train last night, one woman stood apart and made the sign of the cross.

The woman was Senorita Nina Castellanos, who was engaged to the former dictator two years ago, but who became estranged from him after he accused her of conduct unbecoming the bride-to-be of a man of his station.

Senorita Castellanos was not invited by the family of Gen. de Rivera to take any part in the funeral ceremony and throughout the obsequies at the station she remained in the background. Friends of the family said Primo's two daughters objected to her, claiming she wielded an undue influence over their father.

EXPULSION FACED BY 21 MEN

Amendment Sets Penalty At Suspension, Removal Or Expulsion From Union

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18.—The United Mine Workers of America this afternoon voted to bring 21 so-called "ring leaders" of the rebel movement in their ranks in Illinois and other disloyal members to trial before the international executive board of the union.

This board will be composed of about 30 members and probably will sit in trial here next week.

TREASON CHARGED

The "Rebels" will be tried for what literally may be described as "treason against the union."

The trial will be held before the international executive board of the union, composed of about 30 members.

The penalty may be removal from office, suspension of membership or absolute expulsion.

This much was provided in an amendment to the union constitution, made effective immediately, which the convention passed almost unanimously at noon today.

The amendment provided for a trial by the international executive board of any officers or members "charged with fomenting, leading or encouraging any dual union or dual movement."

THOSE SUMMONED

Those summoned in the resolution for trial include: Alexander Howatt, of Kansas, president of the new organization; John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor; J. M. Thornton, of Ohio; Oral Daughtery, of Ohio; August Dorchy, of Kansas; Peter Markunos, of Illinois; Fox Hughes, member of the board District 12, Illinois; John Brophy, of Pennsylvania; Adolph Germer of Illinois; Harry Fishwick, former president of District 12, Illinois; George L. Mercer, Illinois; Walter Nesbit, of Illinois, and Joseph S. Casassa, Carl Wright, Joseph Loda, Allen G. Haywood, F. W. Wenschoff, Hus Fritz, Joseph Hartley, Brice Holland and George W. Stouffer, all Illinois board members.

Weather Conditions.

Light rain or snow occurred nearly everywhere from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast, and the skies are still overcast except over the northern plains and the Northern Rocky Mountain states, where relatively high barometer is located. A trough of low pressure extends from New England southwestward over the Ohio Valley states to Texas, thence northwestward to Idaho, with a center of disturbance over Northern New Mexico. There is a well defined center of low pressure over Southern Ohio, lowest barometer 29.52 inches, at Cincinnati. Another disturbance is centered over Alberta, lowest barometer reported, 29.44 inches, at Edmonton.

There was a marked drop in temperature over the lake region and the central plains, and a slight drop over the Ohio Valley states and the upper Mississippi valley. Over the Canadian Northwest the temperatures are rising.

River Conditions.

Light rain fell over the district, and the runoff was sufficient to check the falling rivers and start a slight rise in some places. Stage at Franklin is 5.3 feet; Lock No. 7, 12.8; Pittsburgh, 14.0; Dam No. 4, 10.7; Dam No. 6, 11.3; Dam No. 8, 11.5, and Dam No. 12, 10.2. The dams are down. Additional rain today will cause a slight rise in the rivers.

Truck Driver Free In Death of Man

BUTLER, Pa., March 18.—Otto Landman, of McKeesport, driver of the truck which left the road near Harrisville last Thursday night and killed George Ayles, also of McKeesport, was exonerated by Coroner William Peohl.

Landman said he turned aside to avoid hitting an automobile that was crowding the highway and the truck struck mud and careened against a telephone pole.

Bridegroom's Suicide Hoax Fails to Grieve Wife

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 18.—Two are dead and two are dying in this district from self-inflicted injuries.

Sheriff William Yost also investigated a fifth attempt at suicide, and reported it as a hoax, a young bridegroom firing four blank cartridges in a barn, then running back to the house to see if his wife was mourning him. She wasn't, the sheriff reported.

Benjamin Lodge, 34, laborer, shot himself through the heart with a revolver at his home here this morning after a quarrel with his wife at the breakfast table.

Ross McFadden, 86, Civil War veteran, despondent over illness, slashed his throat with a penknife and died a short time later.

Mrs. Thelma Cohen, 21, Fernwood, O., brooding over separation from her husband, relatives said, is dying in the Ohio Valley Hospital from a gunshot wound through the left lung. Officials say the wound is self-inflicted.

Mrs. Matthew Stepic, 42, wife of a Wellsburg, W. Va., contractor, is in the Gill Hospital suffering from poison alleged to have been taken with suicidal intent. Domestic trouble was assigned as the cause.

IRENE'S 'EMOTIONAL INSANITY' DEFENSE STRIKES SNAG

JUDGE UPHOLDS 'IMPULSE' PROTEST

Defense Forced to Recast Case as Prosecution Wins First Skirmish in Battle

not recognized in murder cases under Pennsylvania laws.

Margiotti also registered an objection on the ground that the defense was clouding the issue. "This is a murder trial, not a sanity hearing," he told the court.

"Everything hinges on that irresistible impulse," Jarrett asserted.

"We have the robbery in Butler," said Jarrett. "Here is the irresistible impulse to rob, the impulse to get into the automobile and flee, the impulse to get into trouble on the New Castle road."

Under the law of this state, District Attorney John S. Powers told the court, an insanity plea must be based on homicidal mania.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand sustained the commonwealth's objections and ruled for a change in the defense's offer of testimony.

IRENE RELIEVED

Dr. Louis J. Goldblatt, Youngstown (O.) specialist, sat at the counsel table with the blonde's lawyers as the defense opened.

Irene herself seemed vastly relieved as her counsel opened the defense. Since last Wednesday she had seen 93 witnesses take the chair and testify against her, many of them pointing at her with an accusing finger.

Special Prosecutor Margiotti rested for the commonwealth at 9:45 o'clock this morning, after presenting what is regarded as one of the most thorough cases in the history of Lawrence County. Seventy exhibits have been introduced by the prosecution. Testimony totaled 350,000 words.

Before closing, Margiotti added his last exhibit, the bullet-riddled cap of Private Ernest Moore, who was wounded at the time his fellow-officer, Paul, was fatally shot on the Butler-New Castle highway last December 27.

ARMS EXPERT RECALLED

Louis Marra, ballistic expert who testified last night, was recalled for a few minutes to identify bullets admitted in evidence.

The prosecution introduced the testimony of Marr to prove that Paul was killed by a bullet from the Spanish gun which the defense admitted was in the possession of Irene at the scene of the shooting in re-examination of Ella Kirber Resch, Youngstown newspaper woman, who was released from jail with a reprimand by Judge R. L. Hildebrand, upon her agreement to answer questions concerning Irene's life story.

PISTOL IDENTIFIED

Prior to the calling of Marr, a number of witnesses were called to prove ownership of the gun claimed by the commonwealth to have been issued to Corp. Paul in the State Highway Patrol service. These witnesses included Capt. D. E. Miller, commander of Corp. Paul's troop, with headquarters at Greensburg; Corp. William F. Richardson, former supply officer at headquarters at Greensburg, and John Funk, state policeman who has been in charge of evidence since the investigation began shortly after the shooting on the New Castle-Butler road last December 27.

Mrs. Resch, recalled to answer questions which she refused to answer Saturday concerning the life story of Irene, returned to the stand. She said that as far as she knew Irene had written the original story herself and it had been rewritten in New York. She was excused from the stand by the prosecution upon revealing the name of the man who had rewritten the story and in whose possession the original manuscript was said to be.

REQUEST FOR WRITER

Margiotti immediately after adjournment of the night session, dictated a telegram to New York, asking that the man who had rewritten the story be sent to New Castle to aid the state in its case, and he was awaiting an answer to the wire today.

Mrs. Minnie McKibben, New Castle policewoman, who made the trip to Arizona to bring back the fugitives, Sheriff Frank J. Johnston, and C. Harver Millholland completed the commonwealth's lineup of witnesses at the night session. A total of 93 witnesses were called by the state in presentation of its case.

Lawrence Drum, of Toledo, a chain store manager, testified for the state that Irene and Dague held him up in his store.

Predicts Lynchings If Chicago Gang War Goes On

CHICAGO, March 18.—(INS)—Authorities today were weighing the prediction of John Maynard Harlan, veteran attorney, who prophesied that public lynchings will be resorted to in Chicago's war on crime unless some positive action is taken to end gang killings.

In an address before Methodist ministers last night Harlan asked his audience if Chicago citizenry will be forced to take the law into its own hands.

"Criminals will discover if we do that that lamp posts will be useful for other purposes than street lighting," he said.

MARION DAVIES' TULIPS WIN

NEW YORK, March 18.—(United Press)—Three floors of Grand Central Palace are devoted to the charms of Queen Flora, with the main floor devoted entirely to colossal garden competitions.

The Marion Davies' tulips are located in an Italian terrace garden of John T. Scheepers, which was awarded the gold medal. The dainty tulips named for the motion picture actress, are light rose pink shading lighter toward the end of the petals.

The "President Hoover Rose" and the "Mrs. Herbert Hoover Rose" were medal winners at the show.

The "President Hoover Rose," a deep pink and yellow bloom, exhibited by L. B. Coddington, of Murray Hill, N. J., received the gold medal presented by the American Rose Society for any new rose not yet disseminated, scoring 90 points.

The "Mrs. Herbert Hoover Rose," a crimson flower, also exhibited by Coddington, received the International Flower Show silver medal offered for a novelty rose not yet disseminated, scoring not less than 85 points.

DAGUE QUERIED TO HELP IRENE

"Who told you?"

"Irene."

"Who is Tom Crawford?"

"Irene's brother."

GUNS DECLARED SOLD

"How long did you have that gun in your possession?"

"Since I bought it."

"Did Irene Schroeder ever have it?"

"Once."

"Before or after the shooting?"

"Before."

"Where is the gun now?"

"I sold it in Fort Worth, Tex."

"What happened to Irene's gun?"

"I sold it in Tulsa, Okla., for $8."

"Didn't you throw that gun away?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you throw your own gun away?"

"No."

TAKEN FROM OFFICERS

"Upon leaving New Castle did you and Irene have your guns?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you have any other gun from the time you left New Castle until your arrest in Arizona?"

"I did. I had a Colt .38 special."

"Where did you get it?"

"On the Butler road."

"Is that the Moore gun we have talked about?"

"Yes, sir."

"Any other gun?"

"Yes, one I got in St. Louis from an officer."

"Did you have any other gun?"

"No, sir."

ST. LOUIS BATTLE

"Did you fire a revolver in St. Louis?"

"Yes, sir."

"The gun you had on the Butler road?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say that gun was a .38—don't you know that that gun of yours was a .32?"

"No, sir."

"Was your gun larger or smaller than Irene's gun?"

"Mine was larger."

"Did you talk with Sheriff Wright in Phoenix?"

"The sheriff questioned me."

"Did he ask you about the gun you had at New Castle?"

TOLD SHERIFF JOHNSTON.

"I talked to him about the guns, but I never told him what kind."

"Did you tell him you had a .38?"

"No, sir."

"Did you tell anyone you had a .38?"

"Yes, Sheriff Johnston."

"When?"

"Night before last."

"But you didn't mention this .38 until this trial began?"

"No, sir."

Dague denied making a statement to newspapermen relative to the New Castle shooting, when interviewed in the Phoenix jail.

"There was a statement they brought in for me to sign, but I didn't sign it," he explained.

He also denied telling Phoenix officials that he had a .32 caliber revolver, that Irene had a .38; that Tom Crawford had a .32, and that he got rid of them all.

"Did you shoot Brady Paul?"

"No, sir."

Defense counsel requested that the question and answer be stricken from the record, and a long side-bar conference resulted, and the court granted the request.

Skeyhill Lectures At Y. M. & W. H. A.

CHAPTER VII.

NOW we had two guns. So we started on the career which is only a few months old but seems like a hundred years and has put us where we are today.

Glenn Dague and I did everything we possibly could to make an honest living, but no matter where we went we ran up against a stone wall.

I guess it was all because we were wronging other people with our love, but Glenn never said that, but was awfully kind and considerate and petted me like a baby. I suppose the reason I took to him was because he was the only one, except my dead mother, who ever treated me kindly. I learned to love Glenn Dague and I love him with all my heart. I would do anything, or sacrifice anything for his benefit.

They can cut me in pieces for him.

Warned Of Guns

WHEN we bought the two guns in a Pittsburgh hardware store, the man there told us we would do better to take one gun that worked for our money instead of the two he wouldn't guarantee.

He said: "Don't blame me if the darn things blow up in your hands the first time you fire them. I told you what to expect."

He wasn't interested in a story we had ready about wanting the guns for self-protection because we lived in a lonely house in the country. He just turned them over and took our money.

We already had the gas station spotted where we were going to try out our first crime. It was on the road south out of Pittsburgh. We never had much nerve. We always picked lonely poor-looking places to take money from and never got more than a few dollars.

Glenn told me to stay on the outside and look out while he went in and got the money from the man's cash register. But when we parked our car with Donnie in it and started to go, I went, too.

It was always like that. I never would be left outside while Glenn was risking his life and liberty. At the last minute I always butted in. Most of the time I managed to beat Glenn in the door so that if there was a shot I would get it instead of him.

I just figured it would be a smaller loss if I got killed than if he did.

It was funny how the Pittsburgh robbery turned out.

$11 Robbery

THE first thing Glenn said was: "It was only eleven dollars, honey. It doesn't pay."

Then I thought about those guns and said: "I was more scared than the gas-station man. I was thinking about what the hardware man said about the guns exploding in our hands."

So we went on until we came to a woods far away from houses, and stopped there to try the guns. We fired into a tree trunk.

Glenn tried his first. He pointed it and I waited.

I said: "Why don't you shoot, honey?"

Glenn said: "I did, five times, but it won't go off."

He pulled the trigger over and over again, but nothing happened. Then I tried mine. It went off the first time, and kicked out of my hand. I wasn't expecting the gun to kick so hard. But it shot that once and never again. One shot ruined the old thing and it was no good.

We went back to the hardware man and told him what had happened about the guns and he said: "I told you so."

Guns Went Bad

WE bought two guns from him that he said were better. But he cheated us. Because the two new ones were just as bad, and after we fired them once, into a tree, they jammed and were ruined.

Christmas was coming on, and Glenn and I wondered whether it would be safe to go home and have a real Christmas dinner with the family. We read in the papers about how the police were arresting couples, where the girl was little and blonde and the man was something like Glenn.

When we saw that they were going to try one of these couples, we figured it would be safe to go home, so we sent a postcard to Mrs. Ray Schroeder, my sister, in Bellaire, Ohio, saying we would bring Donie and spend Christmas Day with them.

INDIAN MURDER TRIAL SET

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.)—Lila Jimerson, love-crazed Indian, will go on trial in County Court tomorrow on a charge of having inspired the brutal murder of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, wife of Henry Marchand, artist-sculptor, on March 6.

Decision to begin the trial this week was made by Judge F. Bret Thorn, after District Attorney Guy B. Moore had announced he would oppose any motion for a further stay. John V. Maloney and John S. Knibloe, assigned to the defense by the court, said later that they were ready to proceed with the trial.

Old Nancy Bowen, who admits the actual slaying of Mrs. Marchand, following promptings by "spirits" and the ouija board, will be the state's main witness, Moore said. She will be asked to repeat on the witness stand how Lila moved the planchette of the ouija board and from its movements told her that the spirit of Chief Charley Bowen, Nancy's dead husband, decreed that Mrs. Marchand was a witch and that she should be killed.

There is a possibility that an insanity plea will be offered for Lila, if the defense alienist, who is examning her, files a report indicating she is mentally unbalanced. The defense attorneys are now awaiting the alienists' report.

Marchand, arrested as a material witness on Saturday, announced that he would make no effort to raise the $25,000 bail demanded. He said that he felt safer in jail. Although he admits friendship with Lila, he emphatically denies that he knew anything of the plan to kill his wife.

3 STATES JOIN HUNT FOR FLIER

SALT LAKE CITY, March 18.—(AP.)—Scores of residents of California, Nevada and Utah, have volunteered for a search to be made in Southern Utah by the Postoffice Department for the missing airplane of Maurice Graham, Western Air Express pilot, Charles F. Dutton, in charge of postal inspector in this district, announced.

Mr. Dutton left for Los Angeles to confer with officials of the air line in an attempt to secure cooperation of Western Air Express fliers and financial assistance for the search.

Graham has been missing since January 7, when he left Las Vegas, Nev., in a blizzard with a cargo of mail for Salt Lake City.

Princeton Benefits In Will of Isham

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Princeton University will eventually receive more than a million dollars under the will of William Isham, philanthropist, who died April 1, 1929, leaving an estate of $3,746,543, a transfer appraisal filed here disclosed.

Princeton will receive the remainder of a life trust of $1,762,682, which is one-half the residue, upon the death of Mrs. Hannah Collins Isham, the widow, as well as the remainder of the value of her residence, appraised at $140,000.

LAMONT LAUDS PROSPERITY PROGRAM

Sees No Over-Stimulation Of Construction in Hoover Project for Expansion

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Over-stimulation of construction will not result from the program inaugurated by President Hoover to speed public building and expansion by utilities, railroads and other private enterprise, Secretary of Commerce Lamont said today.

On the other hand, if the results are as favorable as those which followed similar methods in 1921, when business was sagging with the post-war and reconstruction malady, there should be several years of real prosperity following 1930.

CITES 1921 MOVE

Lamont pointed out that a strong effort was exerted to encourage building, both private and public, and to bring about expansion of public utilities in 1921. Seven years of successful business followed, frequently referred to as years of "unparalleled prosperity."

"In 1923 the Secretary of Commerce urged the President to take steps looking to the curtailment of federal construction work, so as not to pyramid construction costs, in view of the beginning of a wave of private expansion," Lamont said.

"This was done and federal construction of public buildings went down in 1924 by 50 per cent as compared to 1923, and 65 per cent below 1922.

"Thus federal construction proves a balance wheel to be held in position to influence the situation when necessary. At this time we have started the expansion of federal building and it is anticipated the effect will be favorable."

"CATCH UP" PROGRAM

Another phase of the situation which Lamont believes would refute any claim that over-expansion, followed by a serious let down next year is threatened, was that a considerable portion of the planned $7,000,000,000 in public and private construction work is made up of projects which have been held up for several years because of high interest rates, or for other causes.

In Lamont's opinion the work contemplated will be in the nature of a "catch up," leaving a normal volume of new construction work for future years. The stimulation resulting from the $7,000,000,000 program should go far to putting business back on an even keel and toward eliminating unemployment, Lamont felt.

New German Law Permits Return Of Ex-Kaiser

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP.)—The Reichstag today adopted the new law for the protection of the republic by a vote of 265 to 150.

The law supersedes the old defense law which went out of operation July 22, 1929.

Under the old law, the former kaiser was specifically forbidden to re-enter Germany. The new law does not contain this provision and while under it Wilhelm theoretically would be free to return, Nobody, not even the monarchists, considers even the possibility of his return.

LINKING OF RAIL, SHIP, AUTO, AIR LINES SEEN

Billion to Be Spent This Year in Revolutionizing Travel, Atterbury Says

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 18.—A development and expansion program that will revolutionize American transportation has been instituted, and $1,000,000,000 will be spent this year to advance it, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, says in an interview which will appear in the American Magazine.

"The practice of treating automobiles, ships, aircraft and railroads as separate agencies is wasteful." Gen. Atterbury says. He regards co-ordination as the key to the present railroad problem.

SAVING IN TIME

Gen. Atterbury estimates that the running-time between Chicago and New York will be reduced from 20 hours to 14 within a few years.

"We have already spent $6,000,000,000, yet what has been been done is only a beginning. Between $8,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 will be spent in the next 10 years," Gen. Atterbury said.

LUXURIOUS TRAINS

"Future trains," he continues, "will be as luxurious as hotels, and passengers will be able to take their automobiles with them as if they were baggage. Radiophones will keep travelers in touch with their offices and homes."

With the eventual consolidation of competing railroads, which, Gen. Atterbury believes, the Interstate Commerce Commission will permit, will come a scrapping of some routes and the substitution of motor highways for the right-of-ways.

Agony of Seeing Pet Dog's Death Kills Woman

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., March 18.—(AP.—Excitement induced by seeing her pet dog killed by an automobile today was blamed for a heart attack that proved fatal to Louise Boyd Dickinson, 69, widow of Nathan Dickinson, founder of the Dickinson Seed Company, Chicago. She was stricken Sunday night, a few minutes after witnessing her pet's death.

300 Attend Dinner Of Bridgeville C. of C.

More than 300 members attended the third annual banquet of the Bridgeville Chamber of Commerce in Bonnett's ballroom last night. Speakers were Frank J. Schaffer, representing the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce; Congressman Guy E. Campbell, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, James A. Ellis, president of the Chamber; P. J. Callaghan, president of Bridgeville Council, and Dr. S. C. McGarvey, president of the Bridgeville School Board. Senator Frank J. Harris was toastmaster.

DAVIS PETITION PREPARED FOR CIRCULATION

Clerks in County Office Prepared to Act; Kline Visited by Godcharles

Clerks in the county commissioners' office were expected to put in circulation today petitions to place Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in nomination for United States senator in opposition to Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Davis visited Pittsburgh over the week-end and announced his candidacy Sunday. Immediately after his arrival Saturday, he spent an hour at the home of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman.

Former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, who announced his candidacy some time ago, is due in Pittsburgh tonight, after attending the funeral of former Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh at Huntingdon, Pa.

PLANS CONFERENCE

Brown is coming to Pittsburgh to represent a client before the State Supreme Court, and in leisure time to confer with Western Pennsylvania political leaders. He expects to meet Armstrong tomorrow.

Nomination petition blanks for Davis, Brown, Grundy and Lewis were forwarded to the County Commissioners' office about three weeks ago. Armstrong did not authorize the distribution of the papers until yesterday, and from all appearances the orders apply only to Davis and Brown petitions.

Armstrong explained when he received the petition blanks that the county commissioners' office was a public institution and all submitted nomination petitions would be held available for anyone who wanted to sign or distribute them.

Armstrong has not announced his choice of state candidates, but few well-informed observers doubt that he will support Davis and Brown.

Friends Get Signatures To Nominate Leslie

Friends of State Senator M. G. Leslie, who is expected to return next Monday from Atlantic City, began yesterday to get signers on petitions to nominate him for another term.

Supporters of Mayor Charles H. Kline, who threatened opposition to Leslie, seem to have centered on Attorney Herman Ruoff, of the Nineteenth Ward, as the candidate to fight the veteran legislator.

Leslie and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackerell, who supported James F. Malone for Mayor against Kline, are counted upon as sympathetic with the Davis and Brown candidacies.

Davis is expected to return to Pittsburgh March 29 to deliver a non-political address before Hazelwood-Glenwood labor and fraternal organizations at a meeting in Odd Fellows Hall, Second and Flowers avenues.

Plans for opening the Grundy-Lewis campaign in this section appear to have been deferred until the return late this week of W. L. Mellon, reported as being favorable to Grundy.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where he conferred with former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, independent Republican candidate for another term.

Marcus Files Petition For State Legislature

Attorney Joseph C. Marcus has filed petitions with the State Elections Bureau as a candidate for re-election to the Legislature from the First District, according to word from Harrisburg.

Followers of Mayor Kline were said to be gunning for Marcus and his colleague, Joseph R. Lynch, because of their support of Malone.

Reports were current yesterday that Joseph Engelsberg and Harry Feldman, the Mayor's leaders in the Third and Fifth wards, had indorsed Charles Solomon, of the Third Ward, and Walter Tucker, a Negro, of the Fifth Ward, to carry the administration's colors in the Legislature fight against Marcus and Lynch.

Nomination petitions were taken out yesterday for these Legislature candidates: Lawrence Dunn, Second district; A. Dudley Devlin, Third; Edward C. Kroll, Sixth; Pat J. Carr, Eighth; John W. Hanna, Tenth, and Dale T. Powell, Twelfth.

Friends of Judge D. M. Miller, of Hampton Township, who has been a member of the County Court 18 years, are urging him to permit his name to be submitted in the Bar Associations' referendum as a candidate for the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Richard W. Martin.

SLATING DENIED BY GODCHARLES

Frederick A. Godcharles, of Northumberland County, candidate for secretary of internal affairs, here today denied reports that he had been slated to run on the Grundy-Lewis ticket.

"I am not on either ticket as yet," he said during a visit at the office of Mayor Charles H. Kline.

He declared he would be a candidate whether slated by either the Grundy-Lewis or the Davis-Brown faction, stating that he had petitions from 36 counties ready to file.

"I asked Mayor Kline to keep me in mind if he had an opportunity to help me," said Godcharles. "We served in the State Senate together and have been friends for a long time."

Mr. Godcharles left for Kittanning to address the Armstrong County Historical Society tonight.

Certainly today . . . it's Waterman's Patrician that has the call

Can you imagine a tray of exquisitely modelled pens set before you to choose from? Each seemingly lovelier and more colorful than the next: Emerald, deep Turquoise, Jet, variegated Nacre or Onyx. Then, to pick up one and see how perfectly it balances in your hand—how easily it pushes across the page—how smoothly the ink flows.

And then to realize that this beautiful new Patrician is, after all, a Waterman's—handcrafted with all that meticulous care that goes into the making of a fine watch. A pen that only years and years of experience could possibly have achieved . . . and one that will last you for years and years. Boxed at $10.00. Mechanical pencil to match, $5.00.

Waterman's No. 7 at $7.00—offering the famous Waterman's range of seven readily identified points—each one scientifically adapted to basic handwriting characteristics. Ninety-seven per cent of all pen users will find among them the one point exactly suited to their hands. Try them all and find yours.

Waterman's No. 5 at $5.00—Five points for choice—ranging from fine to stub. An unusually good pen for a moderate price—built to meet Waterman's standard of fine craftsmanship—always dependable.

Good dealers everywhere carry wide stocks of Waterman's famous fountain pens, mechanical pencils, and Waterman's inks which make any fountain pen write better. Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

Isabelle M. Hanbury

In a Dramatized Talk on

"The Art of Conversation"

Auditorium, Seventh Floor

Miss Hanbury, a "critic of first impressions," a world-wide traveler and an author and lecturer of country-wide fame, will explain how any woman may acquire the admirable conversational art of cultured women; secrets of that "je ne sais quoi" left us by the world's most fascinating women; and methods of accentuating or modifying age.

Her program calls for a lecture every day this week, at 2:30 p. m., as follows:

Thursday . . . . . Distinction of Poise
Friday . . . . . Successful Host and Guest
Saturday . . . . . Secrets of Fascination

Practical Little Chimney Lamps

$1.95 Complete

Quaint little lamps, as attractive as can be, for the bedside table, end table, hallway table or any corner that needs light and color. Complete with paper parchment shades, with a copy of a French print. The bases are pewter-finished, 11½ inches high. We know that many homemakers will want two or three of them, the price is so low.

Colonial Floor Lamps

$4.50 Complete

These lamps have an oil font on the adjustable arm. The bases are all-steel finish, with three-footed stands. Shades are parchmentized, vellum finish and leather bound, with a neat decoration. You'll find many occasions to use one—in the living room, sunroom or sewing room.

Small Pottery Table Lamps, $3.95

Decorative vase-shape bases in solid colors—green, rose and yellow—for end tables, desks or bedside tables. Parchmentized shades that blend nicely with the colors of the bases; some have French prints, others have cut-out decorated borders. Complete for $3.95.

ANOTHER SLAIN IN RUM WAR

PATERSON, N. J., March 18 (AP.)—Milton Green, alias Doll Green, alias Joe Gordon, 26, of Newark, alleged racketeer and bootlegger, was found dead in his furnished room with a bullet wound just above his right ear. A 32-caliber revolver was lying near his body. One bullet had been discharged.

Police believe Green was murdered and suspect that his death was the result of a feud between beer runners and hijackers which flared up several months ago when Archie Senville was shot and wounded. Senville refused to give police any information, but Green was suspected as one of the gang who fired upon Senville.

Shortly before the time of the finding of Green's body, Henry Engel, wealthy bootlegger, who was "placed on the spot" within a few feet of his Elizabeth saloon last Thursday, was being buried in that city in an expensive bronze casket.

Wife of Minister Wins $10,000 Balm

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—A jury awarded a judgment of $10,000 to Mrs. Sadie H. Wing against Mrs. Ethel Klingerman for alienating the affections of the Rev. J. O. Wing.

Mrs. Wing sued for $25,000 alleging that Mrs. Klingerman, a member of El Monte Christian Church, where Mr. Wing was pastor, met her husband secretly in the church and sent him love notes.

Von Hindenburg Signs Debt Pact

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP.)—President Von Hindenburg today signed the series of liquidation agreements which was approved by the Reichstag last week with the Young plan bill and the German-American agreement.

MUSIC

Amy Neill Quartet

Carnegie Lecture Hall

PROGRAM

Quartet in D Major ..... Haydn
Quartet No. 2 ..... Leo Weiner
Quartet in E Flat Major ..... Dvorak

One of the best chamber music concerts heard this winter was played by the Amy Neill Quartet in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night. This foursome of very talented ladies played for us last season and only confirmed our first opinion of their playing, that they are mature musicians and that their music can stand alongside the best.

Fred Lissfelt

The program offered a very classic quartet, a very modern work, and one from the best contributor to Slav music. The surprise of the program was Leo Weiner's quartet, rich in music content, in emotion and workmanship. It is far more agreeable music and clearer than most anarchistic present-day Bohemian music. The Haydn and Dvorak were both typical of their authors.

Amy Neill is a vigorous leader and her personality governs the quartet. Its tone is always pure and large, there is much grace in all its phrasing, and great freedom in even Haydn's set forms. Stella Roberts, Charlotte Polak and Lois Bichl complete the quartet.

They played Grainger's "Molly on the Shore" as encore.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the presidency of Mexico in the last election, sailed on the liner Pennsylvania yesterday for Guatemala, where he predicted a new revolution will occur.

ITALIANS FIRM ON SEA PARITY

LONDON, March 18.—(AP.)—The Italian delegation to the naval conference was reported today to have held firmly to its stand at the outset of the naval conference for naval parity with France.

Secretary Stimson, undertaking the role of mediator in the Franco-Italian naval dispute in an effor to solve the problem which is threatening the outcome of the conference, had a conversation with Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, this afternoon.

James E. Fenton, Australian minister for trade and customs, delegate, announced today the Australian delegation had provisionally booked return passage for Australia for April 12.

District Attorney Leads Lottery Raid

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 18.—With a raid personally conduced by District Attorney J. B. Adams and the arrest of three men, war was declared on the Clearing House pools extensively operated in this vicinity. John W. Rawlins and Morris Kaplan, both of Long Branch, N. J., were held under $1,500 bail each. Peter Carter, a Negro, alleged to be a sub agent, also was arrested.

District Attorney Adams says that the bank books, pads, etc., seized in the raid, show that thousands of dollars were collected daily.

A NEW ANGLE on the USED CAR situation

Consider a used car as unused transportation and you will readily understand why so many are bought and used with complete satisfaction.

New models are continually being introduced. Those who can afford to pay the price sacrifice their investment and trade their cars for the latest thing on the market. You can profit from the vanity of others. Buy one of these "trade ins" and get a good car—a car representing 80% of its original value at 60% of its original cost. Millions of shrewd car buyers do this every year.

Now, while the Third Annual Used Car Sale is in progress, is your opportunity to make a most advantageous purchase of a used car. Dealers must clear away their stocks to make room and liquidate their assets for new car business later in the spring. Naturally they are prepared and willing to sacrifice profits to do so.

Turn to the Classified Section and see the "used car buys" listed there. You can find the make and the model at the price you can afford to pay. When you locate the cars you wish to inspect, go to the dealer's show rooms and see them. These prices and offers are too good to last.

FREE 3, HOLD 2 IN HOLDUPS

Found innocent of participating in several holdups, three boys were discharged this morning in Morals Court by Judge Thomas D. Jones.

The boys are Peter Kuzma, 19, of 306 Forward avenue; John Trasodic, 19, of 3703 Alexis street, and Emil Kirish, 18, 214 Four Mile Run road.

Two other youths, Michael Wanack, 19, of 94 Boundary street, and Edward Woods, 22, of 430 Naylor street, were held for further investigation on the testimony of Inspector James Hoey.

Wanack and Woods were arrested Saturday morning when police found them in Schenley Park. According to police, Wanack admitted to nine robberies and Woods to four. Both boys implicated Kuzma, Trasodic and Kirish. Arrest followed a series of holdups thought to have been committed by young bandits.

HOLD MAJOR IN WIFE'S DEATH

DENVER, Col., March 18.—(AP.)—Charged with fatally poisoning his wife, Maj. Charles A. Shepard, surgeon at Fitzsimmons Veterans Hospital, was in jail here today, following his arrest by federal officers on a fugitive warrant from Topeka, Kan.

Mrs. Shepard died last June 15 in Fort Riley, Kan. Later when reports that she had met foul play arose, an investigation was started. Her remains were disinterred and an autopsy performed. Toxicologists' reports to army officers at Fort Riley said death resulted from poison.

Maj. Shepard vigorously denied the charge after his arrest.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength, get nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac has restored to health and activity thousands who suffered just as you do—many of them right here in town. For instance, here is a letter from Mr. Nicholas Buynak, who says: "Indigestion was carrying me down at an alarming rate. One time it had me laid up in bed for six weeks. Tanlac has me eating, sleeping, and feeling fine and I don't believe it has an equal."

Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer. It corrects the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. It restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

The Doctor Talks to Mother and Daughter—

YOU CAN'T AFFORD experiments with your delicate system. What you both need is a tonic which Dr. Pierce long ago prescribed for women who were rundown, nervous, weak—who had sideache and functional disturbances. This he put up in handy form. You can get it at any drug store."

In the past sixty years this "Prescription" has sold more generally than any other tonic. When your doctor tells you to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, he has given you a simple thing to do. But back of this advice is the sixty-year record of the benefit derived from it by women in every walk of life and in every town and hamlet in the Union. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., for free and confidential medical advice.

ONE MOTHER SAYS—

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest help in motherhood of anything a woman can take. I know this from actual experience. I was in very poor health, was so weak, nervous and rundown that I was only able to be up part of the time. I feared the outcome. But, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I was soon able to be around doing my housework."—Mrs. Mabel Roush, 117 Parkhurst St., Pittsburgh (N. S.), Pa.

J. J. CAMPBELL DIES IN WEST

Pittsburgh relatives late last night received word of the death of James J. Campbell, 63, vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company in Pasadena, Cal., yesterday. Mrs. Campbell was with him when he died.

Mr. Campbell, who became vice president succeeding W. W. Blackburn, in 1927, had been associated with the Carnegie Steel Company 45 years. He was born in Washington. One of his first jobs was painting cannon balls in front of the Washington Arsenal. He came to Pittsburgh in 1886 and entered the employ of Carnegie Brothers & Company, Ltd., which later became a part of the Carnegie Steel Company.

He was an executive and director in the Bessemer Electric Power Company, Carnegie Land Company, Carnegie Gas Company, Clairton By-Product Coke Company, Clairton Land Company, Conneaut Land Company, Girard Land Company, Mahoning Limestone Company, Pennsylvania and Lake Erie Dock Company, Pennsylvania Trust Company, Pittsburgh Limestone Company, St. Clair Limestone Company, Sharon Land Company, United States Steel and Carnegie Pension Funds and the Union Steel Company.

He was a member of the Shadyside United Presbyterian Church, the University and Duquesne Clubs, and the Carnegie Veterans' Association.

Besides his widow he leaves a son, James J. Campbell, Jr., a daughter, Mrs. Harold E. Williams; two sisters, Miss Martha Campbell and Miss Isabelle Campbell, and a brother, Henry Campbell, all of Pittsburgh.

Gets Fine or Jail For Accosting Girl

Mrs. Katherine Gibson, of Chateau street, testified in Morals Court today that a Negro followed her 15-year-old daughter along the street and spoke to the girl. The Negro, Fletcher Lee, 19, of Monhagen street, was fined $25 with the option of 30 days in the workhouse.

Scan Numbering In Wilkinsburg

The Wilkinsburg borough engineering department is making a survey to untangle scrambled house numbers in certain sections of the borough, it became known today. Residents of Penn avenue, Mill street and the Third ward have complained that variance in numbers has caused confusion.

Man's Death Caused By Gas Poisoning

Carbon monoxide poisoning was believed to have caused the death of Ambrose Sivak, 45, of 30 First street, Leetsdale, whose body was found in his home by Patrolman James Mercer last night. The officer found Sivak's body lying near a burning gas stove, according to the coroner's report.

SMALLPOX HITS GANDHI'S BAND

ANAND, Bombay Presidency, India, March 18.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi and his volunteer marchers, opening the civil disobedience campaign left here this morning for the village of Napa, leaving behind one of their number stricken with smallpox.

The Mahatma is greatly fatigued from his four days of marching from Ahmadabad, but was refreshed by the halt and his day of silence here. Reports that he is suffering from rheumatism were denied.

Historic Mill Razed By Fire in Sharon

SHARON, Pa., March 18.—The Gaugh Flour and Lumber Mill, one of the most famous landmarks of this section, and a house were destroyed by fire today. The loss was placed to $25,000. An explosion in the boiler room was believed to have started the blaze.

Dainty Frock For Home Sewing

Pattern 1863

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Any mother will enjoy making this adorable frock for her small girl. It is so very easy to cut and sew, and the results are astonishingly lovely. The rounded neck and the deep collar are very becoming. A pert bow of grosgrain ribbon adds a chic touch.

Pattern 1863 may be made of dotted swiss, dimity, voile, batiste, organdie or crepe de chine. All white, white with colored dots or a pastel shade dotted in white may be chosen for charming results. Colored ribbon should be used for the shoulder bow.

Designed only for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 2½ yards of 39-inch material and 1 yard ribbon.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE WANTED.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

A COLD

As soon as you realize you've taken cold—take some tablets of Bayer Aspirin. Almost before your head can stuff-up, you feel your cold is conquered. Those aches and pains you felt coming on will soon subside. Relief is almost instantaneous! Even if your cold has gained headway, and your temples throb and your very bones ache, these tablets will bring prompt relief. It is better, of course, to take Bayer Aspirin at the very first sneeze or cough—it will head-off the cold and spare you much discomfort. Get the genuine, with proven directions for colds and headaches; neuralgia, neuritis, sore throat, and many important uses.

BAYER ASPIRIN

"Isn't it great to have your mouth feel the way mine feels? My mouth feels fine!

"I don't know who started saying that about Strasska Tooth Paste, but they certainly knew what they were talking about.

"I've told a hundred people to try Strasska's and 98 have thanked me for the tip. Once more, all together, my mouth feels fine."

It certainly pleases me to know I've given pleasure to thousands.

I have a 30-day tube I'll send you for the asking.

TRIPLE ACTION

ENDS COUGHS THE MEDICAL WAY

No other cough syrup has it!

He was sure he was in for his usual winter colds!

"I AM very susceptible to colds and when I had to go out selling in the worst day of the winter, I was sure I was in for my usual prolonged cold and coughing spell. When I came home that night, however, I took Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. Almost immediately I felt better. My nose cleared up, my cough stopped.

"After that, every time I began sniffling or coughing, I reached for Smith Brothers'. All winter long Smith Brothers' kept me well.

"I can't begin to figure out how much money and worry Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup has saved me." MRS. A. MELVIN "Home from a birthday party . . . coughing and sneezing."

"THERE was Doris at the front door—she came home from the party coughing and sneezing. Poor kid—believe me, I was scared. I bundled her up nice and warm, kept her in the house and gave her Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. By seven o'clock she felt much better and ate her dinner. The cough cleared up, the cold passed away. In two days she was back in school again . . ."

BOLES, 'RIO RITA, STAR, AIR ARTIST TONIGHT

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

LISTENERS will hear John Boles, star of "Rio Rita," sing "Song of the Dawn" when the Old Gold Hour goes on WJAS at 9 o'clock tonight. Lloyd Hughes, another movie star, will speak.

"Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Lost Chord" will lend a sentimental vein to the Libby program on KDKA at 8:30.

Sara Lee

Music lovers never tire of the Habanera from "Carmen," an offering in the 9:30 Sunoco Show from KDKA.

That most touching of subjects, "Loyalty," will be discussed by Dr. Carl Wallace Petty during the 7:30 Evening Altar program on KDKA.

Two good concerts at 8 o'clock will be the Vincent Lopez Purol Orchestra, KDKA, and Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, WJAS.

PITTER-PATTER

If a microphone had been turned on in studio F of the NBC Building one evening last week, listeners would have heard a realistic sound effect of a rainstorm, "Johnny" Johnstone writes us. A decorator at work in the studio accidentally set off the sprinkling system installed in all studios. The studio was two inches deep in water before the "rainstorm" could be turned off. Too bad Harbor Lights wasn't scheduled.

* * *

Steel chairs, organically incapable of squeaking, have been installed in KayDee studios.

Beautiful hair!

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant!

Hundreds of Thousands Of Wise Americans Demand Kruschen Salts

Keeps you in good health all the time—skin clear and body free from fat.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America a few months ago—yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain.

One-half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver, bowels and kidneys to healthy elimination.

But the six vitalizing and rejuvenating salts in Kruschen do more than cause regular elimination—the man or woman who takes them regularly need have no fear of poisons polluting the system, which is the cause of many annoying and depressing ills.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, depression, acidity and auto-intoxication.

Not only that, but one bottle will bring about body activity—increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and freedom from pimples and blemishes—millions know all this—you ought to know it.

Grieves Over Wife, Hangs Himself

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers — especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh cathartics and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

CASE REOPENED ON OIL BRIBES

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(AP.)—Reopening of the "whole Julian Petroleum Affair" was announced by District Attorney Buron Fitts with appointment of Frank Stafford, former deputy district attorney, as special prosecutor.

Asa Keyes, Fitts' predecessor, is in San Quentin penitentiary for taking bribes to "lay down" on prosecution of those charged with responsibility for the $100,000,000 overissue of Julian Petroleum Corporation stock. E. H. Rosenberg, convicted with Keyes, also is serving time.

Anti-Sunday Show Act Up at Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va., March 18.—A copy of a new ordinance, which, if passed will prohibit the showing of motion pictures on Sunday, in Wheeling, was presented to City Clerk Howard Lane today by a committee representing the Wheeling Ministerial Association. The ordinance will be presented to City Council at the session this evening. The theaters have been operating since December 22, every Sunday.

Real Estate

The Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youghiogheny Railroad has taken title to 11 properties adjoining its line in McKeesport near the Youghiogheny River bridge for a total consideration of $97,877. The realty was deeded by John A. Sharp, who purchased it for the railroad from the original owners. The lots are in Windsor street, Erie street, Pacific avenue, Hickory alley, Ruth street, Atlantic avenue, Rebecca street and West Fifth avenue. The ground was originally intended as the approach for a new bridge.

In Duquesne, the Carnegie Steel Company purchased a property in Fifth street from Charles L. Inglefield for $25,000 and a lot in the same street from Leon Stalozynski for $4,500.

A brick apartment at 4008-10 Windsor street, Fifteenth Ward, has been sold by Benjamin Tongue to Rebecca Siegel, et al. The lot is 56x100 feet.

A house in Gross street, Bloomfield, lot 27x120 feet, has been sold by the Celia Bayne estate to Edward G. McCabe for $12,000.

A frame store and apartment at Glen Mawr avenue and Hammond street, Sheraden, lot 25x100 feet, has been sold by Harry T. Hoffman to Elizabeth C. Kenny for $10,000.

The Edgeworth Country Club has purchased from William Leax a tract in Wilkins Township.

In Bellevue, Allan H. Kelly has sold to William Breckenridge 41x85 feet with a house in Highland place for $7,000.

In Esplen, Lawrence P. Welte has conveyed to G. Hampton Moore 28x118 feet in Lorenz avenue.

In Mt. Lebanon, William W. Reynolds has sold to James F. Kratzer two lots in Avon drive.

Howard Irish has sold to J. S. Arthur 60x133 feet in Altadena drive, Mt. Lebanon. The buyer will build a home. The deal was made through the Commonwealth Real Estate Company.

The Freehold Real Estate Company has sold for Peter Donati to Winfield H. Binns a stone dwelling in Longuevue drive, Mt. Lebanon. The buyer will take immediate possession.

Nebraska Claims Golden Wedding Championship

LINCOLN, Neb., March 18.—(AP.)—The golden wedding anniversary record has been established in Nebraska.

Eighty-five couples observed their fiftieth wedding anniversaries in February, and this, according to Henry A. Brainerd, historian for the State Press Association, sets a new all-time mark in this state. The mark is 10 greater than the previous high total for any month during the several years Brainerd has kept such statistics.

Wife Sues for Fees In Divorce Action

Mrs. Zuie Wagner, Henderson street, North Side, filed suit in Common Pleas Court yesterday for counsel fees and expenses to contest the suit for divorce recently brought by her husband, Julius J. Wagner, Sewickley. Declaring her husband has property valued at $40,000, Mrs. Wagner places his income at $20,000 a year. The couple were married February 7, 1914.

Yale Professor's Child Shot at Play

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 18.—(INS.)—Patricia Davis, 9, daughter of Prof. Jerome Davis of Yale, is fighting for her life in New Haven Hospital today as the result of being accidentally shot late yesterday by John Goss, 7, while they were "playing Indians."

WARNS AGAINST PLANTING PINES

A warning against planting pine trees in the city and county districts north of the Allegheny and Ohio Rivers and the district between the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers, was issued today by Frank Shaffer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce committee on forestry. The warning was issued in connection with the extensive program of reforestation which the chamber plans to conduct during the ensuing year.

Shaffer stated that it would be a mistake to set out pine trees in those districts swept by the smoke laden southwest wind, with the knowledge that these trees not only would not thrive, but would probably die out within a few years. Mr. Shaffer also said that next to suffering from the effects of smoke were fruit trees, including cherry, plum and apple.

Mad Dog Bites Stock, Killed With Hammer

MERCER, Pa., March 18.—County Agent Harry Higbee of the State Department of Animal Industry, has received word that the dog killed by George McCoy, East Lackawannock Township, after it bit 12 head of sheep and a heifer, was suffering with rabies, of the most pronounced type. McCoy killed the animal with a hammer.

Bible Class Will Pick New Officers

Officers will be chosen at the luncheon and meeting of the Alpha Bible Class of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church tonight in the church social rooms.

Again?
Men don't understand; and some women are so helpless. Each month they suffer untold pain, though those times could be entirely painless. Midol will make the periodic process peculiar to women an incident; yes, even for those who have always experienced prolonged suffering! Try Midol; anticipate your time and avoid all misery or even discomfort. Or take it when the pain is at its height, and feel at ease in five to seven minutes. Midol is not a narcotic; acts directly on organs affected. Fifty cents, metal case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

But After a BLOOD Test What?

That's the question that should interest every sufferer. The microscope tells a truthful story — the Laboratory tests are a matter of science—but what of THE TREATMENT? How soon can HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE be lowered to normal? Can the terrible pain of stomach troubles be relieved? Will the treatment stop the rheumatic pains racking the muscles and will the nerve-breaking insomnia yield? Will unsightly skin ailments disappear under treatment? Can the workingman and his family afford these treatments? All these questions find happy answers in the Health Service offered by this Institute.

Symptoms of a faulty blood stream we are successfully correcting: Anemia, Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Nervous Disorders, Skin Disorders—Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Impure Blood—Stomach Troubles. Over 35,000 patients successfully treated at this Laboratory.

HOME WILLED TO PROPHETS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18 (INS.)—James Rutherford, former Missouri Circuit judge and practicing attorney of St. Louis and Kansas City, has on file a will leaving his 10-room home here to the Biblical prophets "who soon will come to show men how to make themselves perfect."

Rutherford is president of the International Bible Students Association. He is 61.

Rutherford names himself as trustee of the amazing document which he placed on record so that "the divine principle will know imposters."

The patio of Rutherford's two-story home was planted to palm and olive trees and has a pool in the center.

"I purposely landscaped the garden," Rutherford's will declared, "so that when they come, they will feel at home."

By "they" he explained he meant David, Gideon, Barak, Sampson, Jephtha, Joseph and Samuel.

In another clause, Rutherford declared:

"I realize the possibility of some old codger turning up bright and early some morning and claiming he is King David."

Rutherford was born at Boonville, Mo., on November 8, 1869, the will declared.

M. E. PENSION FUND URGED

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Development of a reserve fund of $20,000,000 in the Methodist Episcopal Church for the pensioning of pastors who have reached the age of 65 was recommended in a report issued by the Church's National Commission on the Reserve Pension Fund.

The report proposed that the pension system go into effect March 15, 1931. The pensions would be equivalent to one half the average salary of the pastors in each conference.

The proposed reserve fund would be built up by contributions from each conference. In the first decade an amount equivalent to five and one half per cent of the aggregate salaries of the pastors would be paid annually into the fund by each conference; in the second decade the percentage would be six and one half and thereafter seven and one half per cent.

BAR SEEKS MAN FOR JUDGE

A committee to conduct an election among local attorneys recommending at least three attorneys to Gov. John S. Fisher as candidates to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Richard W. Martin, has been appointed by William Watson Smith, president of the Allegheny County Bar Association. At a meeting Friday it was decided to recommend three men to the Governor.

President Smith advised Gov. Fisher on Saturday of the intention of the bar association and expressed hope that he would defer filling the vacancy until the bar election to be held. Nominations must be filed by Friday noon with Secretary H. G. Tinker of the bar association.

The committee in charge of the detail of the election consists of Attorneys A. L. George, chairman; Arthur B. Van Buskirk, Miles H. England, H. V. Blaxter and George J. Campbell.

MORE STRICKEN BY GINGER

WICHITA, Kas., March 18.—(AP.)—Dr. R. E. Hobbs, city physician, said two men were treated here for paralysis resulting from drinking jamaica ginger. The two patients told their attending physician, Dr. Hobbs said, that they knew of a dozen similar cases in Wichita.

Failure to remove the denaturing ingredients from alcohol used in the manufacture of the Jamaica ginger was blamed by Hobbs.

RICHMOND, Ky., March 18.—(AP.)—Partial paralysis, believed to be of the type prevalent in several states and to be caused by poisonous alcohol, has made its appearance at Paint Lick, this county.

Five men there are partially paralyzed as a result of drinking Jamaica ginger, Dr. J. B. Floyd, city health officer, reported today, and he said he had reports of other cases. Three of the men were said to be in a serious condition.

BYRD TO START HOME SUNDAY

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 18.—(AP.)—Having definitely decided that the bark City of New York will sail homeward Sunday, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today recalled the members of his Antarctic expedition to their base here. Most of the expedition members have been vacationing in the mountains since their arrival from Antractica last week.

After being painted and overhauled the bark came from the drydocks and was berthed at Dunedin. All cargo will be unloaded and only provisions will be taken aboard for the trip back to New York via Tahiti and the Panama Canal.

Admiral Byrd said the steamer Eleanor Bolling probably would not leave Dunedin until a week after the City of New York had sailed. He is perusing mail steamer time tables with the object of mapping out his personal route, but is indefinite as to his program.

2 OF 3 SLATED SEA TRIPS OFF

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—Two out of the three trans-Atlantic flights from Europe to America planned by French aviators for 1930, already have crashed before the planes ever got out of the hangars.

Capt. Dieudonne Costes and Capt. Henri Carretier had announced their intention of attempting Le Bourget to New York and Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armand Lotti, who last year went from Old Orchard, Me., to San Sebastian, Spain, said this year they would reverse the route and fly from Seville to Maine or New York, according to the weather.

Carretier's plane was burned at Villa-Coublay Field when, after emerging from the Cousinet Airplane Works, the first attempt to fit the motors into it was made.

Lotti, backer of the proposed Seville-to-America flight, told the Associated Press recently that his Bernard monoplane, with which he intended to try the big hop westward, could not be ready until late July or early August, and therefore too late for 1930.

"The flight is only postponed," Lotti said. "We will certainly try it in 1931."

CANADA SEEKS U. S. AGENT

GALVESTON, Texas, March 18—(AP.)—Exact location of a shooting affray in which Amadee Bilodeau, of Sherbrooke, Canada, was killed, was the point of contention today in the extradition hearing of Fred Mertz, Houston federal narcotic agent, charged with the murder of the Canadian.

The British government seeks extradition of Mertz to Canada, there to stand trial. Bilodeau was shot and killed in May, 1925, while Mertz was employed as a United States narcotic agent on the border.

Depositions read at the hearing which began yesterday asserted the shooting occurred about 300 feet over the border line in Canada.

Mertz also is charged with kidnaping Robert A. Price, companion of Bilodeau, and the theft of an automobile belonging to Bilodeau's widow.

Oakmont Man Hurt By Woman Driver

While crossing Hulton Bridge today Lawrence Macaeci, 45, of Pennsylvania avenue, Oakmont, was knocked against a girder by a car driven by Mrs. R. A. Garfinkle, 511 Hulton road. He received lacerations of the head and right arm and was removed to Pittsburgh Hospital. Mrs. Garfinkle was absolved of blame.

Armed Bandit Robs Butler Street Store

A lone robber entered the store of Daniel Weinberg, 4621 Butler street, "Put up your hands," he said to Weinberg, pointing a gun. He then took $30 from a cash register, walked to the street and escaped before Weinberg could spread an alarm. The robbery took place late last night.

Shack of Deceased Hermit Yields $40,000 Cash

OTTAWA, Ill., March 18 (AP)—Frank Sawyer, who died last week at his home in Mendota from what doctors described as "neglect and lack of nourishment," had $40,000 in currency concealed about the place, Neighbors gleaning the shack made the discovery.

Sawyer, a 75-year-old recluse, had no known relatives. He had lived in Mendota for several years, keeping much to himself.

Officers were notified of the money find. They are continuing a search of the place in the belief more money may be concealed.

328,639 SLAIN IN REBEL DRIVE

MOSCOW, March 18.—(AP)—Statistics showing that during the past five years, 328,639 revolutionists were killed in demonstrations, uprisings and skirmishes in various parts of the world were issued by the International Society for the Aid of Political Prisoners Abroad.

In China alone, the society says, 299,017 revolutionists fell victims to "the white terror." Chinese generals executing 138,413 in 1928.

Nearly half a million revolutionists were arrested during this period in different countries, while 162,700 were injured. Italy led in the number of arrests with 107,156, and Poland was second with 24,921. More revolutionists were arrested in the United States than in Germany, 18,603 being imprisoned in America and 11,433 in Germany.

In court trials, 38,108 revolutionists received death penalties, and the total amount of fines imposed reached the sum of $1,125,000.

The society says it has 51 sections operating abroad, and during the last five years sent out more than $7,000,000 to aid political prisoners.

BANK ROBBERS, KILLER IN JAIL

DENVER, Colo., March 18 (AP)—Handcuffed and under guard of four heavily armed Colorado officers, three men who have confessed the $4,000 robbery last Friday of the Manter (Kas.) State Bank, today were brought by automobile to Denver county jail to face charges of murdering Deputy Sheriff Carl Hickman, of Eads, Colo.

Three other Colorado officers were wounded following robbery of the bank and during a several-hundred-mile pursuit of the robbers by possemen along the Kansas-Colorado state line.

The officers said Clyde Rhea, 24, one of the prisoners, attempted to take the blame for the death of the deputy. Rhea, the officers said, boasted he was the "killer" of the trio which also included John Walker, 41, and Andrew Holliday, 22.

Red Pimples on Face Lasted a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with an itching and burning of the skin. Later my skin became scaly and small, hard, red pimples broke out. They festered and scaled over and disfigured my face. They lasted about a year.

"Other remedies were used without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and in about six weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Irene Turner, R. 3, Box 61, Georgetown, Pa., June 17, 1929.

My Baby Suffered Terribly; Couldn't Sleep; Skin Irritated

One of our investigators recently reported the case of a young mother who had continual trouble with her three months old baby's skin.

There was constant irritation. The child's buttocks, thighs and back would become red-raw from contact with the diapers. Its back and shoulders would be so irritated baby was continually restless and sleepless.

Upon the advice of her physician she started to massage her baby's body every morning with Mennen Baby Oil—rubbing it gently into the skin folds and applying it liberally to the buttocks after every diaper change. The oil acted as a water-proof coating in the diaper region—preventing the acid in the urine from irritating the skin. It also softened the skin, and protected it. The doctor also recommended a properly medicated talcum, and Mennen Borated Baby powder was chosen. Following the use of the oil the Borah powder was dusted over the child's body, and into the diapers. In less than a week this treatment stopped the child's skin from being red-raw and irritated.

Since both Mennen Baby Oil and Talcum are medicated they will prevent and cure diaper rashes.

Special Offer! This week your druggist is offering a can of Mennen Borated Baby Talcum FREE with a purchase of a bottle of Mennen Baby Oil for 50c. Mennen Baby Oil is a sterilized blend of oils properly medicated, pleasantly scented, and will not become rancid.

Learn the Power of Vitaminized Flaxolyn Promotes Health

Discover Why Thousands Here Report Such Wonderful Improvements in Health, Many After Suffering for Years From

Constipation	Stomach Distress	Gas
Nervousness	Liver Torpidity	Sleeplessness
Sick Headaches	Rheumatic Pains	Dizzy Spells

"Flaxolyn Feeds New Strength To Stomach and Nerves; Activates the Precious Bile Secretions of Torpid Liver; Clears Intestines of Toxic Poisons," Says Doctor.

If you are weak, tired out, flabby, pale, easily exhausted, or feel lacking in ambition and thinking power and want that energy and pep which wins business and social success, you should try the Flaxolyn formula at once.

Flaxolyn has been publicly recommended by more doctors than any other preparation in the history of American pharmacy. Dr. Henry Karl Motta, of Philadelphia, says: "I am glad to recommend Flaxolyn because of its wonderful natural merits. It is a splendid tonic-laxative. I have used it myself and find that it has a remarkable cleansing effect, that it helps to improve the body-tone and makes one feel much more invigorated and carefree."

Flaxolyn Saved This Man From the Human Scrap Heap

Jack O'Neil says: "I never had any disease in particular, just a run-down system from overwork and lack of sleep. I tried Flaxolyn and felt its good effect from the very first day I took it. Have regained my regular weight, 113 pounds. I do the same kind of work, but don't seem to mind the strain now. I get a different kind of sleep that seems to do me a lot more good."

Every pleasant spoonful of Flaxolyn contains:

1. Vitamines as rich in the Vitamine Activity of a yeast-and-cereal tablet.
2. Bile salts, to help activate the stomach, liver, etc., and promote the flow of bile.
3. Calcium glycerophosphate, iron and other tonic ingredients with laxative and stomachic properties, approved by the highest medical authorities.

Start taking Flaxolyn this very day. Its pills are quick, easy, economical. Note the new spring in your step, the new keenness of eye, as Flaxolyn acts.

PARTNER HELD IN KIDNAP PLOT

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 18.—(AP.)—The return yesterday of Samuel Barron, New York real estate broker, who was held prisoner for nearly five days by three kidnapers, will not close the police investigation of the case, it was announced by John J. Quinn, Monmouth County prosecutor.

Quinn said he had "definite clues" to several suspects and expected to make arrests within a few days.

Quinn declined to say if he was given any information by Herman Goodstein, business partner of Barron, who was arrested Friday as a material witness and held in $10,000 bail. Bail was increased to $15,000 on the application of Quinn, who said Goodstein was "holding back" information and had told Mrs. Barron:

"Don't worry, I'll take care of the ransom."

During the four days that he was kept prisoner in a "cold, barn-like structure," the broker was questioned closely, he said, concerning details of his business, his bank accounts, and collections from his New York apartment houses.

He was frequently kicked and beaten and his body was covered with bruises when he reached home.

EDISON PUSHES RUBBER QUEST

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 18.—Thomas A. Edison does not expect to live to be 100 years old, but does expect to stay in the harness of busy life until machinery has been completed for production of emergency rubber from golden rod. The golden rod soon will be planted on a large scale at the Henry Ford plantation, near Savannah, Ga.

The 83-year-old inventor said he expected to continue working an average of 11 hours a day until his latest and "toughest" problem was solved.

"Give me five more years and the United States will have a rubber crop which can be utilized in less than 12 months' time," said Mr. Edison.

Ask when large scale planting of golden rod is planned at the Ford plantation, Mr. Edison pointed to draughtsmen working in the laboratory and replied:

"Right now I am working on machinery to extract commercial rubber from golden rod. When the machinery is ready, we will start large scale planting. Golden rod is a wonderful plant. We have discovered a variety that grows 10 feet above a man's head, but by cross-breeding, we will produce a plant carrying 8 per cent fine grade rubber. That will be practical for an emergency crop."

Professor Lauds Efficiency

A QUESTIONNAIRE ASKING THEIR OPINION OF CHAIN STORES WAS SENT TO 45 PROMINENT UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS. 43 OF THEM ANSWERED. EVERY ONE OF THE 43 REPLIED THAT HE CONSIDERED THE CHAIN STORE TO THE INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC.

E. G. Rasmussen, Instructor in Marketing, Vanderbilt University, cites the efficiency of the chain-store method. He says:

"Economies are brought about largely through large-scale buying . . . Its advantage is due to large-scale economies and efficiency in management."

By GEORGE SEIBEL

DID any one ask you whether Fritzi Scheff had come back? Well, if you had heard her sing last night at the Alvin Theater, in Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste," you would have answered that she never went away. She had all the charm of the premiere with the romantic halo of memory. When she sang "Kiss Me Again," it stirred the sentimental strain in every heart, and all were as young again as Fritzi herself, darling of the days when music was music and dancing was grace.

George Seibel

"Mlle. Modiste" is a much better piece of work than "The Fortune Teller." For one thing, Victor Herbert had a better book, the libretto being the work of Henry Blossom, who was both dramatist and humorist. Many will remember his comedy of "Checkers" and his books of bubbling wit. Into "Mlle. Modiste" he put many good lines and some almost Gilbertian lyrics. Victor Herbert rose to the full height of his opportunities.

Which means that there is a golden lode of melody in "Mlle. Modiste."

And the company at the Alvin dug out every nugget and it glittered as it did when Herbert first found his Eldorado—and much of the sparkle was due to the charming, the effervescent, the scintillant Fritzi.

But why should we marvel at her keeping her voice when we remember how Marcella Sembrich and Schumann-Heink kept theirs much longer. Fritzi has done even better than they with her figure, having one to keep.

And Here's A Ballerina

Besides Fritzi there is a ballet with a premiere danseuse who bears the famous name of Grimaldi and has a technique that is almost lost since the days of Anna Pavlova and her rivals. It was a relief from Charleston and Black Bottom to see toe dancing and pirouetting such as Mlle. Grimaldi gave. She has youth and grace, and she tilts her head and lifts her eyes in roguish ways. The eight Albertina Rasch Girls who dance with her have caught the same infectious style.

Third in the noteworthy features of this revival is the singing of "I Want What I Want When I Want It" by Detmar Poppen, who plays the gouty Comte de St. Mar with enough temper to bounce all the dishes off the table. Poppen has the true comic spirit that has been displaced by the empty smart-aleckry of our high-priced comedians.

There are some other people in the cast who have that same comic spirit. The byplay of Edith Artley, who sang Panchette, and Mrs. Hiram Bent's rare song "The Keokuk Culture Club" interpreted by Sarah Edwards, furnished proof of this.

In other words, here was real comic opera—to make which two things are essential: music and comedy.

Production Is Lovely

The sauces that help to make the dish more appetizing were also there, for the production is lovely. In view of the popular prices, it might even be called a lavish production as we have lately had revues demanding twice the dollars for half the quality.

Even the Chorus of Footmen that opens the second act was applauded over and over. Other popular numbers were Gaston's ballad of "Ze English Lauguage," sung by Robert Rhodes, and "The Time, the Place and the Girl," sung by Nathaniel Wagner as Etienne.

"Mlle. Modiste" is music from first to last; it has a romantic story from first to last; it bubbles with humor from first to last. And Fritzi Scheff still has the charm, the comedy, the golden voice and the magnetic personality that she had when she first sang "Kiss Me Again." She won a well-deserved triumph last night.

Army Officer, Wife, Injured in Crash

KEYSER, W. Va., March 18.—Lieut. and Mrs. Paschal N. Strong of Morgantown, W. Va., injured when their car rolled down a 90-foot embankment on the Maryland side of the Potomac River near Hormania, were improving at Hoffman Hospital here today. Lieut. Strong, instructor in military at West Virginia University, suffered a broken knee cap, and lacerations about the head and face. Mrs. Strong has a fracture of the leg and a fractured jaw.

They were on their way to Annapolis accompanied by Harold T. Swindler, manager of the West Virginia University rifle team, and Vaughn Michael, a member of the team, who were slightly injured.

Musical

3 Boys Die, 8 Hurt Riding Freight Train

MADRID, March 18.—(AP.)—Eight boys sought the least expensive way to reach Cienpozuelos, where they thought they would be more likely to find employment than in Madrid. A freight train going that way was the answer, and they climbed on top of one of the cars.

Last night three of the boys were dead and the other five lay seriously injured. They stood up to pass to another car and in the darkness did not see a low bridge ahead.

GALLANT AND SINGING ROGUE IS TIBBETT IN ALDINE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

He came, he saw and he sang—this Lawrence Tibbett, from the opera stage—and in the singing he conquered. He is one movie hero who has a real reason for breaking into song. And the reason is that he has a "voice."

He makes his screen debut in "The Rogue Song," the all-color musical romance which opened in the Aldine yesterday. He appears as a singing bandit. His portrayal is a stirring one. It is his singing, not his banditry, that makes it such.

However, there is more to Mr. Tibbett than just a rousing baritone voice. He makes a romantic picturesque figure. He has acting ability. And if there is something of operatic gesture about his emoting, what of it? It fits in well with the portrayal he is called upon to give.

Bandit and Princess

The film story concerns the bandit's romance with a princess—a romance that has a rough path to travel. Murder and hate stick out like jagged rocks. But, whether rough or smooth, there is always a song. He sings to her in a wayside inn, in the thieves' market, in palace, on the desert, on mountain trail—sings to her even from the whipping post, sings of love while she cries out, "Can't they lash the song out of him?"

But they can't. A little later he is singing again. Then off he rides and the picture goes into a boisterous and musical finale.

The setting for all this is the picturesque mountain country of Russia, which affords the Technicolor opportunities for many striking effects.

The Slapstick Boys

Comedy episodes are injected into the production by those slapstick artists of the two-reelers, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. And everytime they appear the film topples to the ridiculous.

The picture shows some of Lionel Barrymore's directional ability. And Catherine Dale Owen wins mention for her heroine portrayal. But everything in the production is dwarfed by this man, Tibbett. His smile, his air of bravado and his voice—these things have flung out a challenge to all screen heros.

PITTSBURGH

Girl's Letter

"MISS DIX, what is the secret of charm? Girls no prettier than I am are happily married with dear little homes of their own. Won't the right man ever fall in love with me—"

EVELYN S—.

HERE is the real truth, Evelyn. It is femininity in a girl that arouses a man's desire to take care of her, marry her. And this adorable quality of true womanly charm can be yours as it can be every girl's!

But first of all, you must feel your own dainty, captivating femininity before you can impress others.

Confidence of Charm

Clothes can help to give a girl this happy self-confidence of charm. Especially all the dainty, most feminine part of a girl's wardrobe, her lingerie, negligees, hosiery.

Lovely, soft colorful underthings—lacy and shimmering—sheer, delicate hosiery—they make you feel so utterly feminine. Irresistible! You have faith in your inherent charm as a woman and because you have confidence in yourself, you impress others—for confidence is contagious.

But girls sometimes say, "It is so difficult to keep lovely underthings looking wonderful, colorful as new—frequent washings take away color and charm."

It is true that just ordinary "good" soaps do take out some of the color along with the dirt. But this will never be the case If you wash them always in Lux. Lux is made especially to keep colors vibrantly alive, to preserve the soft, dainty texture of sheer fabrics.

MOREOVER—NOT ONLY CAN DAINTY, colorful lingerie bring you confidence of feminine charm, but your surroundings

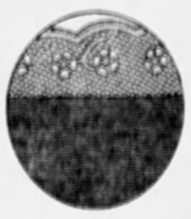
DOROTHY DIX



After 12 Lux washings—every thread in place, silk and lace fibres intact, color intact. The garment retains all the charm of new.

GOOD FRENCH JUGGLER AND FINE DANCERS IN PENN BILL

By far the best feature of the bill in the Penn Theater this week is a French juggler who makes the laws of gravitation look like the Eighteenth Amendment. He can balance anything at any angle.

And a pair of grotesque dancers, the Caligary Brothers, also keep the audience enthusiastic by their absurd antics. Uproariously funny, their comical agility finds expression in many novel feats.

Songs by the Keller Sisters and Lynch are pleasingly sung, while Ken Whitmer makes a capital master of ceremonies, and is a band by himself.

Eight Paul Whitemans

The Chester Hale Girls also inject a novelty, for eight of them in the "Land of Syncopation" appear in the guise of Paul Whiteman. They ought to be well paid for that.

Syncopation, which is High-Hat for Jazz, has the precedence in the week's bill. Except when Elias Breeskin and his admirable orchestra are playing a Spanish overture, and while Dick Leibert is getting the audience to whistle about the Rockies and the Carolines.

Haines Goes Loco

In the talking picture, entitled "The Girl Said No," Marie Dressler drinks a pint of pure alcohol before buying some park bonds from William Haines. The person who concocted the scenario probably had several pints of wood alcohol to brace himself for the effort.

Polly Moran and a pair of waiters and a very human-acting dog are the best thing in the picture. Haines plays an insane ruffian who wouldn't be allowed to live 30 seconds off the lot in Hollywood.

Take him as a circus clown and he will pass. That is how the audience took him—and laughed muchly. But it seems a pity to waste a good production on this sort of slapstick lunacy.

'PAYS TO ADVERTISE' PLEASING COMEDY IN THE PITT

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"It Pays To Advertise." If you don't believe it all you have to do is pay a visit to the Pitt, where the George Sharp Players are presenting the comedy of that title. The potency of advertising is so powerful as a generator of laughs that warranty is hereby given that you, yourself, should you attend, will go forth from Mr. Sharp's playhouse not merely a convert to advertising but a disciple of it by word of mouth advertising proclaiming that the comedy is one of the most amusing presented in the Pitt for a long time.

It really is a lot of fun for the audience, this rapid-fire farce by Roi Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett, in which the idling son of a rich father, when galvanized into activity by love and an express agent of a traveling show, becomes a successful business man, and partner of his father, acquiring also a wife in the process, all as a result of an idea adequately advertised.

All Have Good Parts

As intimated, a great deal of amusement is generated in working the play out to its conclusion. Members of the company all have consenial parts and, of course, that gives their friends in the audience plenty of reason to be cheerful.

Even Robert Fiske has a part that calls for no skullduggery whatever. When there is any foul deed to be committed at the spot represented in newspapers illustrations by the old familiar cross, Robert is the chap delegated to do the dirt. We assume that he must have felt compensated for a lot of hisses by the laughs he caused last night as the live-wire advertising man.

Harland Tucker does well as the lad turned from indolence into his father's pride merely by getting him stirred up. He seems just like a young go-getter in all respects. Walter F. Jones, the company's new character man, is convincing in his portrayal of the irascible father. Edith King, as a conspirator with the father to get his son started in the right direction, is a pleasing and natural representative of the modern efficient young business woman. Mabel Kroman lends an air of naturalness to an impersonation of a Danish countess, speaking the language like a native Dane, which is natural, since she is. Lord love 'er.

Grove City Youths Admit Stealing Arms

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 18.—Two local boys, aged 15 and 16, were arrested by police after a hardware store had been looted. They confessed and turned over to the officers their loot from the store, two revolvers, two rifles and more than 5,000 rounds of ammunition. Both were bound over to Juvenile Court by Justice O. E. Irwin.

Monaca Man Dies From Bullet Wound

ROCHESTER, Pa., March 18.—A bullet wound said by police to have been self-inflicted at his home in Monaca, caused the death of Frank Trella, 53, two hours after being admitted to the Rochester Hospital. He had been in poor health. He leaves a wife and 12 children.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

COULDN'T STAND THE JOB

Found He Was Licked When He Went to the Test.

OLD STORY TO THE WORLD'S TONIC REPRESENTATIVE CARRIES THIS LESSON FOR SICK PEOPLE.

"That man reminds me of Big Jim Hathaway, over in Indianapolis," said the World's Tonic representative, as a big stranger left Dow's drug store. "Big Jim was one of the huskiest fellows I ever saw, but he had to quit a job bossing a labor gang because he wasn't strong enough to hold up his end.

"Big Jim wouldn't believe anything could down him. He met his match by getting a hard cold, however. He let that cold hang on for months, until he looked like he had shrunken. But he was able to get around and he wouldn't give up. This labor gang was a tough crowd. The employer knew it, but he knew Jim's reputation, and he made him boss. Jim went at it, too, but the second day he just sat down and bawled like a baby because he had lost all his strength. The gang knew it, and he couldn't boss them for a minute.

"That was the day before he came for a bottle of World's Tonic and I met him. I never saw a worse case of catarrh for such a short time, and his stomach wouldn't give him any peace. He was as weak a big man as I ever saw.

"Well, the first bottle of World's Tonic helped him a little. The second put him on his feet. After the third he hunted up that gang of roughnecks, and they got a real surprise. Jim has bossed that gang for several months now, and nobody starts anything with him, either. That's the trouble with a lot of folks. When catarrh catches them they depend on their own strength until it is gone, and then they are wrecks. A bottle of World's Tonic as soon as they have catarrh would save them a lot of trouble, but they wait until their cases are chronic. I suppose because of this I sell more World's Tonic, but I hate to see suffering, and if I could make people realize what a valuable treatment World's Tonic is for catarrh there would be many more happy people." World's Tonic is for sale by Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Manower, and all other first class druggists. (A-33)

TRAPPED, 7 ESCAPE FIRE BY LADDER

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

THE threatened split in the Republican organization recalls the primary fight of a few years ago when Senator George Wharton Pepper, one of Pennsylvania's distinguished citizens, was defeated. And in this connection Senator Pepper, writing his political memoirs in the Saturday Evening Post, tells a story.

"After," tells Mr. Pepper, "Senator Harry S. New had been defeated in Indiana in a primary contest not wholly unlike mine, he was walking one day down the stairs in the Capitol to the long tunnel that leads to the Senate Office Building. A woman visitor to the Capital had become bewildered by the network of passageways. Accosting Senator New, she said, 'I am trying to get out of the Senate. Can you tell me how to do it?'

"Bowing low, he replied, 'Madame, I advise you to run in an Indiana primary.'"

And, with a reminiscent shake of the head, Mr. Pepper adds: "My only criticism of this advice is that it limits unduly the geography of escape."

EAST PITTSBURGH.

SIR: Could you help me to get a chance to do parachute jumping? I have tried every place I know and even offer to jump for the excitement, but so far I have had no luck. I may not have the nerve, but I am nut enough to try anything.

This represents a new high in public requests for jobs.

We're sorry we can't do something for the young man, for we're convinced that in a few years we could point to him as he tumbled out of a plane from a new altitude record and boast, "I got that young fella his first job."

* * *

THE following piece was written by a very young pupil in one of Pittsburgh's schools. Teacher very wisely decided that it should not be lost to posterity.

SPOIL SYSTEM

When Jackson came to be President he started a thing called the spoil system here's how it was: When the election of president was going on between Jackson and a nother man a man would come to Jackson and say I am going to go to this and this city and get all the people to vote for you Jackson would say alright the man would go to the city and get all the people to voit for Jackson after Jackson would get all the votes and become Pres. the man would come and say "I helped you get President I got a whole city to vote for you" Jackson would say "yes" what do you want the man said I want to be postmaster of that city or the mayor or the chief of police then Jackson would retire the mayor or postmaster and put in the man who didn't know the BIZZINESS and would take him for or five years to learn it and would make great mistake with the money and the mail of the government and thats how the spoil system started until President Cleveland. Cleveland was shot because he didn't give the man what he wanted.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 18.

THIS is a great country at that. We used to think that "prosperity" was a "condition." Now we find that it is a "commodity." Mr. Hoover has ordered it to be delivered to us in sixty days, same as you would order a sack of flour or a side of bacon. If "good times" is not laying on our doorstep May 15, 1930, we can sue the Republican party, get judgment against 'em, along with 123 previous judgments we held against the same corporation.

Yours,
WILL.

P. S.—In the meantime somebody has got to invent a "sixty-day diet."

WHITE HOUSE GANG

President Encourages Boys In Making Collections

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XII.

WE NEVER made fun of Slats' keys; we understood them as being his own collecting specialty and almost all the boys collected something. Q collected milk-tops at that time and so did we all.

We possessed examples from most of the Washington dairies, many from Baltimore, and Dick had even written to cousins in Boston for the cream of the tops there. We laid them in piles upon the rugs of the upper hall, matched them, and, in long disputes, bargained for coveted specimens.

Once, when one of these swappings had become too loud for us to hear his approach, TR came suddenly upon us. "Why," he asked, pointing to the tops, and as though he had been listening alertly, "is this one worth four of that?"

"Because," Q answered, "this dairy has busted—gone out of business—and that one is still making milk. . . . Con-se-quently they have more milk-tops to go on top of the bottles. . . ."

"That's clear enough," TR said, "but why are you taking three of this, for another of the same thing?"

"It isn't the same thing," Q explained. "Three milk for one cream ——"

"Why," pursued TR, spreading the tails of his frock-coat and sitting cross-legged upon the rug, "do you want three of any special one, when one of each would represent a complete collection?"

Hard Work
Many Weeks Required to Make Collection

"Because," Q replied, "with two extra ones of this kind"—looking for the top from a special dairy—"I can get two of these. At least, I could yesterday, from Johnny Wirt; he said so——"

"How do you know," asked TR, "whether Johnny Wirt will exchange at the same rate tomorrow ——"

"Because," said Q, "he said he would, and a swap holds good for three days."

"Oh, I see," TR said. "Then this, also, is a matter of honor?"

"Of course it is," Q rejoined stoutly, "else none of these collections would be worth a darn."

TR rose to his feet. "Does it take long to acquire as representative a collection such as I see here?" he asked with genuine seriousness.

"Oh, weeks and weeks of the hardest kind of work—really," Q said.

His father grinned. "Bully!" he said, including all of us. "Let me know, without fail, please, if any of you get hold of something really rare——"

This conversation about the milk-tops is pertinent to all small boys and their parents. My personal feeling about the incident is quite strong, because I was an eager collector, those days, of things I liked, and still am. So are all boys, all men. Our interests and the character of the collections change with the changing years, but, at heart, we still remain collectors.

Boys Think Their Work Is Important

Our progress is from things which seem trivial now but which were important then—smooth, bright-colored stones, leaves, marbles, lizards, frogs, toads, snakes, birds' eggs, butterflies, nests, pets, postcards, letters, cigar-bands, stamps, autographs—right up to things which troubled us little then, but are all important now—material possessions, money, knowledge, influence, viewpoints, power, experience, honors.

So it is relevant to express the main idea the Gang had when TR considered the milk-top collection with them. That idea is exactly the same today. Briefly, it was this: we were assured by TR that our collecting was quite as important as our instinct for it had led us to think it was, and we were set wondering whether this particular collection upon which we were engaged, was the very best possible sort? That was all; and it was enough.

This TR suggested to us, with the utmost subtlety; his strategy was after the manner of an orator who declaims in his full voice until he reaches a climax, when he lowers his tone, and the contrast leads his hearers to lean forward, anxious the more clearly to understand the point he desires to convey. In like manner, TR spoke to us, ordinarily, of truth, fairplay and determination, in ringing, full-vowelled words; when he came to a matter which he took to be a point of particular importance to us, he stressed it, simply and emphatically, by speaking of it confidentially—in almost a whispering tone. Thus it was with our milk-top collecting, and by the extension of his intimate personal interest, he set the seal of his approval upon our undertaking.

Understood Boys
President Directed Lads In Right Direction

Doubtless, either he had explored this matter for himself or with his older sons, and so, instantly divined our position at the moment, or else he exercised his knowledge of the boy-mind, saw its real objective and instantly took the best ways and means to secure it. Only later, years later, did we come to understand that he had seen an opportunity for us to exercise our choice, and to take a forward step. He had directed us towards that step—the next better collection—knowing that if it were to possess any sort of value, it would have to be taken of our own free will. TR knew a boy cannot be told to go and collect pieces of knowledge, and so become wise; the boy might prefer lizards; but in the quest he might come to learn a great deal about determination, courage, observation and resourcefulness, and so be thereby richly benefited.

For the Gang, there was a peculiar contradiction about TR, even after he ceased to startle us. We realized that he was the President, yet we felt, somehow, that we were also his equal. To Quentin, he was Father; yet Q felt that he was, also, TR's equal. These are fine distinctions; but it is very necessary they should be made; for TR did not meet us with lofty condescension. At the point where we met we were given to feel that we had risen up to him, and that he had descended only a little way to us. To do that successfully, a man must have a very rapidly sliding scale of values in his mind, arising from an unerring knowledge and a very deep appreciation of boys and men. And de-

TEACHERS SEEK JOBS VACANT AT VERONA

Applications Filed With Board as 'Striking' Pupils Return; Protest Called Off

A large number of applications for the positions to be vacated by nine high school teachers of Verona have been received by the school board, it was learned last night.

With the teachers working out their contract time, which will concluded in June, Charles H. Westlake, president of the board, announced that all students are back in school after sporadic walk-outs and that "the situation has simmered down."

The nine teachers, including Miss Grace McCaughey, veteran of 21 years, were not "re-hired" when letters asking for contracts for next year were sent to the Verona teachers. A storm of objections followed, which included the strike of part of the students and a parade by them last Friday, a stormy meeting in which reasons for the dismissals were asked to the school board and the new supervising principal, S. H. Jones, and refused.

Another form of protest, a meeting of prominent business men and clergymen slated tentatively for last night, failed to materialize.

Westlake denied the formation of a protest committee.

"This was not contemplated, and there will be no such meeting," he said.

PAINTINGS IN 'ONE HUNDRED' SHOW

"CIRCE" BY NORWOOD MacGILVARY, ON EXHIBITION TODAY AT INSTITUTE

"THE PRINCESS AND THE UNICORN" BY LEE F. M'QUAIDE, ALSO IN GROUP
These are two of the paintings going on exhibition today at Carnegie Institute. The One Hundred Friends of Pittsburgh Art bought them and others for the schools.

SCHOOLS OPEN ART SHOW

An exhibition of paintings, which the One Hundred Friends of Pittsburgh Art have given to the public schools, is announced for the Carnegie Institute.

The exhibition opened today and will continue through June 1. The collection is said to be the finest owned by any public school system in the United States.

The One Hundred Friends of Pittsburgh Art was organized in 1916 through the efforts of John L. Porter, a member of the Fine Arts Committee of Carnegie Institute, and chairman of the Carnegie Institute of Technology Committee. Each member of the organization donates $10 a year to establish an annual fund of $1,000 to be used for the purchase of paintings from the annual exhibition of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh.

Artists represented in the One Hundred Friends of Pittsburgh Art collection are: A. Bryan Wall, Fred S. Demmler, A. H. Gorson, Norwood MacGilvary, Alice Judson, Malcolm Parcell, Elizabeth Robb, George Sotter, C. J. Taylor, Elizabeth Rothwell, William R. Shulgold and Christian J. Walter.

Plumbers' Body Plan McKissock Dinner

James A. McKissock, retiring president of the Plumbing Contractors' Association of Pittsburgh, will be honor guest at a dinner and dance in the Fort Pitt Hotel Thursday night. The dinner is being arranged by a committee composed of Paul G. Cass, Charles Funk, P. R. Hillman, David Dudgeon, C. M. Fenner and Walter L. Gangloff.

St. Patrick's Day Fete Held By Club

A St. Patrick's Day entertainment was held by the Men's 57 Club in the Heinz auditorium, Progress street, last night. Employes of the H. J. Heinz Company presented a vaudeville entertainment following a dinner. Stanton Hobson was master of ceremonies. T. G. McCune, club president, presided.

VERSAILLES TWP. HOMES DAMAGED

Husband Saves Wife and Five Children After Flames Block Flight by Stairs

After jumping from the porch roof of his blazing home early this morning, Benjamin F. Maguire, 1223 Lincoln way, Versailles Township, carried his five children and wife down a ladder from the second floor to safety.

Firemen from McKeesport, East McKeesport and Versailles answered the alarms, but were unable to save Maguire's home. Two stores and a garage were damaged by the flames.

STAIRWAY IN FLAMES

The fire is believed to have broken out in the kitchen of the destroyed home.

Mr. and Mrs. Maguire and the children, Vera, 14; Barbara, 3; Benjamin, Jr., 9; Clara, 12, and Val Marie, 18 months, were sleeping on the second floor when the blaze started.

Mrs. Maguire was aroused from sleep by two passersby who saw smoke pouring from windows. She called her husband, who attempted to lead his family down the stairs, but found his path blocked by flames. He then leaped from the porch roof and procured a ladder with which the rescue was effected.

SPARKS START SECOND FIRE

As the flames spread from the Maguire home, the family of William L. Thompson, living at 1227 Lincoln way, also was routed by the blaze. The roof of the Thompson home, ignited by sparks, was partly destroyed, and two rooms on the second floor were damaged.

Damage is expected to total $30,000.

OFFICER FINED AFTER RAID

Constable A. C. Nye, of 825 Mifflin avenue, Wilkinsburg, an attache of the office of Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg, and Harold Carpenter, of Pittsburgh, were fined $100 each by Burgess William Turner as alleged partners in a restaurant on the second floor of 762 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, last night. Wilkinsburg police testified they raided the place Sunday night and seized whisky and wine.

Walter McWilliams, of 726 Penn avenue, alleged manager; John Walters, of 1616 Mill street, and Ray Wagner, of 726 Penn avenue, reputed employes of the restaurant, were fined $50. Four men who said they were William Webster, of 1508 Hill street; William Sargent, of Montier street; C. K. Ulrey, of 420 Rebecca avenue, and Howard Smith, of Wilkinsburg, were assessed small fines as visitors.

Louise Stonchis, 17, and Anna Stonchis, 18, of the South Side, arrested at the same time, were at Liberty today on forfeits pending a decision on charges of visiting a disorderly house.

Municipal Heads Commerce Speakers

The Boosters Committee of the Homestead District Chamber of Commerce will hold the initial dinner tonight in its "unveiling" program in Stahl's Garden, Eighth avenue, Homestead. The subject for tonight's meeting will be "Municipalities" and the heads of the municipalities of the Homestead district will speak.

Honor guests will be Congressman Guy Campbell and Senator Frank J. Harris. The "unveiling" program will continue for one year, and will include all branches of civic affairs in the Homestead district.

Name Members of Minstrel Show Cast

A partial casting of the Keystone Club minstrel show, to be presented March 27 and 28, has been announced by Harvey Garrett, chairman of the club's entertainment committee. The soloists will be Dr. Russell H. Kirk, J. Alvin Little, C. Warren Kinder, Earl Renner and Merrill Nafzgen. Bert Mustin is to be interlocutor and the end men will be William White, Harvey Garrett, Dr. J. M. Malone and William Flynn.

Class at Millvale Will Hold Service

A "cobweb social" will be given Friday night in the Millvale Methodist Episcopal Church by the Young Ladies Builders class.

WARD CHANGES APPROVED

The Re-districting Commission in a conference with President Judge John A. Evans yesterday, passed finally on proposed districts for the Twenty-second Ward. They heard complaints from the Twelfth Ward, and submitted the Twenty-fourth Ward plan tentatively for action next week.

Under plans for the Twenty-second Ward the districts will be reduced from 18 to nine.

Proposed new lines for the Twelfth Ward were opposed by W. A. Means, chairman of the commission; A. A. Donafrio and Mrs. Sadie Snowball. The proposal of Commissioners David L. Lawrence, George E. Meyers and Mortimer B. Lesher to unite the old Seventh and Eleventh and the old Eighth and Twelfth wards was indorsed by Mrs. Snowball. Means and Donafrio asked the commission to unite the Seventh and Eighth, and Eleventh and Twelfth wards.

Thieves Loot Home In Brackenridge

Brackenridge police today were searching for two men who looted the home of Kenneth Stultz, 1108 Orchard alley, late last night, and escaped with $28. The prowlers dropped a wrist watch at the back door when discovered by a neighbor.

The robbery took place, police said, when Mrs. Stultz was away from home.

Girl, 7, on 'Shopping' Tour As Police Scour City

Seven-year-old Mary Smith, of 5310 Holmes street, will head straight for home after school, she promised her mother, Mrs. Stella Smith.

For seven hours last night Mary was the object of a city-wide search when her mother reported her failure to return home from the McCandless School, Butler street and McCandless avenue. Every policeman in the city was on the lookout for the missing brown-haired girl, dressed in a white waist and a red skirt and tie and sweater.

The search ended when Mary strolled into her home shortly before 11 p. m. To her mother she explained that she accompanied another schoolmate on a downtown "shopping tour." They walked down and walked back, and that, Mary said, caused the long absence.

Drivers of Autos Unpaid, Police Hunt Employer

While four of his companions were hitch-hiking back to Columbus today, Don Macklin, 30, was accompanying detectives about Pittsburgh in search of a man, known as Harold Leach, who hired them to drive five automobiles from the Ohio city to Pittsburgh, and then disappeared without making good his promise to pay them.

Macklin told the detectives that Leach met him in the Y. M. C. A. in Columbus and promised him and his friends $5 each, their expenses in Pittsburgh and fare back home if they would aid him in getting six automobiles to Pittsburgh. They left that evening, Leach driving with them.

Yesterday they parked the cars in a lot near the Fort Pitt Hotel. Leach told them, Macklin said, to go to a nearby restaurant while he went to the postoffice, and that he would join them later. When he failed to join them they returned to the parking lot and found the automobiles had been removed.

4 SOUTH SIDE RUM CONVICTS LOSE APPEAL

Swift and 3 Meyers Brothers Must Pay Fines and Serve Pen Terms in Liquor Plot

Mickey, Gus and Sam Meyers, brothers, and James Swift, lost their appeals to the United States Supreme Court for review of their conviction in the South Side rum conspiracy trial before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar in March, 1929. The appeals were taken to the highest court after the United States Circuit Court had upheld the convictions.

Within five days after the mandates of the Supreme Court are received here the four men must surrender themselves to the United States marshal for imprisonment. Mickey Meyers was sentenced by Judge McVicar to pay a $10,000 fine and undergo three years' imprisonment in the Atlanta penitentiary; Gus, a $10,000 fine and two and a half years' improsonment; Sam, a $5,000 fine and two years' imprisonment, and Swift, a $5,000 fine and 18 months' imprisonment.

Joe Meyers, a brother of the other three defendants, was convicted, but was granted a new trial in his appeal to the Circuit Court. They were named in an indictment with 30 other defendants, but they were the only ones convicted. Police Inspector John J. McArdle, and his brother, Patrick McArdle, were acquitted. The other defendants were eliminated from the case by being dropped by the government or upon binding instructions of the court.

Testimony at the trial showed the three Meyers brothers to have been distributors of whisky on the South Side.

RECEIVERS FOR CHAIN STORES

Judge Nelson McVicar in federal court today appointed receivers for the Keystone Stores Corporation, a company operating a chain of 230 retail groceries in Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio.

The receivership appointment was made in an equity suit filed by J. M. Shucker Company, of Orrville, O., claiming that the grocery concern owed $3,217.85 for goods purchased.

Appointed as receivers by Judge McVicar were Scott H. Brazzell, of Pittsburgh, and Robert J. Hamilton, Jr., president of the Keystone Stores Corporation. Their bond was fixed at $500,000.

According to the bill of complaint, the corporation's working capital was depleted during the winter recession in business and the company was unable to purchase merchandise to the best advantage. Its last balance sheet listed liabilities of $800,000, but listed assets, including equipment and inventory, totaling $3,000,000.

BROTHER TELLS OF GIRL'S DEATH

Eleven-year-old Charles Bosh took the stand in Criminal Court today to describe events attending the shooting of his sister, Catherine Bosh, 17, a hair-dresser, of Castle Shannon, for whose death Michael Kowal, 30, of Baltimore, is standing trial on a charge of murder.

"Kowal came to our house one night and waited for Catherine to come home from work," Charles related. "When she got there he said he had a secret to tell her, so they went upstairs. Then I heard two shots and my mother and brother Frank and I ran upstairs to the bedroom.

"I ran for help and water. When I got back Kowal was beating his head against the coal bin on the porch."

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt is expected to bring out statements that Kowal shot the young hair-dresser after she had refused to marry him.

OBITUARY

Herron Funeral.

Funeral services for George Herron, former Pittsburgher, who died Sunday in Boston, will be held in the Thomas B. Moreland funeral home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, tomorrow. He was born in Ireland and came to the United States in 1871, settling in Pittsburgh and living here until two years ago, when he went to Boston to live with his daughter, Mrs. James H. Meigs. For 30 years he was engaged in the insurance business. He was a member of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church, and the Loyal Order of Orange, of which he was a past national grand master in America. Besides Mrs. Meigs he leaves another daughter, Mrs. Charles Porter, of Dormont; a son, James W. Herron, general superintendent of the Huntingdon Reformatory; a sister, Mrs. Thomas McGraw, of San Francisco, and a brother, John H. Herron, of Belfast.

Mrs. William J. Carson.

HEARING HELD IN RAIL SALE

An appeal against an injunction prohibiting the disposal of the capital stock of the Ursina and North Fork Railroad was heard today in Supreme Court by Harry L. Campbell, administrator of the estate of the late Irvin T. Huff, Somerset County coal operator.

The company was once sold for $40 it was declared.

Edgar B. Chiswell, who holds a note of $3,680 against the insolvent estate, claims that in selling the railroad Campbell did not properly advertise the sale, leading prospective buyers to believe that only several shares of the road's stock were for sale.

Campbell and three others, Joseph Levy, George R. Scull and D. L. Miller, bought the railroad for $40 at a public sale.

According to estimate the line is worth $26,800, including $800 in cash and $3,000 in good accounts.

COUNCIL SCANS P. R. R. PLANS

Council has before it several ordinances carrying forward the general improvement of the Pennsylvania Station district in conformity with the agreement of the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Two of these provide for the widening of Eleventh street to 80 feet between Penn avenue and the harbor line. The land needed for the widening is being turned over to the city by the company. Another vacates a small portion of the wharf.

A third ordinance authorizes the company to construct a bridge from the one carrying its main line over the Allegheny River to the new freight and produce terminal. This new bridge will cross Eleventh street and some of the abutments will be on that thoroughfare.

Thieves last night broke into the chicken coop of Mrs. A. Keky, 1349 Woods Run avenue, and stole seven chickens. They were valued at $17.

BANK LIABILITY ARGUED

As to whether the First National Bank of Smithfield, Pa., is liable for the payment of forged checks for $3,026 found in the account of the Georges Township School Board, Fayette County should be borne by the bank or the school district, was argued before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

The Common Pleas Court of Fayette County held the bank was responsible. The auditors for the district, in discovering the forgeries, made a surcharge against the bank, an appeal from the latter resulting in a decision in favor of the school district in the lower court.

It is claimed by the bank that the school district is barred from recovery of the amount of the forged checks by refusal to deliver to the depository upon proper demand the checks in question. This point was held negatively by the lower tribunal.

New Municipal Hall Asked for North Side

A new municipal building, with offices for the collection of all taxes in seven North Side wards, is asked in a resolution received by Council from the North Side Chamber of Commerce. Declaring the present structure at Federal and Ohio streets "archaic," the resolution asks a modern building to house a traffic court, police station, fire alarm station and committee rooms for civic bodies.

The commerce body also asked the widening of South Diamond street from Ridge avenue to Lockhart street and better policing and improvement of the North Side parks.

2 Trapped in Money 'Miracle' Swindle

Clarence Engers, 34, of 1734 Jancey street, and DeWitt Falls, 50, of Lakewood, O., were held for further investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Station today following testimony that they had promised to turn $300 sought from John Bozsan into $1,500. Instead of putting up the $300, Bozsan, who resides at 325 Renova street, notified detectives. They arrested the pair.

Bell Expert Demonstrates Speech 'Unscrambling'

How far the man in the street is behind the times in his knowledge of electrical science was shown last night in a series of demonstrations in Syria Mosque.

Amateurs who talk glibly of radio frequencies, screen grids, sound color and television were unhorsed by the production of scrambled speech, delayed transmission, the operation of the artificial larynx and the mechanical lung and the ruminations of the electric brain. Science is many long laps ahead of the public's idea of the scope of radio researches.

Bergius P. Grace, vice president of the Bell Laboratories, Inc., of New York, who directs the research work for the Bell Telephone Company, mystified his hearers with demonstrations of new apparatus, and then in the language of the layman, described how it was done.

That scrambled speech may be unscrambled at will is one of the most interesting novelties in the field of radio research. Good English may be transformed into an unintelligible jargon and sweetly melodious music become a series of ear-splitting howls. The jargon or the howls turned back into the transmitter, are reproduced again in all the original tones.

Grace explained that television is virtually in the laboratory stage and its demonstration is so costly that it is almost prohibitive.

SECOND PLATE IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY

Exposure Shows Light Spot At Stated Location; the Weather Condition Ideal

The Allegheny Observatory has taken what may be a photograph of the new planet. Whether it is or not cannot be told until a second photograph has been taken and it has been seen whether or not the position of the image has changed.

Dr. Frank C. Jordan, assistant director of the observatory, put an 8x10 plate in the 30-inch refractor Sunday night, pointed the telescope at Deta Geminorum, the star near which the new planet lies, started the mechanism which causes the instrument to follow the star photographed, and gave an hour's exposure.

GETS PHOTOGRAPH

He obtained a photograph covering a degree of arc—a stretch of sky in length about twice the diameter of the full moon. The photograph showed many spots of light of varying brightness, images of stars, mostly invisible to the naked eye, and some even invisible to the eye through the telescope.

One of the points of light lying about 12 millimeters—roughly, half an inch—from Delta Geminorum should be the planet. But there can be no certainty about it, Dr. Jordan said, until another picture has been taken. If the suspected image is the planet it will have moved, at the rate of about one-twentieth of an inch a day on the photograph, from the position it occupied in the first picture. On the other hand, if it is not the planet but a star, its position will be unchanged.

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE

Sunday night was the first since the discovery of the planet was announced that conditions were favorable here to photographing the heavens.

The big telescope itself serves as camera, a plate merely being substituted for the eyepiece.

Dr. Jordan said the observatory astronomers had been officially notified by Harvard University of the discovery of the new planet. He said he had no suggestion to offer as to what the new world should be called.

W. Va. Jail Inmates Aid Mine Strikers

National Miners' Union headquarters, 110 Federal street, North Side, announced today that prisoners in the West Virginia state penitentiary at Moundsville had contributed $89.92 to its strike relief fund. BRITISH VETS NOT WARLIKE

The British Legion, composed of veterans of the World War, is not so warlike in its attitude as the American Legion is reported to be, Miss Kathleen Courtney, president of the British section of the Women's International League for Peace, stated in an interview here today.

This may be due, she said, to the fact that Great Britain was in the war longer than the United States and also to the fact that Britain is a member of the League of Nations.

While the "big navy" party and many individuals are hostile to the efforts of peace advocates in England, Miss Courtney added, peace workers there are not opposed by any outstanding organizations after the manner in which the Daughters of the American Revolution fight pacificism in this country.

Miss Courtney is making a lecture tour. Her engagements here call for addresses before the Pennsylvania College for Women, the Margaret Morrison School at Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Hungry Club, the Council of Jewish Woman and Pittsburgh chapter of the Women's International League. Miss Courtney is the guest of Mrs. Carol Miller, 4 Von Lent place.

PERFUME SALE UNDER FIRE

Seizure of 2,000 gallons of perfume by Philadelphia police on the ground that the shipment was not manufactured in accordance with a federal permit was sustained in an opinion handed down by Justice Robert R. Frazer of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

It was averred by the police that the perfume was so made as to permit it being readily converted back into alcoholic liquor fit for beverage purposes.

The Golden Ray Manufacturing Company and other concerns had sought to enjoin Leonard B. Schofield, director of the Department of Public Safety of Philadelphia and the police generally from interfering with the plaintiffs in conducting their respective manufacturing plants.

Delayed Passengers Sail on French Ships

HAVRE, France, March 18.—(AP.)—The French liner Niagara sailed last night for New York with one hundred passengers from the liner Paris, sailing of which was delayed by a strike among the seamen.

WILL CONTEST HEARD

Argument was heard before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, regarding the validity of the will of the Rev. F. G. Sebik, a priest of Uniontown, Pa., in which it is claimed two wills bobbed up following his death.

In the first will Mary Zidek, a housekeeper who had been in the employ of the priest for 22 years was made a benificiary, but in the second will, she was designated as the sole benificiary. The register of wills of Fayette County admitted the first will to probate, but refused to admit the second.

The first will was executed in 1915 and the second in 1924, the former being offered for probate June 29, 1926, following the priest's death. On July 8, 1929, a petition of Mary Zidek, housekeeper for the decedent was filed with the register of wills, alleging that the decedent had made a later will and that the latter will was in evidence at the time of the decedent's death, but was lost or destroyed subsequent to his death. The register refused to accept it, an appeal was taken, the other beneficiaries moved to quash the motion and the court sustained it.

Camera Question Box

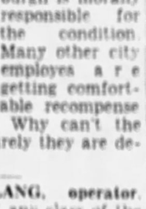
The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: White wings here receive on the average of $24 weekly, and at the present period, about $17. Do you believe that a city, such as Pittsburgh, is morally responsible for such a condition and should raise the wages of those affected?

GEORGE JORDAN, steward, Hotel Roosevelt: "Yes, I absolutely do think their wages should be increased. No man, no matter who he is, can keep his family on such meagre amounts. Pittsburgh is morally responsible for the condition. Many other city employes are getting comfortable recompense for their labors. Why can't the White Wings? Surely they are deserving."

George Jordan

BEATRICE LANG, operator, Penn avenue: "If any class of the employes of Pittsburgh are deserving of increases in their wages, then it is the street cleaners. They perform a most efficient service, and work hard and diligently. It's pretty hard to keep the wolf from the door when a man gets such a little recompense for his labors. The city is morally responsible for their plight and should take steps to remedy the situation."



Miss Lang

J. KELLY, Penn avenue: "I never realized the street cleaners and "White Wings" were so poorly paid until a short time ago. Surely they deserve their money. They work hard enough. I don't see how they keep their families. When you figure out how much has to be paid for rent, clothing, food and other necessities of life, it's pretty hard to see how they can stay out of the hole. Their wages should be raised."

J. Kelly

MARY BRUBACH, operator, Hotel Roosevelt: "I can't see why these men should be so neglected. I didn't realize that their wages were so small. Any move to increase the amounts, would be a big benefit to the community. These men are deserving of better treatment. They labor in the snow and cold, risk themselves to the ravages of the elements, and then get very little compensation. Perhaps in the very near future the status of the situation will be changed."

Miss Brubach

MARTHA BREGEL, telephone operator, Penn avenue: "It is very clear to anyone that these laborers aren't being paid enough money. Something should be done about it and done at once. No man can keep a family on such a salary. If he is single, he'll have a hard time getting along. Compare this with the position of a married man who is expected to keep his family, pay the rent and buy food and clothing on from $17 to $24 a week. It just can't be done, that's all."

Miss Bregal

E. W. SHIRK, cashier, Hotel Roosevelt: "I am sure that any fair-minded person will support any move to raise the wages of the "White Wings." They labor hard and still don't get the money they deserve. They probably have quite an economic problem to figure out, in that they have to make their money go a long way to keep the wolf from the door. When you take into consideration the money that must be spent for the necessities of life, you can see they don't have much—or any—left."

Forgiving

PRINCESS HELEN

Princess Helen, who has written her former husband, Prince Carol, who left her to go to Mme. Lupescu in Paris, that she would not oppose his return to Rumania, from which he had been "barred."

URGE HALL SITE DOWNTOWN

Fear that locating of the proposed Town Hall in the Oakland district would tend to bar conventions from Pittsburgh was expressed by Eugene C. Eppley, president of the Pittsburgh Hotels Corporation.

"Important conventions will not come to Pittsburgh to meet in a Town Hall located three miles or more from the transportation and hotel center," he said. "I base my prediction on 25 years experience in securing and handling conventions.

"At the William Penn Hotel during the past few weeks we have received a number of letters voicing a warning against the Oakland site for a Town Hall as jeopardizing the city's convention future.

"Regarding the 1931 convention of the American Library Association, Ralph Mann, director of Carnegie Library, advises me that Pittsburgh now cannot house the convention properly, and that location of the Town Hall in the Oakland district would not help matters. W. R. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, director in the National Metal Congress, writes that this convention can be brought to Pittsburgh in 1932 or 1933 provided the hall is built adjacent to downtown."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss McClay In Bridal Party

WITH an adventurous bud coming out here and there, and the crocuses peering forth from their winter coverings, early northern spring is here at last, bringing the elusive beauty of the loveliest season of the year.

It's no wonder that brides-to-be choose wedding dates in the springtime. From now until society folks begin to desert the city in late June, weddings will dominate all social interest, at home, in the East, everywhere.

And besides being brides, girls in the social set will be bridal attendants. And still other girls will be interested in entertaining for bride-elects and their parties. There'll be all the fascinating details of decorations and gowns to discuss, and all the plans for weddings.

Bridal Party

ELLEN M'CLAY, daughter of the Samuel McClays, will go to New York to be a bridesmaid on March 29.

The bride will be Janice Townsend Jefferson, daughter of the Floyd Wellman Jeffersons, of Short Hills, N. J., and the bridegroom John Stoddard, of New York, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stoddard, of Savannah, Ga.

The wedding will take place in the afternoon in Christ Church, Short Hills, with the Rev. Allen Evans, of Hewlett, L. I., a cousin of the bride, as officiant. There'll be a reception in the Short Hills Club following the wedding.

Mrs. Carroll Parker, of Covington, Ky., will be matron of honor, and Adle Ents, of New York, will be maid of honor.

The bridesmaids, besides Ellen McClay, will be Lucia Higgins, of Nashville, Tenn., and Eleanor McEwen, of Tarrytown, N. Y., and Mrs. George Starke, of Scarsdale.

Names Ushers

JULIAN MASON, of New York, will be best man, and Lefferts Suydam Hoffman, of New York, Floyd Jefferson, Jr., and B. W. Dudley, Jr., of Short Hills, Charles Platt, of Pennsylvania, Richard Holden, of Bennington, Vt., and William Hallowis, of Jacksonville, Fla., will be ushers.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Spence School, class of 1926, and was president of her class, by the way. Since her graduation she has lived abroad the greater part of the time. Her fiance attended Phillips Exeter Academy and the University of Virginia.

After a southern motor trip, Mr. Stoddard and his bride will live in Short Hills.

Wedding Plans

SEVERAL weeks ago I told you that I had heard that Louise H. Osborne, daughter of the Loyall A. Osbornes, of White Lodge, Stockbridge, Mass., formerly of Pittsburgh, would become the bride of Gilbert Stanley of London, son of Mrs. William Stanley, of Great Barrington, on Saturday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Pittsfield, Mass.

And now I know who'll be in the bridal party. Nancy B. Osborne will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Loyall A. Osborne, Jr., will be her sister-in-law's matron of honor. Jane Quinney and Peggy Perkins, of New York, Margaret Brewer, of Utica, and Mrs. George Waxter, of Baltimore, Md., will be bridesmaids.

Brother's Best Man

CLARENCE STANLEY, of Pittsburgh, will be his brother's best man, and David M. Gilmore, of Sewickley, will be an usher.

Others who will serve as ushers are Edward Bourne, Penroe Stout and John S. Osborne, of New York, Barclay Robinson, of Hartford, Conn.; Richard Beebe, of Boston, and Edward M. Gaillard, of New Haven.

The bride-elect's father has just returned home from London, to be here for the wedding and the many entertainments which will precede the event.

The junior Loyall A. Osbornes will give a dinner for the bridal party Friday night, and Mrs. William Stanley, mother of the bridegroom-elect, will give the wedding breakfast.

Green Gowns

MANY "first nighters" at the Alvin last night, where Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste" was revived, remembered it was St. Patrick's day. One woman chose a gown of paddy green, green satin slippers and long green gloves.

Among those who participated in the wearing of the green was Mrs. Gordon King. Her gown was of Nile green chiffon with a ruffle of the same material outlining the low v-decolletage.

AT this time of the month when most folks will be thinking of returning home, a few will be sailing for Europe. Louise Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds, and Jane Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, will sail Thursday on the Aquitania.

Twentieth Century Club Hears Prof. Morize Talk on Dancing

INTRODUCED by Mrs. Elizabeth Burt Mellor as "one of the ablest, most interesting and satisfying lecturers, without whom no Twentieth Century Club season is complete," Prof. Andre Morize, of Harvard, gave his new lecture yesterday on "Some Aspects of the History of Dancing." His subject, Prof. Morize stated, is more serious than it sounds because through the history of dancing are discovered interesting facts concerning the history of civilization.

Dancing is as old as mankind but in the Middle Ages dance music first existed as such and out of it developed all instrumental music. Prof. Morize spoke of the three great periods of dancing, the Renaissance, the seventeenth century at the time of Louise XIV and the eighteenth century, of Louis XV and XVI. Mrs. Morize, gifted pianist, aided her husband with some illuminating illustrations, playing very early examples of dance music and the same themes as Handel and Bach had used, a Johann Strauss waltz and Debussy's "Cakewalk."

Some amusing facts were brought to light by Prof. Morize, for instance, the instructions given a dancer more than 300 years ago. "Do not spit or blow your nose much, and if you must do so turn your head and use a fair white handkerchief," and the bitter denunciations of the various dances, including the polka, of which someone said "to be seen is to be avoided forever." Both mazurka and polka in their early days were referred to as "exotic."

SCHOLARSHIPS in colleges and universities, preparatory schools, military academies and women's seminaries are offered to worthy students by the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Included in the list of institutions is the Woodrow Wilson scholarship in the law department of the University of Virginia, valued at $1,000, free tuition in William and Mary College, Washington and Lee University, Swarthmore College, Transylvania University and more than a score of other schools. The provisions under which the scholarships are awarded are that the applicant be a lineal descendant of an ancestor in the Confederate service and that an approved standard of deportment and credits be maintained. Mrs. John P. Cowan, president of the Pittsburgh chapter, and Mrs. Henry Pennywitt, chairman of the educational committee, will receive applications at the meeting of the local chapter in the Hotel Roosevelt Friday afternoon.

THE music department of the Aspinwall Woman's Club will present Fred Colber, of New York, in a lecture recital at the clubhouse tonight. Mr. Colber will speak on "What Good Music Means in Our Lives." A silver offering will be taken for the piano fund.

The club's school committee will hold a progressive bridge party in the clubhouse Thursday, March 27, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Konstanzer.

The regular club meeting on Thursday is to be addressed by Mrs. Dulcie Fiske Fairman on "The Romantic Aspect of Current Literary Events," and John Austin Holland will give piano selections.

BISHOP HERBERT WELCH, of the Pittsburgh Area, Methodist Episcopal Church, will introduce Miss Kathleen Courtney, distinguished British woman, when she speaks before the Women's International League for Peace tonight. Miss Courtney will be guest of honor at the league's dinner in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Both dinner and lecture are open to the public.

ELMER KENYON, of the New York Theater Guild, will address the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Drama League, of which he is honorary president, in the Frick Training School, next Tuesday evening. There will be a short business meeting at 8 o'clock, with reports of committees and election of directors whose terms expire in June.

Mr. Kenyon will analyze Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," discussing its structure, its psychology and its literary qualities. He will also discuss the author and his other works, thus carrying out the policy of the Drama League, to keep its members informed concerning the most important dramas of today. The lecture will be open to all who are interested in the drama.

MISS MARIE BINTZ, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Gaston and Mrs. Mary J. Weaver, all of Pittsburgh, sailed from New York on the SS. Caledonia Saturday to spend the Easter season, dividing their time between Port au Prince, Santiago, Kingston, Colon, Havana and Nassau.

CHARMING SPRING SUITS PRESENTED BY STYLISTS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 18.—The parade of the little woolen suits is in formation, ready to march into April and demonstrate that a new suit is the best possible ode to spring. Every atelier here, is displaying its own version of the little costume, and every model demonstrates some new and attractive charm of its own. Tweeds, homespuns, jerseys in various clever weaves are used rather than the smoother materials favored for the more formal tailleur, and such materials emphasize the practical nature of these suits that are intended for all but formal daytime activities in town, suburbs and country. We have no doubt but that these suits, and dress and short jacket ensembles will win their way into the wardrobe of the busy girl who likes the practical side of clothes stressed without sacrificing any charm. Practical prettiness is essentially demanded by the American girl, as many couturiers here have quickly discovered.

TWO very delightful little models have been sketched to bring spring to today's page. The first sketch is of a smart little suit from Schiaparelli. It is of woolen mixture in pastel pink with a short, straight jacket and wrap-around skirt, slightly circular in cut. The blouse is novel and very interesting, especially to those of the bronze age. It is of light blue handkerchief linen dotted in white, and has a decollete back ending in two large scarfs at the shoulders which cross in to cover the decollete, and are tied in front in a large bow. To release the deep V decollete in order to permit the much desired sun-burn, the scarfs are uncrossed in back and drawn one over either shoulder, down straight in front and passed through the double slots at either side of the skirt which has the wrapped over part at the front buttoned onto the underpart with large pearl buttons.

FROM the house of Worth comes the second model which is a semi-tailored, semi-sports ensemble of plaided light-weight woolen in shades of gray. The upper part of the bodice and the belt of the frock are of canary yellow jersey. The short jacket is belted with a set-in band which turns at each side of the front to vertical trimming.

Additional Club News

THERE was the usual good attendance yesterday at the annual spring musicale given in the Woman's City Club by the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club. On the program appeared Miss Marie Kleyle and Mrs. Elizabeth Coles McDonald, violinists; Miss Ruth Simons, Mrs. J. R. McGregor and Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Dodds; vocalists, Mrs. W. I. Stone, Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, Mrs. Emma Stucki Hansen, Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens Cross, Miss Ethel Tilley and a guest, Mrs. Alice Stephens Jones; and the Mendelssohn Trio, composed of Miss Kleyle, Mrs. Dodds and Dr. Coit R. Hoechst, cellists. Accompanists were Mrs. William H. Patterson, Miss Betty Stone, Mrs. H. P. McKown, Miss Simons and Mrs. Dodds. Mrs. W. J. Crowley, the president, who is also musical director, presented the program.

THE ticket presented by the nominating committee of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club is: President, Mrs. Joseph Dury; vice president, Mrs. Wilson Campbell; Mrs. James Lysle Stuart, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. Woodward Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. Martin L. Moore, treasurer.

"Down to the River of Silver" was Edward Tomlinson's subject when he addressed the club yesterday on South America, telling much that was interesting, especially concerning Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina. Drastic and certain punishment, from which there is no appeal, was given by Mr. Tomlinson as the reason for comparatively no crime.

MRS. MAX WHERRY, leader for yesterday's meeting of the Homestead Woman's Club, gave the first paper on the program, one on "Denmark and the Danes." Mrs. W. Clayton McClure and Mrs. Harry L. Baker discussed Denmark as a co-operative commonwealth and "in town and country."

AN exceptionally enjoyable program was given yesterday at the annual musicale of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. Esther Edmundson Mohr, soprano, was soloist, and the remainder of the program was by a trio composed of Jean Wessner, cellist; Virginia Brown Wilharm, pianist, and Roy Shoemaker, violinist. The music committee, Mrs. J. L. Hickernell, chairman, sponsored the program, which was supplemented by tea in charge of the social committee, Mrs. R. C. Beerbower, chairman. St. Patrick's Day colors were used in the decorations.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken grey, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Chickie's Doubts About Barry Are Dispelled

CHAPTER XXXVI.

JAKE paused then he repeated:

"If you should ever love—well, what about it?"

"I wouldn't need any other around to tell me of it or to make me warmer," said Chickie.

"You'd just up and burn to death, eh? But don't you do that, my dear! It's the one insanity a beautiful woman dares not risk."

"Why—why, that's the only way at all—love with everything or not at all!"

"How old, Chickie? Twenty-one? Now, see here, men aren't big enough to take a love like that. It knocks them off their feet, stirs up an awful dust of vanity in their eyes. When a woman offers that kind of love, Chickie, it's just as though she held up one of those distorted mirrors. The man sees himself a giant — a king — and he sees the woman a pigmy.

"Why should a girl always be the one to bother about this and that and pleasing a man? It's most contemptible!"

"She shouldn't please the man! Please herself! Haven't I been drumming that into your sweet head? I'll larn' you yet, my dear. Do as you want and don't give a hang about their likes and they'll like it—that is if the girl has Helena's face. When have you ever bothered to toss me your smiles? When have you ever troubled to entertain me ever so little? But here I am."

She smiled, but oddly touched, answered: "I'll do better, Jake. Maybe you think I am very selfish."

"Let be as is! Better might be worse! I've much more to say on this score Helena, dear!"

He said it when at length they had stepped into the stone mansion and the caretaker was showing them about. Chickie walked quickly, her eyes everywhere, an eager tightening through every nerve. She whispered like a guilty thief: "The closets, Jake! Aren't I to see 17 rooms full of clothes?"

"Open the doors then—quick! Nobody'll catch us!"

Covets Wrap

They came into a bare room—bare—not even a rug. A maid was sorting over hats and shoes. The doors of closets were open. Chickie saw so many hats it might have been a millinery shop. She caught a glimpse of evening wraps—one of green brocade with a wide collar of chinchilla. She pinched Jake's arm. "Get it—quick! That one I must and shall have!"

He caught her hand and squeezed it, his eyes flashing. "Look at yourself in that glass, my little white darling! Now tell me the sweet things of life mean nothing to you."

"Did I ever say that, Jake?"

"I've an awful fear you may try to act it. And ye do, ye'll walk over Jake's dead body. It's an insult to life when we don't set the prettiest jewels in our best carving. Ever think of that, Chickie? Now, take this woman here—homely. I'm telling you she has teeth like a horse. Those clothes don't belong to her by any right of gracing them. They should be yours. You want to travel, too, don't you, Chickie?"

"Don't wear me out asking my wants, sir."

"I've an idea, Chickie, that it would be riotous fun sailing round the world with you. Haven't seen much have you?" He had taken her arm. They were now walking out to the garden. Tulips were red and gold and pink, and there were white and purple hyacinths. Spring danced in young, happy color all about the slopes.

"They're at the softest, sweetest in the first blooming, Chickie. I'm waking you up. I'm making you see a little. And you want to stay blind. That's why you're hurt. Open your eyes very wide and look at all the beauty life is ready to yield you—that shouldn't make you sad." He leaned down and with his eyes on hers asked, still laughing: "Chickie, you like me some—quick—no one is looking—not a soul for 20 miles—a kiss—please—"

Invites Barry

She shook her head: "Call again tomorrow, sir. I'm all out of the ingredients today."

"I'm calling for many tomorrows—mind you that, Chickie! You'll do well to have me come. Use me, my dear. I shan't mind that at all. Men, young men or old, are so much keener to stay if they know the door is wide open to let them go."

She was fascinated by Jake's steady speech. She wondered if he spoke the truth. Would Barry want her more, seeing Jake so eager? She grew excited and a little ashamed thinking this. Yet for all that, her heart leaped with a beaming hope. Oh—too late now to crush down the singing passion. She loved him—wanted him young, full of gayety—a glory on his upturned face—the sweetness of his fullcut lips. Why should he go—

When Jake said to her again, "I'm to come for you Monday night, my dear—the show—Wednesday—Friday—three out of seven—that's fair enough."

"I don't know, Jake—that's too many. No—"

"But it's yes! It's decreed!"

She was all unnerved thinking of it. Her heart was a raging hot coal. One moment she saw Barry turning from her with scorn; the next rushing to her, a challenge in his eyes.

She got up early Sunday morning. She kept running up from Jennie's garden to the hall, wondering if the phone would ring. He always called Sunday mornings.

It rang; his hour—just nine. She took down the receiver and waited, unable to speak. Her own breath suffocated her. She was afraid to hear his voice. She said weakly, "Hello!" and then, "Oh, you've called?"

His low, uncertain voice throbbed through her with a mingled pain of joy. "Chickie, want me to coffe out?"

"If you want to come."

"Is that the way you feel about it? Don't care whether we have the ride down the country or not?"

"Oh, I don't know." She laughed with questing nervousness. "I've never been very hesitant about things, Barry!"

A long pause. For a cold, stilted moment she feared he had gone—hung up on her in this grim quiet. Then he said: "Well, shall I come?"

"Yes!"

Chickie Exultant

She went humming down the hall—eyes wet, heart singing, world all a-sun again. Day in the country, they two together under a tree. Arm in arm, talking to each other; rejoicing in each other's look. Oh—let him say what he would! Let him flash scorn at her. She would laugh in his face! She would laugh at anything. For he had come to her. She had flouted him; run away with Jake before his very eyes. And now he came and asked her humbly did she want him.

Her mood dashed from fervor to fervor—happiness exaggerated because of the misery preceding it. She made sandwiches for their lunch. She cut them into fantastic shapes. There had come to her a radiance of peace as though now would never again dawn the faintest misunderstanding. They loved each other—oh, simple—the heart settled it.

She flung the door wide for him, ignoring the pale formality of his greeting. She snapped her fingers, murmuring gayly: "But you're here, Mr. Red! Keep your cold looks!"

He had a box of candy in his pocket, the yellow cord tying it showed. She tapped it impishly: "A peace offering, Red?"

He grinned. "Well, the nerve of some people's widows! Why should I bring the peace when you made the war?"

"Did I, though! I thought I only fired the first gun—the war was there already. Is it over now?"

He drew a long breath, his mouth straight: "Any lunch for today? Takes a long time to draw up a suitable peace treaty, you know."

Speak About Jake

And after they started she found him now and then watching her, an intent, dubious fixity in his glance. It made her uneasy.

She began to talk—surcharged with emotion and suspense. Glorious day—look at the flowers—oh, did you see that squirrel? And finally: "So you're angry with me, Barry? And you've only come out to tell it?"

"Why, no—what makes you think that?"

"Rather quiet, aren't you?"

"Well—in a way. But I don't want to quarrel with you, Chickie. You don't blame me for being shocked, do you?"

"You mean that I went out with Jake? You mean about yesterday?"

"Well—suppose you were rushing down to meet me and I gave you a breezy nod and went flying off with some other dame—what would you have done?"

She didn't answer, for she had a withering image of herself suddenly watching Barry go off with another. She sat mute with the sense of devastation.

"What would you have thought or done, Chickie?"

"I think I would die, Barry." Looking up, it shocked her to see a flush, an exultance light his face.

"As much as that, Chickie? Do you mean it?"

"I let you see it far too plainly, Mr. Red. I shout that I love you. And a girl should never do that. Then you grow afraid. Oh, I know! And you run away."

"Ah—don't say that, Chickie. I might tell you a few things you don't realize. I think I'm going to. But the part I can't figure is that you seem to like going out with Jake."

"He's awfully kind. But I didn't enjoy myself one bit yesterday."

He asked eagerly: "I spoiled it for you, Chickie! Please tell me—did you keep thinking of me?"

"How can you be so vain? You, indeed!"

"I'm not vain. If I were I wouldn't need the approval of others. But I do. That's my great weakness. And when I see a handsome fellow like Jake playing around I don't understand how you can prefer me. If you really did you wouldn't keep making dates with him. This isn't the first one. You've not told me of them. But I've heard."

She said weakly: "You're not fair. You really force me to go out with him. You scarcely noticed me for a whole week. You didn't come to the window. Oh—I'm not so thick! I knew what you meant when you said we had years and years just to talk—"

A scarlet wave rushed to his temples, his lips moving, but not speaking—

"And Friday night—oh, you remember—it wasn't what you said or anything you did, but I could feel. I could feel things striking through me. You wanted me to understand. I did. I can't stay home always. Jake doesn't care how much I put him off or how uninteresting I am. He comes and comes. And nothing is too much for him to do."

He said only: "Shall we go to the same place?" And he took her hand, pulling her up the little hill. He didn't look at her.

Crushed by his silence, she knelt on the ground, unwrapping the lunch. The gay little sandwiches mocked her. She was more than half crying now, when he said, quietly:

"I don't blame you, Chickie. Not a bit of it. You have a right to have all the fun you can. Jake's got the coin to give it to you. I'd probably fall for it, too, if I got the chance. Big limousine — opera — theaters. Takes money to toss off 20 a night or more and never wink at it. A girl with a lot on the ball has a right to expect things, I suppose."

When she remained leaning against the tree, her eyes closed, the breeze blowing her hair, he dropped beside her, covered her hands. "Then why so sad about it? You enjoyed it."

She drew her hands from him. "You're cruel. I think you want to hurt me."

He winced. "That's just the very thing I don't want. That's just the core of it all. Hurt you! Why, when I sit here now and look at you—good Lord—well!"

Her eyes opened to his, startled at the sudden passion of his voice. He went on recklessly: "And I can't figure it! I can't figure how you can say you love me and yet be so carried away by the things Jake can give you."

"Stop — won't you, please! Carried away by Jake! I could stay home forever if I thought you really cared."

"I care—I love you. I've told you that. You know how it is. I can't go wild and throw everything over. Lord, I don't know what to do!"

She reached her hand to him, shutting her lips hard against a frantic, happy cry.

He went on persistent: "But is this true, Chickie—you only went out with him because you thought I didn't care? I was forcing you to it?"

She nodded.

"Chickie, please, you don't kiss Jake?"

She wouldn't meet the pleading in his voice: "Oh—I've plenty, you know. And you've wanted so few this last moon."

"I wonder who's cruel now? Chickie, can't you see things are pretty hard? If I had the money he has—Lord! do you think we'd be stalling around like this? It's just what we were talking of the other night—Ethan Frohm. You think it was terrible for us! We can't take a sleigh and dash ourselves to death down a hill. But when I sit here and watch you, that's what I'd like to do—throw everything up—"

His hands were at her shoulders, a deadly pallor in his face. She laughed softly: "Barry—really? Oh, you mean all this?"

He drew her to him: "What are we going to do, Chickie?"

"Years and years to talk, Barry. After that, years and years to love!"

He kissed her. His lips were cold. He said: "Chickie, you're beautiful today."

Her heart sang with its rapture. How white and glorious his face. She answered: "Every day! But if you love me so, why do you keep away? I couldn't. I wouldn't! Oh, even when I put my hand in yours! You only kissed me once."

He pushed the hair all back from her forehead. He took her face and held it in his hands, staring down at it, drawing its beauty to him.

"Do you want to make me homely, pulling my hair like that?"

He laughed: "Yes, I think I'll throw vitriol in your eyes and they won't haunt me so!"

She saw the anguish in his face, sighed and closed her eyes as though a sweet, intoxicating drink were poured between her lips: "You love me, Barry, I see it now."

"I love you! Who could help it?"

"Help it? What do you mean by that? Oh—don't you want to love me?"

He wound his arms about her, stopping her fears, murmuring: "I love you!"

She answered: "And I—but I'm glad!"

Rich Friends Often Only an Asset Socially, Observes Fay King

SORRY, OLD BOY, BUT YOU KNOW HOW IT IS— "BUSINESS IS BUSINESS!"
DO YOU THINK WE CAN AFFORD TO PAY THAT MUCH?
WHY NOT? IF ANYTHING GOES WRONG YOU'VE GOT RICH FRIENDS WHO WOULD HELP US!
THESE BIRDS WITH THE BIG BANK ACCOUNTS— ACCOUNT FOR EVERY DIME
FAY KING

By FAY KING

IT OFTEN happens that young men of limited means have friends who are comparatively rich.

Due to the comradeship of their social life, these young men secretly place too much confidence in the financial aid they believe their richer friends would extend them.

Because of this they incur debts or take business chances they would not take without this faith. They think that should they need help these friends would gladly give it.

But many—to their sorrow, and let us hope lasting benefit—have learned there is a vast difference between the social and business generosity of rich friends.

It has been aptly said: "Our closest friends are never so close as when it is a matter of money."

Mary Tells Madge of Leslie's Threat of Blackmail

I COULD not see Mary's face resting against my shoulder as she faltered out the story of her encounter with Jack Leslie, but the shuddering horror of her voice as well as her words helped me to visualize clearly the ordeal through which she just had passed, and its setting.

"Did you ever think anybody was going to murder you, Auntie Madge?" Mary went on when she had voiced her fear that Jack Leslie had been angered to the point of killing her by her retort to him.

"Yes, dear," I returned, remembering two or three occasions when I had faced death, once at the hands of Grace Draper and the others in my secret service work under Lillian. "It is not a pleasant experience. But I am sure you need never be afraid of Jack Leslie killing you. He is not the killer type. He is even lower than that—he revels in torturing the minds of people who he fancies have injured him."

"That's what I thought when I got back my common sense," she rejoined, "and if he'd just taken it out in threatening me, I wouldn't have been going around all day with a lump of ice instead of a heart. But he knew where to get me all right, all right, and when the mad dog look in his eyes had changed to the way those cobras up in the Zoo look at you, he began to talk very slowly as if he were dropping icicles.

" 'If that's the way you feel,' he said, 'then I'm wasting my time in trying to be decent to you. I thought for the sake of old times I'd make an appeal to you—I'm dead broke—instead of putting a gun to your head. But since you prefer the gun, why! here's the first shot. You meet me here each week with thirty-five dollars—I can't eat on less—or I'll regale that high-minded Noel of yours with some details of our little affair a while ago which he won't relish hearing.' "

"Oh!" I cried aghast as Mary stopped. "The unspeakable beast!"

"That's what I called him," Mary said, and there was that in her voice which effectively banished the momentary ugly fear which had flashed into my mind at her words. "Then," she went on, "I told him the truth, that I long ago had told Noel everything concerning that horrible affair with Jack."

" 'That was very sweet and noble of you,' he said with a nasty sneer. 'But what's to hinder me from adding a few embroidered details of my own? I never was one to be hampered by facts, and I think I know enough of your little ways to make my story so plausible that he can't help believe it. Then you can say goodby to young Mr. Noel, or rather, he'll say goodby to you. He'll fly from you if I get the chance to tell my story with sound and scenic effects.' "

"You poor baby!" I ejaculated, horrified, "facing that beast alone. But of course you know that Noel would never believe him, would not even listen to him for a second. He would be more likely to kill him as if he were the insect to which your uncle likened him."

"That's what I'm afraid of," Mary said tremulously, but proudly, "that Noel will go berserk if he meets Jack. And that's what I told my old dancing partner with trimmings when he finished threatening me.

" 'Do you think for an instant?' I flung at him, 'that Noel Veritzen would believe anything you might say against me? He never would let you start to begin with. He'd kill you as he nearly did that other time. Go ahead and tell anything you please about me, anywhere and see who'll believe you. You won't be around much longer anyway. I'll see that my uncle Dicky runs you out of town.'

"Of course that was an awful bluff," Mary went on shamefacedly, "for I didn't expect anything of the kind. But I thought I might as well tell a good one while I was about it, and I started to walk away with my head high, when he caught me by the arm.

" 'No you won't see that anybody runs me out of town,' he snarled. 'You may not be afraid for yourself, but you will be for the little boy-friend. And I'm here to tell you that every time you don't come across with the kale I asked of you, he's going to get a visit to the hospital.' "

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Spring Musings

THESE are the sort of days, when a man goes down to his office and works a little every morning, just to take his mind off his golf.

When a man marries, he thinks he wants a piece of alabaster to admire and cherish; but what he really wants is a piece of putty to mold over into whatever image happens to suit his fancy.

The worst thing about long skirts, high waists and long hair is that they DATE a woman; and "women and music should never be dated."

First, a girl fibs to a man about how wonderful she thinks him! Then she murmurs a few white lies at the altar; then she lies to the world about how happy or successful they are; and, lastly, she puts a beautiful lie on his tombstone.

Many a man can fall desperately in love with a girl, at this time of year; and then has to stop to recall her last name, when he wants to address a card to her next Christmas.

A man is not middle-aged until he can feel all the anticipatory thrills at the thought of a Rotary luncheon that he used to feel at the prospect of a date with a new Spring sweetheart.

No matter how complete a woman's confidence in her husband, she just naturally can't HELP wondering why he insists on wearing his new suit and a snappy Spring tie to the office on Saturday mornings.

The marriage-partnership should always start out with a big surplus of love. When a little love has to last a lifetime it spreads out awfully thin.

* * *

A bachelor loves to dream of marriage—because it is so sweet to wake up and find himself still single.

The White House Gang

spite these boys' words, acts, appearance and roughness, TR knew a very great deal about their souls.

For testing the texture, quality and endurance of any sort of clothing give it to any boy to wear for a few hours. The seat must be strong, unsnagable, preferably of armour-plate; the elbows must be triple thickness, the knees of some miraculous material which will continually replace itself.

Disliked Collars

At the end of a regular Gang meeting, a boy might hardly be recognizable, except to his own mother. For having been inspected, at least for cleanliness and a certain conventional completeness of attire, before starting off for the White House, he might fall desperately from grace and return in quite another far less reputable guise. His mother would see that her son's collar—we wore Eton collars—was fresh. The Gang, with or without intent, would see to it, before the afternoon was over, that the collar was returned, together with the boy, both rather shopworn and soiled.

Especially, were those Eton collars the subject of attack. At school, they were considered effete symbols of undemocratic opulence, and we were unmercifully ragged about them. But, with something akin to caste-pride, we refused to hide them under the collars of our jackets, as some boys did, but wore them flagrantly, right outside, as they were intended to be worn.

I once carried a 2-cent stamp, affixed by Quentin, together with my name and address, scrawled all across the back of my collar, and on the side of it this legend: "If not delivered, return to White House, Wash., D. C." To my intense anguish, I was forced to take a street car home, in order to avoid being late for supper; as a consequence, I had to endure the stares, smiles, remarks, questions and laughter of a car-load of afternoon shoppers, coming back from F street, together with a number of business men and government clerks.

Had I been alone, it would have been a simple matter to have hidden my collar under my coat; but, unluckily, two other members of the Gang were with me, highly delighted at the sensation I was creating. My pride in sticking it out, therefore, was just a trifle greater than my suffering, since they told everybody within earshot that Quentin Roosevelt had personally addressed me home, and that the inscription was in his authentic handwriting.

The commotion caused, however, was nothing compared to the great collar-riot which occurred one snowy Saturday afternoon, in Chase's Polite Vaudeville, a theater which stood on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, near the Treasury. We had arrived in state, all properly collared, in a White House carriage.

The weather had been damp and chill and the theater was thoroughly warmed. As we entered and were ushered to a box, provided, as Q informed us, "at great expense by my mother," the heat of the place was similar to that of a Turkish bath.

To our surprise and Q's evident annoyance, someone in an orchestra seat recognized him; there was an instant craning of necks, a murmur, and, finally, a ripple of applause, as we seated ourselves endeavoring not to notice the demonstration. . . . The vaudeville progressed politely, and as our excitement rose with the thwacks of a slap-stick comedy we began to drip with perspiration.

"Take off your coats!" Q said, being host, and we removed them.

Presently, our enthusiasm being enhanced by a juggling act and a precarious chair-balancing-tower, our collars began to wilt.

"Take 'em off!" said Q, commencing to remove his own. So we removed our collars.

The jugglers took their bows, the asbestos curtain was rung down and the lights went up, for the intermission. The sudden illumination discovered to the audience five Eton collars, perched in a row upon the wide velvet edge of the box. Their owners had vanished. There was much laughter, and tremendous applause from the audience.

Hit of Show

Suddenly realizing its coatless and collarless state, the Gang had dropped, as one boy, to the floor of the box. Which action, of course, was born of a quite accurate understanding of the proprieties of the occasion.

"By buzzard!" Q said, still on his hands and knees, and reaching up for his collar, from behind the solid edge of the box. "That wasn't polite at all! They just shouldn't have noticed it!"

One by one, the collars disappeared from the view of the audience, which loudly applauded each fresh disappearance, as the Gang crawled across the floor of the box in single file and out through the curtains hung behind it. There we waited, more or less stunned by the furore of the ovation, yet secretly pleased by it, although not showing this to one another. We stood behind the curtain until the intermission was over, and the lights were turned low, before venturing back to our seats, to be met by a round of applause, more prolonged than before. This was the end of our act and the actors upon the stage had to wait until the audience was through with us, before they could resume.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Vitamins and Their Worth

EVERYBODY knows that food is a necessary and vital factor in life. But it is only recently that we have had knowledge of just what happens to it in the body. We better appreciate what the scientists call "food metabolism." Even now it is not fully understood.

DR. COPELAND

Food has been studied for its protein, fat, carbohydrate, mineral and water content. The calories, or the heat-producing elements, in food have been talked about, too.

Although the nourishing effect may be considered proper from the chemical and mechanical standpoint, this may not supply all our needs.

There are specific substances in food that regulate the individual organism. They are called the "vitamins." Their presence is necessary in food in order that full nourishment of the body may be secured.

When sufficient vitamins are lacking in the diet of the young, they do not attain normal growth. Without them an adult will be reduced in weight and lack vigor. He becomes an easy mark for infectious diseases. As a result of such an ailment one of the many deficiency diseases may attack the body.

Let us consider some of these vitamins.

"Vitamin A" is found in animal fats, especially in cream and its products, in cod liver oil, egg yolk and bone marrow. We find it also in the leafy vegetables, yellow corn, sweet potatoes, tomatoes and raw carrots, always in the yellow vegetables.

When Vitamin A is absent the appetite falls, there is a poor digestion and growth. The sinuses may have pus formation. Eye trouble may result. A deficiency in this vitamin often causes general physical weakness, susceptibility to lung and eye trouble or certain forms of anemia.

"Vitamin B" is a sensitive substance. It is destroyed by heat easily. We find it in milk, egg yolk, vegetables, legumes—that is, peas, beans and lentils and spinach. Nuts contain it, and so do malt, whole grain cereals and red meats.

Absence of Vitamin B results in poor appetite and digestion, loss of weight and emaciation. There will be loss of vigor and perhaps enlarged ductless glands. The nervous system may be affected.

Its presence in the diet not only increases the appetite and digestion, but it promotes growth. Nerve diseases are prevented by its presence in the food. It increases both the quantity and quality of the milk of the nursing mother.

Another vitamin regulates the mineral supply of the body. Especially does it control the lime and phosphorus changes in the system. It prevents rickets and assists in overcoming tuberculosis and diseases of the teeth.

Space prevents any description of the other vitamins, but milk carries all of them. Every one should make the most of this perfect food. The diet should be so regulated that these life-giving vitamins are always present in quantities sufficient to maintain good health.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The General Rule for Leaving Cards

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When invited to an afternoon tea or reception, and there are two hostesses and two honor guests, how many cards should be left?

2. Should a stenographer (who is an unmarried girl and not a young girl and receives a good salary and works for a professional man, a married man with a family) present him on his birthday with personal gifts such as traveling set, brief case, a desk pen, shirt case, bedroom slippers, socks, handkerchiefs and numerous other things?

ANXIOUS.

IN this case I should leave four cards, one for each of the hostesses and one for each of the honor guests. The general rule for calling is to leave not more than three cards of any one kind, but for such an occasion it would, I think, be better to leave one card for each, so that no one will feel slighted.

2. No, most decidedly, no!

Evincing Gratitude for a Shower Courtesy

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When a small piece of lemon is served with fish, is it proper to squeeze the juice on the fish?

2. What should a bride-to-be say at a shower when given in her honor when she thanks her guests?

YES.

2. Something like this: "It was so kind of Mrs. Andrews to plan such a beautiful party for me, and to invite such charming guests to come to make me happy and to tell me of their wishes for my future happiness. I have had one of the most delightful times of my life, and I cannot begin to tell you how much I thank our hostess and you—every one of you."

As each gift is opened, the guest of honors thanks the giver, and then the day following she should write a note to each one to tell her of her appreciation and gratitude.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 19

EXCEPTING for those in employment, this day may be fraught with vexations, perplexities and treachery, according to the lunar transits. Although there are some propitious auguries, these may be made effective by rigid self control and every precaution against deceit.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of an advantageous year for employment and for dealing with those in high places, but otherwise there is need for watchfulness against fraud and treachery and for decisive self-control.

A child born on this day may be aggressive and tempestuous, but may succeed in employment and with superiors.

COMOROSKY, OF BUCS, SHOWS WAY TO FIELD FLY BALL WITH RUNNERS ON BASES

It is surprising how many outfielders, even in the big leagues and the high class minors, do not catch fly balls properly when there are runners on the bases and a throw home or to one of the sacks is necessary. Too many of them take the ball over their heads and then have to set themselves for the peg, or "shot-put" it away. Adam Comorosky, of the Pirates, is one of the fielders who has learned the proper way to make the play, as illustrated above. In the first picture, he is demonstrating the wrong manner of making the catch. In the second, he is properly set, with dark glasses, to take a ball in a sun field. From then on he is perfection itself in his manner of play. Note how he takes the ball in his outstretched hands, with the palms up. Then watch his natural motion to gain leverage for a quick throw and the follow-up motion. Here's a lesson the sandlotters might well learn and employ.

Carnera Wins Another.

HURLERS MUST LEARN TO HIDE STUFF

ONE weakness that sends many otherwise well-qualified young pitchers back to the minor baseball leagues, or that keeps them from being as effective as they might be in event of their hanging on to major league berths for a time, is inability to hide what they are going to throw. A hurler may have all the stuff and even the fine control essential to success in the upper circuits, and yet fail because he uses different movements in delivering the various kinds of balls he serves to the batters. In other words, he telegraphs his pitches.

Fred Frankhouse

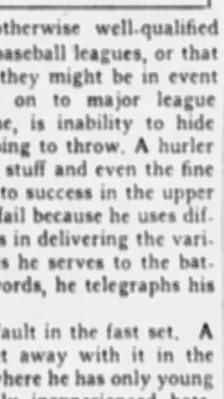
It's a fatal fault in the fast set. A slabman may get away with it in the smaller leagues where he has only young and comparatively inexperienced batsmen to face, but conditions are different in the majors. There he is up against smart hitters who study his every action on the mound, and unless he learns to cloak his intentions by delivering different pitches with the same motion it won't be long until the wise failsmen are able to detect what he is going to do, with the result that they speedily drive him out of the league.

ANOTHER instance of this weakness has just been uncovered in the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals at Bradenton, Fla. The fault flinger is Fred Frankhouse. Fans in Pittsburgh and elsewhere often have wondered at Frankhouse's failure to get better results in the big show, inasmuch as he appeared to have about everything required.

It develops that the pitcher has been sending telegrams to the batters. He has started his curve from the waistline, his crossfire from the shoulder, and so on. By watching the position from which he delivered the ball, the hitters learned what he was going to throw and thus escaped being fooled. Manager Gabby Street has taken Frankhouse in hand in an effort to make him start all his stuff from the same spot. If he doesn't succeed, Fred is going back to the minors, the fate that has befallen many others with similar defects.

ONE of the smartest pitchers in the game in this respect, and one who has discovered and corrected telegraphing habits in others, is George Uhle, now with the Detroit Tigers, previously a star for the Cleveland Indians.

Uhle is among the few pitchers who ever jumped right into the majors from the sandlots and made good without first getting minor league experience. You've got to be naturally smart to do that, so it isn't surprising to learn that there has been something besides speed and curves behind Uhle's success.



George Uhle

EARL COLLARD, now with the Phils, once was among Uhle's pitching mates on the Cleveland staff, and gives an interesting line on George's inside work. "When we roomed together," Collare relates, "Uhle went downstairs every day and bought all the newspapers. He went over every box score very carefully to see what the hitters were doing and who had worked against them. He did this, not only one day. He knew, of course, the best stuff that each of those other pitchers had, and figured that they must have pitched in a certain manner. From the bake-hit column he learned the results they had obtained by pitching that way. When George went against those same hitters he had them in a hole, because he had the dope on them from the box scores. He knew what they had been hitting and what they had been failing to hit.

"HERE'S another incident to show how closely Uhle observes things. One day we were standing in a corner of the field watching Willis Hudlin pitching for Cleveland. After a time Uhle said to me: 'He'll throw a fast ball now. There goes his curve.' We couldn't catch any sign, yet George was calling every pitch correctly.

"When I asked him how he had made his discoveries, Uhle said: 'When he is throwing his fast ball he brings his hand back so far,' showing me the distance. 'When he is throwing his curve he brings it back a little less. Now watch it.' I did, and sure enough Hudlin was doing unconsciously just what Uhle had said. Hudlin wouldn't believe it when George told him, but was soon convinced and speedily corrected the fault that might have been his undoing."

IN SPITE of all the publicity given to them and the huge prices paid for them in the fall of 1928, Lyn Lary and Jimmy Reese appear to

By JESS CARVER

Having clamored laboriously to the threshold of the championship, one over the broken hearts of McKees Rocks, Aliquippa and Uniontown and the other over the prostrate forms of Swissvale, North Braddock and New Castle, New Kensington and Duquesne will clash tonight in the final round of the eighteenth annual W. P. I. A. L. basketball tourrament on the Stadium floor. The battling will begin at 8 p. m.

Harold Wilson

The winner of tonight's contest will meet Sharon, holder of the title in the Northwestern section of the P. I. A. Aafor the right to represent this end of the commonwealth in the annual State title play. This game will be played at Grove City Friday night.

DUKES FAVORITES

A victory for Duquesne will keep the league title in Section VII, where Homestead won out a year ago and was eliminated during the section races by the Dukes during the campaign just past. Duquesne has been the more impressive quintet during the eliminations, and boasting a trio of stars of the ability of Harapas, Beck and Servick, owns a slight edge over the Allegheny Valley representatives.

New Kensington has won the right to be called the greatest eleventh hour team of the tourney. After scoring a decisive victory over McKees Rocks in the first round, the Glockmen put on a sensational last-period rally to eliminte one of the tourney favorites, Harding High, of Aliquippa, and then traveled through four extra periods to put out Uniontown in the semi-finals. Harold Wilson, blonde forward, has been the star of the New Kensington attack, his efforts providing the victory punch against both Aliquippa and Uniontown.

NEED FAST START

A slow start by New Kensington tonight is almost certain to prove fatal, for Duquesne, with a sound attack and defense, also is a fine finishing team, and will very likely put down any late game uprisings on the part of Whitey Wilson and his mates.

Followings are the records of the finalists in the tourney and of their opponents:

N. Kensington	22	Aliquippa	21
N. Kensington	23	Uniontown	22

PETTY, MEINE GET MOUND ASSIGNMENT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—With all hands except Pie Traynor in good condition, the big squad of Pirates were safely sheltered here today and on edge for the long series with the Seals and Missions of San Francisco and the Oaks, of Oakland. The Pittsburghers are billed to perform in the San Francisco Bay district during the succeeding nine days, 10 games being scheduled with the three clubs.

Wade Killifer's Mission Reds will furnish the opposition for the Pirates in three games beginning this afternoon. After the Buccos finish with the Reds they will open hostilities with the Seals and at the conclusion of the two series on Recreation Park, the Freebooters will move across the bay to Oakland, the home of Remy Kremer, Joe Devine and Stuart Clarke. Dick Bartell also will be at his back door, Alameda being a suburb of Oakland.

ENS IN EARNEST

Skipper Ens today let it be known that everything from here on is in all seriousness. In other words, Jewell has cautioned his athletes to play out every string to win. Jewel was a bit peeved over the defeat of his regulars at the hands of the Seals in Paso Robles, but under the circumstances, he thought it best to let that setback ride. However, he wants to get on the winning side tout de suite and will bend every effort to open today with a triumph.

The Buccos will miss the services of Capt. Traynor, who, after all, is the real spark plug on which the team operates. Pie's eye infection last night was still giving him plenty of trouble. In his place at third base this afternoon will be Stuart Clarke, unless Traynor shows a hasty improve-

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—The Harvard Observatory is getting a lot of credit for finding a new planet, but look at all the stars the newspaper correspondents have discovered the past month. But most of them won't ever be visible north of the Mason and Dixon line. After looking at some of the discoveries in our camp, I guess Griff's scouting staff is training on wood alcohol. The wet weather all over the South lately has only improved two clubs. Nick Altrock. The Braves and Red Sox always look best on a rainy day.

Zuppke to Speak At School Dinner

Robert E. Zuppke, head coach of football at Illinois, arrived here this morning from Chicago, and will be the principal speaker at the W. P. I. A. L. banquet at Webster Hall tonight at 5:30.

Following the dinner, the Illinois mentor will be the guest of W. P. I. A. L. officials at the New Kensington-Duquesne game for the league championship in the Pitt Stadium.

BOUQUILLON LOSES

BOSTON, March 18.—(AP.)—A badly-cut eye robbed Moise Bouquillon, French light-heavyweight, of a well-earned decision over Joe Monte, of Brockton, at the Arena here last night. As it was Monte was awarded a technical knockout in the eighth round by Referee Johnny Martin, who stopped the battle after Bouquillon had piled up an impressive margin on points.

Trapshooters Meet Thursday Evening

By JULIUS LEVIN

The J. J. Veronas will be out to clinch the second half championship of the Allegheny County League tonight when they meet the Allentown Turners at Columbus Temple.

The Veronas making a brilliant comeback after losing a four-extra-period game to Rittex are not taking anything for granted in their battle with Allentown tonight, and will send their strongest lineup against Dad Rogers passers.

ALLENTOWN MENACE

Allentown has upset several of the contenders for the pennant this season and will strive hard to add the Veronas to its list of victims tonight.

The Veronas at present are leading the defending champions by a margin of one-half game due to their victory over the Charleroi Lions last Saturday, while the Homestead Ackermans were taking one on the chin at the hands of the Lafayettes. A victory tonight will clinch the laurels for the Aldermen and assure them of a place in the playoffs with the Duquesne Lafayettes, winners of the first half crown.

With the County League season slated to wind up this week, the series for the championship more than likely will get under way next week. The playoffs will be on a two-of-three basis. No definite dates have been set.

HYATT TO PLAY

Tomorrow night the Charley Hyatt All-Stars will make their first appearance in the Greater Pittsburgh District when they tangle with the Goldenseals at the South Side Market House. Supporting the famed Pitt forward will be Gyp Wunderlich, Ben Dubic, Ray Montgomery, Leo Cohen and Paul Zehfuss. This game has stirred up considerable interest and should attract a capacity crowd. Yans Wallace has his Goldensons all set to take a fall out of the collegians.

Two high-class amateur games are scheduled tomorrow at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House and Kingsley House. At the I. K. S. the Penn Little Five will meet the Penn Cadets for the junior championship, while at Kingsley House the Y. M. H. A. passers will meet Community House in a semi-final battle in the senior division. The winner will meet the Knickers for the championship next Monday night in the Duquesne University gym.

The members of the former Coffey Club are hard at work for their benefit game with the Y. M. H. A. West Penn Penn Leaguers at the Y. M. H. A. next Thursday night. The proceeds of the game will be donated to the Y. M. H. A. baseball team. Buckets Sandomire, Buck Gefsky, Harry (Cutsey) Levine, Moy Marks, Gimp Golomb, Bill Miller and several other prominent stars will be in the Coffey Club lineup.

Equitable Gas bumped the Philadelphia Company, 30 to 29, and Sales and Service defeated Bylesby, 30 to 24, in the Philadelphia Company League last night.

P. & L. E. was beaten by Riecks, 33 to 24, in the C. & I. circuit. The Goldenson Vanities copped their twenty-fifth in beating Kirwin, 25-7.

HYATT TEAM COPS

JEANNETTE, Pa., March 17.—Charley Hyatt's All-Stars opened their barnstorming tour here last night with a 46-22 victory over Jeannette Felders before a capacity crowd. The lineup:

MERMAIDS SET TWO MORE RECORDS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 18 (AP.)—Helene Madison, 16-year-old sensation of Seattle Wash., sprinted through the waters of Roman Pools here yesterday for the fourth world record she has set in her first appearance in a National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championships meet.

The meet, a 5-day affair, was won by the Women's Swimming Association of New York with 43½ points, part of them due to five of 10 world marks set during the contest.

The Pacific Coast star cut one-tenth of a second from the mark set by Ethel Lackie, Chicago, in Philadelphia, March 8, 1926, in the 100-yard free style swim against time.

Sharing last-day honors with Miss Madison was the New York Women's Swimming Association relay team which established a new world mark of 4:19 2-5 seconds in the 400-yard relay event, cutting 4 2-5 second from the former record. The New York team was composed of Lisa Lindstrom, Catherine Ames, Eleanor Holm and Adelaide Lambert and shattered a five-year-old record held by a team composed of Miss Lambert, Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin and Helen Wainwright.

Mothers to Banquet Carrick Gridders

Mrs. George R. Braun will preside tonight when their mothers will banquet members of the Carrick High School football team in the Bethel Baptist Church, Brownsville road and Madeline avenue.

Jock Sutherland, Pitt mentor, and Bill Amos, W. & J. coach, are among the honor guests, the speakers including Joseph Lewis, toastmaster; Carl Bubenheim, retiring captain; Coach T. J. Lyons, Assistant Coach Ned Rephogle, W. J. Sprenkle, principal of the school and Dr. H. C. Updegraff.

RODGERS-HART MATCH IS CLOSED

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

The Jackie Rodgers-Heine Hart fight at Motor Square Garden is on for next Monday night. James (Red) Mason, joint manager with Johnny Deutsch of Rodgers, today called Manager John L. Hernon of the Garden on the telephone from Chicago, where Rodgers is training and capitulated. Receipt of word from Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle that Rodgers and both of his managers would be indefinitely suspended in this state if they pulled out after having agreed to box the best available opponent at 124 pounds ended the controversy that had been raging for two days.

Rodgers, it appears, was the least guilty of the triumvirate. His managers, suffering from an exaggerated opinion of the drawing powers and all-round importance of their protege, now that he has won eight bouts in a row by knockouts, put on the prima donna act. They signed at first to box at 122 pounds and then arbitrarily raised the weight to 124 pounds, which caused the original match with Archie Bell to fall through, and then insisted on their right to pick and choose a substitute opponent, even going so far as to come up with the suggestion that Chick Suggs be resurrected from the fistic graveyard as a sacrificial setup for Jackie.

Jackie Rodgers

RODGERS MAKES DECISION

When the real situation was placed squarely before Rodgers in Chicago late yesterday, he ordered an about face. Despite the stand of his managers that Hart is a hard hitter and Jackie had nothing to gain and everything to lose boxing him, the latter told them to go ahead with the match.

The Motor Square Club was negotiating with Andy Martin of Boston; Johnny McCoy, of Buffalo, and Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, as emergency opponents for Rodgers when the firm of Mason and Deutsch gave in.

Announcement was made today by Manager Hernon that the advance seat sale for the show has been the heaviest in the Motor Square Club's history and that any persons who have purchased tickets to see Bell box and are not satisfied with the change can have their money refunded by applying at the box office not later than Saturday.

Benefit

LOUDEN CAMPBELL

Former local boxing star. National amateur champion in 1895, for whom a benefit show will be held in the Mouse Temple on April 19. He has been in bad health for several years.

PLAN BENEFIT FOR CAMPBELL

A group of Pittsburgh district boxing and wrestling notables has rallied to the assistance of Louden Campbell, national amateur ring champion back in 1895, and later a professional lightweight star and referee, who has been ill for several years. They will stage a big benefit show for him in the Moose Temple, downtown, on the night of April 19.

Four other local stars were crowned national champions in the tournament in which Campbell won his laurels, the most successful national tournament ever held, from a Pittsburgh standpoint. They were Joe Quinn, John Finnegan, Eddie Horen and Jimmy Salmon. Professionals from out-of-town were rung into the tournament, but the local stars made their cleanup nevertheless.

Jimmy McKeever, another star of those days, is chairman of the committee in charge of the Campbell benefit; James McMahon, chief clerk of the prothonotary's office, vice chairman; Jiggy Hunt, secretary, and Michael Shannon, deputy fire chief, treasurer. Other members of the committee are:

Handball, Squash Tourneys Advance

Four handball matches and three squash racquets tilts were played yesterday at the Keystone A. C., although the big feature of the day was an exhibition by Al Banuet, national handball champion, who left this morning for New York. Play in both the handball and squash tourneys was resumed this morning. Yesterday's summary:

HANDBALL

Al Banuet, P. A. A., defeated Sam Wolfe, Y. M. H. A., 21-20, 21-7; M. E. Furst, Y. M. H. A., defeated E. C. Clark, P. A. A., 17-21, 21-11, 21-20; V. McGuinness, P. A. A., defeated Al McCabe, Y. M. C. A., 21-7, 21-7; Theos E. Blaine, K. A. C., defeated Phil Lapedium, Y. M. H. A., 21-9, 21-7.

SQUASH RACQUETS

Livingstone, University Club, won by default from G. P. O'Neil, K. A. C.; W. Heron, P. G. C., defeated O. Kauffman, K. A. C., 10-15, 15-10, 15-8, 15-5; Capt. McMahon, P. A. A., defeated T. E. Mathe, K. A. C., 8-15, 15-10, 15-9, 5-15, 15-8; Don McCutcheon, K. A. C., defeated Gilmer, K. A. C., 8-15, 15-10, 7-15, 15-4, 15-12; Wolfe, P. G. C., won from Diamond, Y. M. H. A., by default; J. Rogers Flanner, P. A. A., won from G. Sivert, P. A. A., by default.

Connie Mack To Go on Air Next Monday

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Connie Mack is to make his radio debut at the age of 67.

The veteran manager of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics will try his hand at broadcasting next Monday. He will go on the air at 9:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time), over Station WEAF and a nation-wide network, it was announced.

He will talk from the Fort Meyers, Fla., camp of his Athletics.

PASQUELLA PILOT

JEANNETTE, Pa., March 18.—Dan Pasquella will manage the Jeannette Jays for the 1930 season, it was announced after the meeting held by the directors of the Jeannette Athletic Association, which was attended by Walter Hapgood, of the Montreal club of the International League.

Long's Sport Comment

have been crowded out of the Yankee regular infield again. Manager Bob Shawkey announces the selection of Ben Chapman for third base and Allen Cooke for the open outfield job.

Donie Bush

Both were obtained from St. Paul. Cooke hit .358 last year and led the American Association in home runs with 33. Chapman hit .336 and led the league in runs scored, with 162. With Bubbles Hargrave a sure bet as coach, pinch-hitter and change catcher, and Americus Polli making good as a pitcher, the Yanks appear to have done fairly well in their deals with St. Paul.

DONIE BUSH and his method of handling a ball club have made a big hit with the war correspondents who are covering the training of the White Sox. Edgar Munsel writes of the former Pirate leader in the Chicago "Herald Examiner:" "There must be one primary reason for the spring successes of the Sox, and it doesn't take long to isolate it. All that the Sox are and hope to be they owe to an inestimable extent to their new manager, Donie Bush. Donie is a small order in a physical sense, but a Leviathan in his leadership and domination.

"BUSH'S name has already attained a magic luster. It is something to swear by. The respect for him is due to his ability as an instructor, who not only can point out faults, but who can correct them. Donie has the natural knack of showing the men what it's all about. His talent as a strategist and disciplinarian will be more evident later.

"Whatever class Cissell attains as a second baseman will be directly traceable to Bush. Every day in practice Donie worked with Cissell, sometimes for a solid stretch of an hour. He corrected Cissell's principal trouble, breaking too fast on ground balls. He took Johnny Ridd's, the new catcher in hand and showed him heaps; he improved the Sox greatly in baserunning and sliding; he showed Johnny Watwood that his hands were ahead of the bat; he taught Carl Reynolds a follow through; he prescribed lighter sessions for Bud Clancy, and so on down the line. He has had the confidence of the players from the start."

BILLIARDS is one branch of sport competition in which class may always be depended upon to tell. A player can't go through a long title tournament and win on merely luck or breaks. He has got to have the goods. The latest evidence of this is found in the result of the national amateur championship 18.2 balkline tourney in St. Louis. Percy Collins and Edgar Appleby were the favorites in this on past form, and class told again. They finished one-two. It is the fifth time Collins has won the crown.

Two Pittsburgh amateur stars, Johnny Clinton and W. P. McClure, watched the progress of the St. Louis tournament with interest, chafing at their inability to compete. Both were invited to play, but could not enter owing to pressure of business matters. Clinton formerly held the national title. McClure competed at Chicago in 1928 and in Milwaukee in 1929, and also held the Eastern championship.

Stella Walsh

STELLA WALSH, the outstanding girl athlete of the present-day, attributes her success largely to rigid training ideas—no drinking, no smoking, no sweets of any sort, plenty of sleep (she retires never later than 10 p. m.), and just enough exercise to keep herself in perfect shape. She does setting-up exercises in the morning, but is careful not to overwork, even in a race, in order to avoid burning herself out. This Polish girl (her proper name is Walassiewicz) has run 40 yards in 5.4 seconds, 50 yards in 6 seconds, 60 meters in 7.5, 220 yards in 26.1, and it is claimed that once during a visit to Poland last year she ran 100 yards against men in 12 flat. She expects to continue smashing women's sprint records for at least five years more and is now centering her plans on the Olympic games of 1932.

FIGHT fans were not amiss in the surmise that Primo Carnera would dispose of Chuck Wiggins in their bout at St. Louis last night just as he had disposed of nine previous opponents in this country. Wiggins took the count in the same round as the majority, the second. Carnera has won 10 American bouts in less than 47 minutes, raking in about $120,000. Wiggins was a good trial horse in his day, but if there had been any danger of his being too good last night the match would not have been made.

They're picking the men whom Primo is to meet and they'll continue to steer him clear of any really dangerous spots. A Dempsey match or a title fight and a million-dollar gate is the goal, and there won't be any slipping, whether or not it is deemed necessary to sidestep George Godfrey. If Carnera is allowed to meet Godfrey, it's a safe bet that those interested in Primo's success—and more than his managers are interested in it now—will feel pretty sure in advance that the Italian is going to win.

Between Rounds

Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, who beats Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, at New Haven, Conn., tonight may meet Kid Chocolate in Cleveland April 21. A match between Tommy Freeman and Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, also is in the making for Cleveland, April 8.

Willie Hayes, Cleveland flyweight star, hurls Harpo Atherton at Indianapolis, the latter's home town, tonight. Johnny Chinde and Mickey Doris box for the lightweight championship of Johnstown at Johnstown. Vesper Judy, of Cleveland, and Frankie Naseff, of Steubenville, are in the semi-final. The Homewood Progressive Club stages an amateur show in its gym.

Bert Connery, of Detroit, arrived in town last night with Joe Ivy Jones, Willie Shaw, featherweight, and Johnny Mellon, lightweight. They will be here for at least a week. Shaw, who holds a decision over Archie Bell, is slotted for a crack at Jackie Rodgers, while Mellon wants to box Tony Herrera or Joey Goodman here.

Matchmaker Nate Lief, of the Duquesne Athletic Boxing Club, has augmented his card for tomorrow night's show with the signing of George Evans, of Braddock, to box Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, in the opening bout. He has Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, in the 10-round main bout. Jimmie Fredo and Tommy Ward, in the semi-final, and Young Nanni and Johnny Hagerty, in the second number.

Chuck Burns, of Akron, and formerly of Texas, and meets Harry Williams, local Negro heavyweight, in the main bout at McKeesport, Thursday night. Burns fooled Young Stribling three times and also has met George Colleton, Cowboy Jack Willis, Maxie Rosenbloom, Babe McGoverty, Tony Romano, Phinion Wall, Joe Sekyra, Murray Gibbs and others of note.

PANKA STOPS GREATHOUSE IN EIGHTH ROUND

AL FRIEDMAN VICTOR OVER ROCCO

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 18.—Big Boy George Panka, of Homestead, hard punching heavyweight, halted the comeback attempt of Ed (Fats) Greathouse, local fighter, who held the national amateur heavyweight title six years ago, when he knocked out the former champ in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Coliseum here last night.

Greathouse was a sad spectacle in the ring taking everything Panka threw in his direction. Only once in the fight did he show enough ability to punch back and that was in the first round when he floored Panka with a right to the chin as the referee stepped in to break them. Panka was up at the count of two.

From then on to the end of the fight Panka battered the helpless Greathouse about the ring until the fans yelled for a treaty.

FINISH IN EIGHTH ROUND

A few seconds of action remained in the eighth round when Bunny Buntack's bruiser pumped lefts and rights to Greathouse's midriff until he sank to the floor, taking a count of nine. He arose to be knocked down again, this time for keeps. When the referee, Martin Dietz, reached the fatal count of 10, he still was on the floor. Just before the referee finished tolling off the seconds, Deputy Gardner, of Washington, tried in vain to attract Dietz's attention to stop the fight and save the local fighter from further punishment. Greathouse weighed 210 and Panka 195.

Paul Oger, of Barberton, O., defeated Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, in the six-round semi-final, but the judges called the fight a draw, missing the right verdict by six counties.

ROCCO BEATEN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 18.—(AP.)—Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, won a decision from Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, here last night before 5,000 fans at the Jolly Bowl. Rocco claimed an injury to his right hand in the third round.

K. O. Huske, Akron, O., knocked out Ralph Cauthon, Cleveland, in the fifth round. Frankie Lands, New Castle, lost a decision in six rounds to Don Morse, Jamestown, N. Y.

WILLIAMS, RUTH DRAW

WHEELING, W. Va., March 18.—(AP.)—Stanley Williams, of Martins Ferry, O., and Babe Ruth of Louisville, Ky., fought 10 fast rounds to a draw here last night. Albert Williams, Martins Ferry, and George Liddy, Cincinnati, fought six rounds to a draw.

LAWLESS TOPS BAKER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 18.—(AP.)—Bucky Lawless, of Auburn, won the judges' decision over Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, in 10 fast rounds here last night.

Campus Comment

By KNUTE ROCKNE

Member All-America Board of Football

The papers carried an item recently to the effect that Yale, Harvard and Princeton have agreed to keep their baseball coaches in the grandstand during the games this spring.

This, I presume, is just a forerunner to placing the football coaches in the stands in a year or two. This movement was started by some spineless physical educator whose prime ambition in life seemed to be not only to secure for himself a soft place in life, to get just as much money for conducting a wand drill as a football coach does for absorbing all of the grief that goes with developing a winning or losing football team. Their slogan has been "give the game back to the boys."

Knute Rockne

The games were originated by the students, but were mismanaged to such an extent that the university presidents saw the need of employing coaches, directors and assigning others on the faculty to the work of helping administer college athletics.

Our best coaches do their teaching before the game starts and, consequently, do not have to do any signaling from the sidelines after the game is on. This is good coaching technique, and from the point of view of results it is a good thing to let the boys alone once the game gets under way. Furthermore, if a coach is going to cheat by signaling from the sidelines, he can do that just as well from the grandstand as he could from the bench. This kind of coach should be fired as detrimental to the best interests of education.

It would be a mistake to burden our undergraduates with the tremendous task of organizing their own athletics, administering the plants, looking after the sale of tickets, hiring and firing coaches and all of that. With the heavy work that our faculty imposes on the students today, it would be absolutely impossible for undergraduates to do this work and keep up with their studies.

Hire competent coaches, who are interested in the welfare of the boys, and then leave them alone

ERIE THIRD IN A. B. C. TOURNEY

CLEVELAND, March 18.—Erie pinsters, symbolized in the lighting company team, raised hob with the team event in the American Bowling Congress tourney here last night by hitting 2,557 to gain third place.

Right on the electric heels came the Tish Stars, of Erie, with 2,813 for another good prize winning figure. Nine other Erie teams competed but were out of the money. Alliance, Huntington and Beaver quintets likewise did not shoot into the dough. The scores:

DLUZOSZ NEAR TOP

Johnny Dluzosz, 17, of South Bend, Ind., gained second place in the all events, and third place in the singles. He hit a 691 in the singles and 1,963 in the all-events.

First place in the all-events went earlier in the day to Al Gaudreau, of Saginaw, Mich., with 1,967. He also shot high enough to gain first place in the two man event and second in the singles. Gaudreau teamed with Frank Dezelsky, of Saginaw, for a 1,288. His score in the singles was 700.

A. Schmitz and T. Corken, of Chicago, made a third place crash in the doubles with 1,259.

Al Gaudreau and Frank Dezelsky, Saginaw, Mich., took first place in the doubles with 1288, and Gaureau went on to annex top position in the all-events with 1967 and second in the singles with 700. Seventeen-year-old Johnny Dluzosz, South Bend, Ind., assumed second place in the all-events with 1963 and third place in the singles with 691.

Kearns' Hotel Suite Is Looted of $7,000

CHICAGO, March 18.—(INS.)—The downtown hotel suite of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, was looted of $7,000 in cash and jewelry last night while he was attending the bout of his protege, Mickey Walker, police learned today.

Kearns estimated his loss at $7,000, which included a $3,000 diamond ring and $700 in cash. The remainder of the loot consisted of clothing.

Phil Scott to Box Von Porat, Maloney

NEW YORK, March 18.—(INS.)—Phil Scott, of the famous family of tumblers, will return from England in April and battle Otto von Porat in Chicago and Jimmy Maloney in Boston, according to announcement today of Scott's manager, Jimmy Johnston. He also announced signing of Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, for a bout against Bucky Lawless in Rochester, N. Y., March 31.

MICKEY WALKER WINS

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, and Irish, last night celebrated St. Patrick's Day by knocking out Jimmy Mahoney, Irish in name only, in the second round. Walker weighed 167¾, for the non-title affair, and Mahoney scaled 173¼.

SARPOLIS VICTOR

DRAVO CLUB ENTERS C. & I. LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

The Dravo Contracting Company team, which has entered the Commercial and Industrial loop, expects to have one of the best balanced clubs in the district playing with company teams. It is well known that Dravo Park is without a peer as a playing field, and accoording to Manager Stritzinger the team will be just as classy in the minds of the fans as the venue is.

A number of former stars in other circles will be wearing the Dravo suit, including Britthauer, who played center field with the Detroit Edisons, a stellar semi-pro aggregation. Castillo, from Havana, Cuba, will cover the shortfield, while down South he played with the Almendes club of Havana. So it appears that the Dravo shortfield will be well taken care of. Logiman, pitcher of St. Vincent's College, will burden the pitching problems, and Parker, who played second base with Georgia Tech, will help Castillo with these twin killings around the keystone sack. A number of players from the Kokinos Cardinals also will be with the club.

The West Penn and Central Leagues meet this evening at Honus Wagner's. The rules of both organizations will be talked over, and other interesting matters pertaining to the welfare of both organizations will be discussed. Manager Hank Daly will represent Homewood-Brushton in the session, while Tom Carson will attend the Central League meeting to sponsor the Allegheny Collegians.

It is possible both loops will be closed at this session. A number of teams have applied for memberships, but officials are trying to pick out the strongest and more formidable aggregations. The managers of Verona Community, Wilmerding, Homestead Aces, Whittaker, Universal, North Bessemer, Duquesne Builders, Y. M. H. A., Fintex, Etna Furnitures, Jimmy Cosletts, Roosevelt, Soho Board of Trade, Pressmen and Lincoln Civics are requested to be on hand.

Facts and Fancies About Our New Bucs

NO. 13—RALPH ERICKSON, PITCHER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—What is it that makes young men forsake professions for the call of the diamond? Is it fame, fortune or inherent love of sport? Is it one of the three, or a combination of them all?

Ralph (Lief) Erickson, so-called in honor of the famed Danish navigator, who is said to have touched the shores of America in his queer ship before the discovery voyage of Columbus, has inherited racial characteristics. Lief may not be warlike, as were the Danes of old, but he seems to own their venturesome spirit.

Ralph Erickson

With any other name, Erickson might now be leading the rather prosaic life of a high school teacher and principal. The baseball bumblebee, it seems, sneaked up on him as he prepared for a college degree.

A three-letter man at the University of Idaho, Lief graduated with a B. S. degree and he actually spent a year in teaching biology and American Government before the diamond fever caused him to forsake his scientific calling.

So we now have Prof. Lief Erickson, a lefthanded slab recruit, taking lectures from a lot of older men who wouldn't feel much at home around a college campus unless they happened to roam into the gymnasium where the rest of the "dumbbells" are on view.

And Lief has a fair chance of taking his six-feet-two physique to a pretty high pedestal. Under a Pirate string, he pitched for Columbia, of the South Atlantic League, last summer and acquitted himself impressively. The big Danish youth is one of the smartest rookies in camp, being bright enough, among other things, to take good care of himself. Lief, despite his hefty bulk, is one of the best athletes in the Pirate squad. He is as supple as an acrobat.

Erickson starred at baseball, football and basketball at the University of Idaho. He played end on the grid squad against the cream of the Pacific Coast. Despite his 185 pounds, he is fleet of foot. He jumps center in basketball, and how he can jump!

"But baseball is my favorite game," exclaimed the stalwart Danish southpaw. "I always have liked any kind of sport, but I love baseball."

Erickson started his professional career in the Utah-Idaho League. His work there attracted Pirate scouts, who did not hesitate long in buying him. His college degree gives Lief quite an advantage over the players in the matter of culture, but there is not a more "regular fellow" on the team than this same Lief.

Oh, yes, Lief was married to a Utah girl two weeks before he left for training camp. And does he write letters every day!—CHARLES J. DOYLE.

CARNERA STOPS WIGGINS IN SECOND

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—(AP.)—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis battler of policemen, found the going too tough against Primo Carnera, the man mountain from Venice here last night and the Italian won his tenth straight American knockout victory. Wiggins succumbing in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Wiggins went through the ropes twice in the first minute of the second frame, the first time for the count of seven before willing hands jammed him back onto the canvas and the second time prostrate outside the ring.

More than 22,000 persons jammed the arena, which Promoter Mique Malloy claims is a new world record for indoor boxing events, and paid upwards of $60,000 to see Wiggins, groggy from a fusillade against which he had no defense, sprawl through the ropes.

The behemoth from the Alps carried 271 pounds into the ring while the Hoosier weighed in at 207. A bright green cap and a green jersey helped clothe the Italian in the St. Patrick's night battle.

FORT ERIE, Ont., March 18.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Detroit Cougars will finish their 1929-30 campaigns in the National Hockey League with a battle here tonight.

Toronto will appear at Chicago, the New York Rangers at Boston and the New York Americans at Montreal to help the Pirates and Cougars bring the league's regular schedule to a close. Six members of hockey's major circuit will continue action in the play-offs for the Stanley Cup, beginning Thursday, but neither the Pittsburghers nor the Detroiters were able to win a place in the titular series, and tonight's game here will be the final for both clubs.

Their meeting with the Michiganders will mark the Bucs' third appearance of the season at the local rink, their training camp. The contest originally was carded for Pittsburgh, but landed here via the transfer route.

A Pirate victory tonight will mean little, for their season has been the worst in Pittsburgh hockey history. The Steel City representatives have won five and tied three games in 43 starts and they have been unable to gain a single decision on the road.

HAWKS LOSE STARS

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP.)—The Chicago Black Hawks will go into the Stanley Cup playoffs weakened by the loss of two stars, Marvin (Cyclone) Wentworth and Mush March.

Wentworth, the Hawks' most dependable defense man, is ill with jaundice, while March is recovering from a skate-smashed leg suffered during the Hawk victory over the Boston Bruins last week.

ment. Clarke however, probably will be dropped to sixth place in the batting order with Grantham and Suhr moving up a notch to bolster up the wrecking section of the team.

TRAYNOR FAVORITE

Traynor, by the way, is a top-heavy favorite in this Golden Gate section, therefore his absence will be missed. Supporters of the two local teams love to watch Pie in his greyhound antics and the Pittsburgh captain is generally able to rattle the fence boards of Recreation Park with his drives.

The big attraction this year, however, will be Gussie (Goose) Suhr, the San Francisco boy who has been assigned to the Pirate first-base role. The Coast League players refer to August as "Goose" so that the moniker must be official. Suhr is well-liked on and off the field by San Francisco fans. The Pittsburgh management as well as the owners of the two local clubs are banking heavily on August to draw in many fans.

The Pirates as a whole have a flavor that sits right with native sons. The Suhr, Waners, Kremers, Frenches, Bartells and Clarkes are big numbers in this distant sector, most of those named being residents of California.

Manager Ens intends to use Jess Petty and Heinie Meine against the Missions this afternoon. If the Silver Fox is as good as he has been in the Paso Robles workout, he probably will get the five-inning assignment. The St. Louis Dutchman is due to finish, provided everything goes well.

Dormont High Mat Team Tops Sewickley

Referee—Pi A. M. Milligan, University of Pennsylvania.

GIANTS SEND BACK SHIRES

SAN ANTONIO, March 18.—Two heads have been lopped off, in a manner of speaking, by Manager John McGraw, of the New York Giants, and one of them belonged to Len Shires, brother of The "Great Shires."

Shires, an infielder, and Art Veltman, who can catch or play the outfield, have been sent to the Bridgeport Club, of the Eastern League, Giant farm.

SEKYRA FOULS ROSALES

BUFFALO, March 18.—(AP.)—Joe Sekyra lost on a foul in the first round of his bout with Rosy Rosales, of Cleveland, here last night. The men were in a furious mix when Rosales dropped in apparent great pain. The referee consulted Judge Jimmy Collins who sat right where the men were fighting and on his declaration that he saw the low blow, Sekyra was disqualified. The blow was entirely accidental.

Elliott Strikes, Refuses to Go By Bus

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(AP.)—There's mutiny in the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp and "Jumbo Jim" Elliott, big southpaw, is the mutineer-in-chief. It's all because of the 300-mile bus trip the Robins took from Clearwater to Miami for an exhibition game with the Athletics. Jumbo Jim was badly shaken up in the trip and was sick when he went in to pitch against the A's.

"I won't go back that way," he said. "My health means something to me. If the club won't send me by train I'll pay my own fare back. But I am not going by bus."

Sport Vignettes

Doc Carlson, Pitt's extraordinary basketball coach, had two unusual experiences during the past week . . . . One was attending the Indiana State scholastic tournament at Indianapolis and the other visiting the Rockview State Penitentiary with his team for an exhibition game Sunday en route home from State College, where the Panthers completed their schedule on Saturday night . . . . He got a kick out of the sojourn in jail and isn't explaining how they happened to let him out . . . . Said there was one safecracker there whom he'd even trust to keep time for him at one of his games . . . . The Rockview team had a banner reading "Rockview University" . . . . They give numbers instead of letters there . . . . The Indiana tournament proved the biggest spectacle in the good Doc's experience . . . . He saw 15,000 persons in the seats for the morning games, 15,000 more in the afternoon and 15,000 more in the evening on Friday and scalpers were getting $20 for $1.50 tickets . . . . Whole families came and brought their lunches . . . . The thing is so big that the Indiana School Association which in the past has spent $17,000 annually to build up and tear down seats in a large building on the fair grounds, has arranged to pay Butler University $10,000 a year rental for two days' use of a field house which the university is to build and has signed a 10-year contract and paid four years' rent in advance . . . . The association has $100,000 in its treasury from the receipts of past tournaments . . . . Dr. Carlson was just beginning to recover from this staggering news when the home folks began to bemoan the fact that this year's tournament wasn't up to snuff . . . . They said the teams in it weren't up to the usual standard and that the interest wasn't as hot as in past years . . . . Doc would like to see one of their tournaments in a good year . . . . Carlson saw some of the biggest players for school kids he ever laid his trusty old eyes upon . . . . Two of the teams had 6-foot-4 centers and one stood 6 feet 7 inches in his socks, the darn Carnera! . . . . Indiana is the hotbed of all states for basketball interest, and that explains why Purdue and Indiana always have good teams and Butler also is coming into its own . . . . It has been said that with the material they get neither Indiana nor Purdue ever should lose a game . . . . And Pitt plays both of them next year, with Hyatt, Zehfuss and Les Cohen gone, which is what we have been leading up to all along . . . . They tell a story about Purdue a few years ago having a star who led the Western Conference in scoring and couldn't make the team the next season because of the wealth of material . . . . After sitting on the bench for a long time he got his chance to re-enter the lineup when one of the regulars was hurt and he scored nine field goals . . . . Such material!—HARRY KECK.

Pictures Rural Life as It Is Eastman's Faith

By B. C. FORBES

YOU will enjoy this picture of rural life in America. It is particularly refreshing at this time when so much pessimism abounds concerning farm prices and the lot of our farmers.

IT comes, for readers of this column, from Harold Olson, North Bond, Wis.:

"Throughout the U. S. at present there is a tremendous amount of discussion in regard to 'hard times,' unemployment, business depression and 'what is to become of the little fellow?'

"Being engaged in the retail mercantile business in a town of less than 200 inhabitants, in the western part of the dairy section of Wisconsin, we come in contact with the actual complaints of a dairying community. Last year our store did a business of $35,000 on $12,000 stock, and this year our sales are holding even with last year. The resources of our bank are over $300,000, and our co-operative creamery last year paid out over $225,000 for butter.

"It has been estimated by conservative critics that there is over $800,000 worth of life insurance carried in force in our locality. There is a radio in practically every home and automobiles that average two to every home. The village is adequately served with electricity, and about 20 per cent of our farmers are enjoying the same privilege. We have regular city waterworks with a sewer, and nearly every home in our village attached to it. We have five fraternities and one church with a membership of over 200. This year we raised over $2,000 to cover all expenses of operating it.

"OUR local and state taxes this year are about 25 per cent higher than last year. The farmers are receiving 25 per cent less for their dairy products, and eggs are bringing the lowest price since 1921. The price of beef and veal is much lower than at this time last year.

"But times are not bad, nor is America 'hell-bent' for a long depression when we consider the other phase of the situation.

"We have to drive 25 miles to hear a good vitaphone, and if we are not there by 7 o'clock the theaters are filled and we have to wait until the second show commences. When we hear that tobacco companies made only 119,000,000,000 cigarets in one year, that the U. S. buys only 10 billions of insurance in one year,—and who in the world knows what is spent for candy and cosmetics, regardless of what goes into Saturday night barn dances?—and that one oil company makes a net profit of upwards of 100 million dollars in one year—where does it all come from, if not from the masses?

"YES, America is prosperous. Just a little ripple of a wave makes a terrible ruhmpus with some folks, and now they get out flags and march the streets and say 'We have a h—— of a President.' We all know that many went broke and many are badly bent since the stock market break, but goodness knows that we country people always have butter instead of oleomargarine to stabilize industry.

"Our store has been in business for over 35 years, and we are still going strong."

AFTER comparing little and big business and emphasizing the necessity for organized business, he adds:

"We, the common people of this rural district, are beginning to realize that the great prosperity we are now having is largely due to the large, organized, efficient business that has produced the many luxuries and necessities we now enjoy."

HAVING read that delightful letter from a little business man, read this one from one of America's biggest business men, George Eastman, written the other day to Sturges Dorrance, of New York:

"During the 50 years that the Eastman Kodak Company has been in business there have been severa' times when at the outset of one of these years we have faced what seemed to be an abnormally bad condition in general business. On these occasions the question of retrenchment in our advertising has naturally come up for discussion. Our decision in each case has been, 'spend a little more money and do a lot more hard work.'

"I am not at all sure that there is a depression facing us; but to be on the safe side, the Eastman Kodak Company is taking the same attitude that it did in 1908 and in 1914.

"And just as advertising has played such a vital part in the expansion of the business of the Eastman Kodak Company, so we believe it to be a most powerful force in the building of our many great American industries, in the wide diffusion and maintenance of our national prosperity."

NOW go to work with a will.

TIRE DEMAND BETTER

NEW YORK, March 18.—Recent trade reports of general improvement in retail tire demand is said to be reflecting itself in materially increased sales of automobile casings by U. S. Rubber Company. While the company's footwear business has declined somewhat with less seasonable weather for heavy boots and shoes, activities of mechanical goods division are being maintained at entirely satisfactory levels.

Under normal conditions United States Rubber's current operations probably would yield a substantial volume of profit, but since management has not yet completed reorganization, which was begun something over a year ago, no large volume of earnings can be looked for during the first half of current year.

BELL TO BUILD IN BRADFORD

BRADFORD, Pa., March 18.—(AP.)—The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania announced here that it would spend $785,000 in the construction of a new office and exchange building and in the installation of the dial system on its 5,000 phones in Bradford.

The building of three-story brick construction, will be erected at the corner of Congress and Corydon streets.

Stock Exchange Topics

New York City Traction Shares Are Center Of Activity.

NEW YORK traction shares were the center of a good deal of activity during the day, with smart advances the rule in Interborough, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, and Manhattan Modified Guaranteed shares. In circles ordinarily well-posted on the trend of affairs in the local transit situation, the large scale demand for the traction shares proved rather puzzling. So far as can be learned, there is nothing new in the situation to account for current strength in the stocks. It was suggested that perhaps a strong aggregation had taken hold of the shares, but then sight was not lost of the fact that the situation between the city authorities and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit interests is an amicable one, and some wondered if it were not possible that a plan was being worked out which would bring unification of the city's transit facilities at an earlier date than had been contemplated.

General Railway Signal Company finished 1929 with unfilled orders on hand 99 per cent greater than the total unfilled orders on hand at the close of 1928. At the same time the dollar value of orders was 23.5 per cent greater than for the same period a year ago. There has been quiet but excellent buying of the common shares of this company, based upon prospects of 1930 income bettering the 1929 figures. It is the opinion that the report for the first quarter of the current year will show earnings in excess of those for the same period in 1929, when net income after charges amounted to $314,331, which was equal to 76 cents a share on the 356,500 shares of common. In the 1928 first quarter net was $214,780, or 48 cents a share.

ONLY a short time ago, the petroleum shares were looked upon as having little in the way of early prospects marketwise. But a sudden change has apparently come over the situation, with the struggle for a tariff regarded as having fair measure of chance of success. At any rate it is interesting to find that of yesterday's total turnover of 3,639,600 shares, trading in the oils alone contributed approximately 1,000,000 shares, or about 25 per cent of the entire day's business.

Wall Street heard today that the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce has completed preparations for the dispatch early next month of questionnaires to a number of investment trusts in whose portfolios railway company shares are most prominent. It is understood that among other things the questionnaire will call for a statement of the amount of various stocks held as well as the purpose of the companies in acquiring their interests. The move is directed primarily at several of the large railway holding corporations organized during the last few years, and is believed designed to ascertain for the satisfaction of the committee whether or not such holdings might be intended to block mergers along the lines contemplated by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

INCREASED interest is being shown in General Refractories. A number of important commission houses have been discussing the company and its prospects. This has resulted in bringing some buying into the issue. Unfilled orders are now well ahead of a year ago and predictions have already been heard that the earnings this year will be better than in 1929, when $8.73 a share was shown.

Sales of General Foods have been increasing so far this year and officials of the company are known to be optimistic on the outlook. The company also will benefit from further economies of production and distribution as a result of the better co-ordination of the several concerns which have been acquired in recent years. It always takes time to whip such an organization into shape.

NEW OFFERINGS

New security offerings today include:

The Pure Oil Company, $20,000,000 10-year 5½ per cent sinking fund gold notes, dated March 1, 1930, and to mature March 1, 1940; priced at 97½ and accrued interest, to yield more than 5.80 per cent offered by a banking syndicate headed by the Guaranty Company of New York, and including Dillon, Read & Co., Central-Illinois Company, Inc., and others.

Screw & Bolt Reports Increased Profits

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PITTSBURGH SCREW AND BOLT CORPORATION earned $1,000,000 more in 1929 than its predecessor companies in 1928. Net profit for the year was $3,271,749 after depreciation, interest, taxes and other charges. This was equivalent to $2.18 a share on the 1,500,000 shares of common capital stock.

It compared with net profit of $2,270,134 or $1.51 a share in 1928 on the basis of the present capitalization.

Early in 1929 the present organization was formed by the merger of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company, Graham Bolt and Nut Company and the Colona Manufacturing Company. The expansion in earnings reflects the general high rate of business activity and also the economies in operation resulting from the consolidation.

Fourth Quarter Earnings

IN spite of the unsettlement in business in November and December the company made a fairly satisfactory showing for the final quarter of the year. Profit for the three months ended December 31, 1929, was $643,528 or 43 cents a share. This compared with $959,744 or 64 cents a share in the third quarter of that year.

The current rate of business is fairly active. While sales in December showed a slump they were in good volume in January. February was a slow month but business so far in March has been large. Earnings in the first two months of the year were in excess of the corresponding period of 1929.

Sales of thread protectors for pipe made at the Colona plant have been curtailed by the continued dullness in demand for pipe for the oil fields. Other lines have been enjoying a better demand.

Investments Increase

THE outstanding change shown by the balance sheet of December 31, 1929, was a sharp increase in the investment account. On September 30 the company had $1,500,000 loaned on call and investments in marketable securities of $2,252,145.

As a result of the drop in the call money rate directors found it advisable to withdraw this money from the market. It was placed in investment securities. On December 31 the investment account stood at $4,243,083. This represented the cost of the securities which was slightly in excess of the market value at the end of the year. The improvement in the stock market since that time is understood to have eliminated this difference.

Current Position Strong

AN exceptionally strong financial position was indicated by the balance sheet so that the company could well afford to divert some of the excess funds to investment activities. Cash at the end of the year amounted to $2,800,502. This exceeded all current liabilities of $1,353,457. Total current assets of $10,527,756 were 7.7 times current liabilities.

With this exceptional current position the company had only $3,942,000 of funded debt outstanding. This was $76,000 less than a year ago. On March 15, 1930, an additional $150,000 of the bonds were retired by the sinking fund.

After paying dividends on the stock which is on a $1.40 annual basis the company added $1,699,207 to surplus making total earned surplus of the present organization and its predecessor $2,974,051. Paid in surplus amounted to $9,835,640.

The company has no preferred stock. Total assets amounted to $19,605,149.

Associated Oil Co. Forms New Unit

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Associated Oil Company and Mitsubishi interests in Japan are forming a new oil company in Japan to be known as the Mitsubishi Oil Company which will engage in refining, transportation and distribution of petroleum products, officials stated.

SEEK PROXIES IN STEEL DEAL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 18.—In the "battle of proxies," which is being waged for and against sale of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, long distance calls were made today to California and Florida, while cables were sent to Europe.

A number of stockholders away on winter vacations have changed their plans and will be present at the special shareholders' meeting April 8. Included in this number are John T. Harrington, former president of the Trumbull Steel Company, and W. H. Foster, chairman of the General Fireproofing Company, who have been cruising in the Mediterranean. Mr. Foster is a member of the proxy committee opposing the sale, and was notified by cable of his appointment.

Opponents, led by Cyrus S. Eaton and Myron C. Wick, are housed across the "square" in the First National Bank Building.

Stockholders are being bombarded with letters and telephone calls from both camps.

In this district there is ample confidence in James A. Campbell, chairman of the Sheet & Tube Company, and his long record with the company, but there is much dissatisfaction with terms of the proposed sale.

T. A. T. SHOWING DISAPPOINTS

NEW YORK, March 18.—Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., discloses net loss of $986,591 in its first annual report, which includes operations of Maddux Airlines Company from August 1 to December 31. Transcontinental's loss was $746,519 and that of Maddux $240,071.

C. M. Keys, chairman of the board, said that although operating losses had been expected, the results were "disappointing both in respect to gross volume of traffic and to cost of operations."

"Operating losses," he said, "continued throughout the first quarter of 1930, though the rate reductions have greatly increased traffic and consolidation and drastic revision have reduced costs."

Current assets at the end of the year totaled $3,408,337, including $465,700 in cash and $2,282,463 in government securities. Liabilities aomounted to $387,966.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Inquiry for bonds increased today in both the listed and unlisted market. Time money, quoted as low as 3½ per cent for the short maturity by some dealers, touched a minimum for severals years, contrasting with the 8 per cent rate of a year ago. Call money again appeared in the outside market at 2½ per cent, while the official stock exchange rate fell to 3 after renewing at 3½.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STOCKS RUSH UP IN HEAVY TRADING

More Than 50 Advance to New '30 Highs in Year's Most Active Session

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—In the broadest and most active stock market session of the year today, prices of leading issues were marked up 1 to 10 points. More than 50 stocks, including General Motors, Radio, Eastman Kodak, Goodyear Rubber and most of the oils, moved to new high levels for the year. Blocks of 5,000 to 20,000 shares changed hands at rather frequent intervals, with the tape, at times, running nearly half an hour behind the market.

Easing credit conditions and a growing belief that a turn for the better in business is close at hand, were the principal factors in the day's advance. However, a number of individual issues were bought on merger, higher dividend and stock dividend prospects.

MONEY RATE DROPS

Call money again dropped from 3½ to 3 per cent, with funds available in the outside market at 2½. An easier undertone also was apparent in the time money market. The New York Federal Reserve Bank reduced its buying rate on bills, and most leading acceptance dealers cut the rate on bankers' acceptances ⅛ of 1 per cent, the sixth cut in the last three weeks.

Pool operations were again conducted on a large scale, with leading commission houses reporting an increase in public participation. The apparent inability of bear traders to unsettle the market in their selling drives of the last week, coupled with the existence of an unusually large short interest in several of the leading speculative issues, encouraged bullish operations.

DIVIDENDS INCREASED

Directors of the White Rock Mineral Springs Company increased the dividends on the common and second preferred stocks, and declared extra payments on each. Other business news was not so favorable. Dow Jones reported that operations of the U. S. Steel Corporation were down to 80 per cent of capacity, as against 82 per cent last week, while the rate of output for independents had dropped from 70 to 68 per cent.

Oils extended their recent gains despite preliminary reports of an increase in crude oil production last week. Standard Oils of California and New Jersey, General Asphalt, Phillips Petroleum, Skelly, Simms Petroleum, Atlantic Refining and Mexican Seaboard were among the many issues to reach new high levels. Houston was marked up more than 5 points and Sun Oil 4 to new top prices.

WIDE GAINS MADE

Allied Chemical was run up 10 points, Ingersoll Rand 9, Federal Light and Traction 7⅛, J. I. Case 7, and Atlas Powder, Auburn Auto, Otis Elevator, Eastman Kodak, General Refractories, Interborough Rapid Transit, United Aircraft preferred, Sloss Sheffield Steel and American Steel Foundries moved up 3 to 5 points.

A wave of profit taking swept over the market in the early afternoon. American Locomotive broke 4½ points to 84½, the lowest price since 1924.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 18.—Wheat scored upturns in price late today, helped by corn market strength and by 3,245,000 bushels decrease of the world's wheat available supply. Meanwhile, expectations were that a cold wave would work down from the North by Thursday or Friday over the domestic wheat territory. The world's available supply of wheat is now 411,598,000 bushels against 392,108,000 bushels a year ago.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 5 to 12 points on a continuation of the covering movement in the old crop months which were relatively firm again this morning. Liverpool just about met yesterday's local advance and after some irregularity the market here sold up to 15.38c for May, making a new high for the present movement and a net advance of about 20 to 25 points on old crop positions. Later deliveries were rather slow in following the advance, but sold 8 to 12 points net higher or back to about the best prices of yesterday afternoon. Trading was moderately active and the fluctuations at times showed continued nervousness over the near month situation, particularly with reference to May. The difference between May in New York and Liverpool narrowed to about 74 points during the early trading. Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay buying with an absence of selling pressure in that market and said there was an improved cloth demand for Egypt and South America.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Watch Trick

KIRK MASEFIELD glanced up from the workbench in the rear of his plumber's shop and stared in amazement. Kirk knew everyone in Danford.

He had never seen this young lady before. He had never seen any young lady that looked so charming. Petite, blonde, daintily dressed, she seemed terribly out of place in the littered workshop.

"Do you work for Mr. Masefield?" the girl asked.

Kirk grinned.

"Yes, Miss, I work harder for him than anyone else ever will, because I'm Mr. Masefield myself."

"Oh," said the pretty girl, "you looked so young."

Then she laughed.

Kirk was thrilled when she laughed.

"I'm Miss Cummings — I'm opening up a millinery shop next door and there's something wrong with the sink. I thought I'd have you fix it before my stock is put in, as a leak keeps the floor wet and I have to do the hat trimming in the back room."

"In two jiffs, Miss Cummings," Kirk promised.

He wiped his hands on some waste, picked up a kit in a box and followed her into the next shop. He had noticed that a new sign was up in what had long been a vacant shop, and that the windows were curtained. He had thought that Danford was a rather small place to support a millinery shop.

He noted the nicely tinted front shop and the cases all ready for goods as he followed her through.

The leak was easily fixed but he didn't let her know that. He was a long while doing it. He covered the pipes with bright aluminum paint, scoured the rust-stained porcelain sink until it glistened, polished the faucets and made it all look like new.

Refuses Payment

"Perfectly adorable—the way you did it," said Miss Arletta Cummings, who explained that she had come from the city in the belief that there was healthier environment and better opportunity in a country town.

"Now how much—?"

"Well, Miss Cummings, it wasn't anything much—I might want a ribbon some time for a straw hat band—we'll let it go," he said.

Arletta shook her head and handed him a bill, but Kirk drew back. She saw that he was offended.

"We're going to be neighbors, Miss Cummings. I might want a button sewed on a coat some time."

"All right—I owe you all the button-sewing you need, Mr. Masefield."

Kirk dropped in to see Miss Cummings on the morning she opened her shop.

"It's a shame I haven't any women folks, Miss Cummings—if mother were living or if I had some sisters, I'd have them all in here buying hats," he said.

"When I get rich and build a house I'll have you put in the plumbing and heating plant and such things," she promised.

Some customers dropped in—her very first—so Kirk left and went around to the little florist shop. A little later a boy delivered two boxes of beautiful roses to Miss Cummings and disappeared.

Kirk was still at work in his shop when Miss Cummings closed her shop. She saw the light and went in.

"More pipes busted?" asked Kirk.

"Oh, no. I just came in to thank you—and tell you I had a wonderful day—nice people and a lot of sales."

"That's great—hope you'll be building that house soon," Kirk answered.

"I came to thank you for the lovely roses—you shouldn't have done it."

"Roses?"

Kirk tried to look puzzled, but it didn't work.

"You are the only one in Danford who could have sent them—it was splendid of you. It made the shop lovely."

"The roses were just to wish you luck," Kirk stammered.

Falling in Love

Miss Arletta Cummings smiled that night as she thought how her city friends would laugh if they thought she was becoming interested in a young plumber who wore overalls and was quite messy much of the time.

It didn't happen all at once, but during the course of the year Arletta did fall in love with Kirk Masefield. Kirk had fallen in love with her at sight.

They had come to the engagement phase.

It looked as though Arletta's shop would be one of the paying and permanent enterprises of Danford.

Kirk was also prospering and they decided that in another year they could afford a little home, when they'd be married.

Kirk was pleased when Major Pardee, the rich man of Danford, came to him to have an oil heating system put in his big house.

"We're going South, Masefield," the major said, "and you can have the new-fangled heater all in and working by the time we get back."

That meant a nice, profitable job.

The oil heating plant was put in. It worked to perfection. Maj. Pardee's lawyer handed Kirk his check, an amazingly large slice of it being profit.

Also, Kirk was putting in the plumbing for a colony of factory cottages, and that meant that within six months he'd be able to buy the little home and marry Arletta.

Then Maj. Pardee and his family came back. He had sent word. Kirk had the new heating plant going in good order.

He thought that Maj. Pardee acted queerly next day when he saw him on the street and asked him how the plant worked. Later he guessed and rightly that he was under a suspicion of having robbed the Pardee home of a great quantity of valuables.

There was no doubt but what there had been a robbery. Silverware, jewels and a quantity of other valuable things were taken.

Because Kirk had had the run of the place when he installed the heater this provided the opportunity.

Kirk was questioned. Deputy Sheriff Ben Rankin had a long talk with him.

Deputy Rankin had a talk with Arletta also. Rankin had always been mighty sweet to Arletta, but as Kirk had the inside track from the start he evidently considered it hopeless to try and win her.

A few days later Rankin searched Kirk's shop. He found some silverware hidden in some junk. Maj. Pardee identified it as his own.

Kirk was frantic and declared it to be a plant. Plenty of friends went his bail. Even Arletta seemed terribly jolted until Kirk assured her that he hadn't touched a thing in the Pardee house and he couldn't account for the stolen silverware being under some junk in the back of his shop.

The case wouldn't come to trial for several months. Kirk worked away—half of the town believing in him and the other half being doubtful.

Employs Detective

Kirk got a detective at work on it—but it seemed a hopeless task. It had been months since the robbery occurred and there was no way to trace the robber. Maj. Pardee permitted the detective to search his place, but no clues could be found.

Meanwhile matters went on just the same in Danford.

The picture house had its regular Friday and Saturday five acts of vaudeville, people went and laughed just the same—and all the town went on Fridays and Saturdays. Only Kirk wasn't laughing any more and he was telling Arletta that she'd probably have to give him up because there'd always be a suspicion against him even if he didn't have to serve time for something he didn't do.

She wasn't going to give Kirk up. She was satisfied that he wasn't such a fool as to commit a robbery, much less hide some of the loot on his own premises. That's what she told Deputy Rankin when he saw Arletta about it and suggested that it would hurt her business to be seen with Kirk any more.

Arletta insisted that Kirk go about with her. They went to the Saturday picture and vaudeville at the Danford Theater. Deputy Rankin was there, as he never missed them, since he got in free. He gave Kirk a hard look.

He had some wonderful watch tricks. The old one of smashing and returning intact—another of putting a watch in a hat and pouring out water—no watch there—to find it in the pocket of some sweet, elderly old man in the audience.

Magician's Trick

Zafto came down to the middle aisle.

"One more watch," he said. "I shall burn this one, change the ashes to a box of cigars and return watch and box of cigars to whoever loans me his watch."

Among those who proffered watches was Deputy Rankin. If there was to be a free box of cigars he wanted it. He even flashed his badge so Zafto could see it.

"Ah, I will borrow the sheriff's watch," he said, and did. He took it to the stage, he went through the customary deceiving rigamarole with his assistant, the smoke appeared, the watch disappeared, the box of cigars came out.

Then Zafto came down to Deputy Rankin. A man followed him.

"Is this your watch?" Zafto ask Rankin.

"It is," said Rankin, "and I want them cigars, too."

He reached for them both, but the strange man whispered something to Rankin, who instantly tried to sock him. It didn't work, the strange man was too quick. He socked Rankin and slipped the cuffs on him.

"Unfortunately," Zafto announced, "the watch this man gave me wasn't his. It was one stolen from Maj. Pardee's home!"

That was true. Rankin pulled the job himself and planted the stuff on Kirk.

And Zafto, a really noted magician, was also Arletta's brother. Arletta had seen Rankin's watch, when he came to talk with her about Kirk. She fixed it for her brother to come and do the watch trick, because she wanted the whole town to know the truth at once.

Maj. Pardee was ashamed that he had ever suspected Kirk. He made Kirk and Arletta a handsome wedding present.

I GUESS HE'S AFRAID TO GIVE WAY TO HIS TROUBLE. HE BELONGS TO SEVERAL SUNSHINE ORGANIZATIONS. IF HE LOOKED AS SOUR AS HE FEELS THEY'D GIVE HIM THE AIR.
HE'S VERY PARTICULAR ABOUT FOOD TOO. HAS TO HAVE SPECIAL TOAST FOR SUPPER, AND SO FORTH.
LAST EVENING HE MUMBLED TO HIMSELF ALL DURING THE MEAL SIMPLY BECAUSE THE POTATOES WERE A BIT SCORCHED.
THAT'S HIS NERVES. LETS NOT FORGET THAT LOSING TWO OR THREE MILLION OVERNIGHT IS NO TONIC.
WELL IT'S BEYOND ME HOW A MAN CAN LOSE SO MUCH AND THEN ACT AS THOUGH HE HAD MERELY MISLAID A WORN OUT ALARM CLOCK.
I KNOW HOW HE FEELS. I WAS ONLY HIS HEIR, TOO, BUT EVERY TIME I GET TO THINKING ABOUT THIS AFFAIR IT SEEMS AS IF I HAD JUST SPENT THE WEEK-END IN A DENTAL CHAIR.

Large Building Program Will Benefit Entire Nation

Every state in the Union, and nearly all the major industries of the country will share in the prosperity which the expenditure of nearly seven thousand million dollars this year upon the construction and maintenance of public works and public utilities will distribute.

Experience proves that the construction dollar is impartially dispensed far and wide. And that is why this record-breaking construction program is so vital to the health of general business.

Take, for example, the expenditures for public works alone which will total between three and four thousand million dollars. This will call for large expenditures for all sorts of building materials—for brick, cement, lumber, iron, and steel; for sand and gravel, granite, slate, stone, millwork, glass, paint, and varnish; for hardware, hollow tile, terra cotta, lime, roofing materials; copper, brass, insulating materials, electrical equipment, heating equipment, lighting equipment, plumbing equipment, sanitary ware, elevators, pipes, fittings, and the like.

Next will come over millions of dollars for furnishings—for carpets, rugs, draperies, furniture, cutlery, chinaware, glassware and office furniture.

And even before these expenditures have been made, other millions of dollars will have gone to buy the tools with which the builders of the nation work.

Therefore, a construction program of this sort will call for large expenditures for contractors' equipment, foundry products, machinery, plant equipment, saws, machine tools, and a mass of raw materials.

A new construction makes new business for our transportation systems. Not only must much of these building materials and furnishings and raw materials be transported, but the manufacture of brick and cement for example involves the shipment of coal from the mine to the market.

In fact the material and equipment involved in construction is not the monopoly of any region. It comes from every section of the country.

Dr. John H. Gries, who heads the newly created division of public construction in the Department of Commerce, has traced back the materials and equipment of a modest size structure erected in the Middle West. He finds that at least 40 states furnished something, and that every Class 1 railroad in the United States had a share in the transportation.

That is why a seven thousand million dollar construction program distributes prosperity not only to all the communities where building trade labor is employed, but to all the other communities whence come the material and equipment entering into construction and traversed by the railroads over which this mass of freight moves.

Therefore, any state, county or municipality that fails to co-operate with the federal government by making "energetic but prudent expenditures" for the building and repair of public ways, much needed schools and other public buildings is sapping not only the welfare of the communities denied these facilities, but also the prosperity of every community that helps to provide them.

And Congress will be no less guilty of putting an obstacle in the road of returning prosperity if its dawdles much longer over the tariff bill, upon which it has wasted nearly one year of the peoples' money and the peoples' time.

Its co-operation is essential if the seven thousand million dollar construction program is to go forward without interruption and give the stimulus to business generally that such a wise expenditure should provide.

Just as every state in the Union and nearly all the major industries will share in the benefits of this program, so every state in the Union, all industries, business generally, and the great army of American wage earners are suffering from the mess which the Congress has made of tariff legislation.

Countrywide co-operation in speeding up in the seven thousand million dollar construction program should be coupled with a countrywide demand upon the Congress to get the tariff bill out of the way and clear the way for returning prosperity.

Metropolitan Charter Vote Again Is Denied

The State Supreme Court has decreed that the Metropolitan Plan cannot again be submitted to the people for their approval in referendum under the present state of legislation on the subject. Having once failed by the required majority, although overwhelmingly favored by the people, the Metropolitan Charter cannot go before the people again in its present form, the high court decides in upholding the lower court decision.

The Metropolitan amendment to the constitution provides that the charter can be submitted in original or modified form until it is adopted, but the language of the charter itself is construed to prevent resubmission in its present form. Hence, according to the supreme court, the charter act will have to be amended before the people may vote on it again.

This will be disappointing to friends of the Metropolitan Charter, but will give opportunity to make a vigorous fight for a better charter than emerged from the last session of the Legislature, which responded to the wishes of politicians rather than the Metropolitan Commission, which submitted a form of charter after numerous hearings. It was rudely dealt with by the political group heads.

The Metropolitan Commission must carry on.

Few Voting Machines Needed for Experiment

It is indicated that but few voting machines will be purchased for use in the county until after the commission redistricting election zones completes its work. County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong has intimated that, while some machines may be in use in the May primary, they would not be purchased extensively until after the commission finishes its job.

The decision is wise. Under rapid machine voting election districts can be larger, hence there should not be nearly as many after the redistricting is completed as there are now, consequently the number of machines actually needed will not be known definitely until the number of districts has been fixed and the number of voters in each has been arrived at.

Enough machines to experiment with at the May primaries will be sufficient.

SOAP-BOXING MR. MELLON

By Herbert Kaufman

REPRESENTATIVE GARNER, of Texas, brands Secretary Mellon with political nepotism, because the Treasury Department, after careful review of U. S. Steel's 1918 tax statement, announces a refund of $33,000,000.

Mr. Garner imputes that the Treasury has become a servant of Pennsylvania special interests, and a friend at court of her industries.

He demands an investigation. His delicate, demagogic nostrils scent Democratic campaign material in the transaction, not to mention evidence of false stewardship in the Internal Revenue Bureau. For such is the kingdom of partisan politics.

Less passionate observers—and patriots—must confess that they detect nothing untoward in Mr. Mellon's ruling.

THOUSANDS of individuals are annually notified that they have paid more than their due share toward federal upkeep. Business, small and large, is constantly protesting at the overclaims of the tax division. Let him who has never experienced difficulty in securing his statutory deductions from Uncle Sam's tithe gatherers, cast a stone at a routine act of fiscal justice.

The steel corporation is as much entitled to protest against discriminatory treatment as Simpkins the grocer, or the Umpah Laundry Company.

If a deliberate consideration of the case (and heaven knows 12 years of haggle and delay purge Mr. Mellon's action of reckless impetuosity) shows that the money is coming to the steel corporation, Mr. Mellon has no alternative but to shell out.

To refuse any enterprise its vested rights, because of its size and extensive operation, would violate constitutionality and subject property to confiscation.

Equity's sole concern is with principle. The magnitude of this transaction is extraneous to the point at issue, which simmers down to the obvious fact that steel corporation paid the United States more than it owed.

MR. W. Z. FOSTER will applaud Representative Garner's tirade and the Communist press, here and abroad, will exalt it in letters of gold. All such congressional gestures are pie for provocateurs of discontent and national unconfidence. Mr. Foster has been pointing out that all our troubles are due to the very sort of favoritism which Mr. Garner aims to discover in Secretary Mellon's administration.

Appearing before the Manhattan Board of Aldermen, Foster contrasts the happy and flourishing estate of the Soviets with the abject circumstances into which capitalism has led us.

Hark to the voice of the former I. W. W. leader, who impudently designates himself as spokesman for the American workman:

"THE Soviet union has solved the problem of unemployment. We realize this capitalistic government will do nothing about unemployment. The workers can do nothing but organize and struggle, and eventually they will overthrow the government of the United States and establish a Soviet regime in this country. We are not now in a revolutionary period. We are passing through a preparatory stage which might be characterized as the radicalization of the workers."

Mr. Garner and Mr. Foster should confer upon a program. Undermining citizen faith in the integrity of a cabinet member whose responsible direction of our finances has carried him through three successive presidential terms, will enlist more sentiment for radicalism than soap-box argument can ever hope to inspire.

Heckling big business, ONLY because it IS big business, and casting opprobrium upon legitimate, departmental action, because it chances to redound to the benefit of a billion dollar corporation, may appeal to Russian attitudes of mind, but it does NOT reflect the spirit of fair play which essentially distinguishes majority sentiment in America.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

BEEFING about your luck? Complaining that you never get your chance? You'll get your chance all right—When you're ready to pay for it.

Chances aren't hard to get. They're the commonest thing there is. You can turn almost any combination into a chance, if you really want to. You can turn even misfortune into a chance. Your chance is ready, when ever you are . . . but it will cost you plenty.

No, not in money. In something much more precious and difficult to give than money. If you want your chance you'll have to pay with—Yourself.

You think Fate's been keeping your chance away, partner? T'asn't. You, yourself, have been passing up your chance because you weren't willing to sacrifice some part of your own cussedness. 'Tisn't Fate—it's your own laziness, or cowardice, or restlessness, or sensitiveness, or smoothness, or bad temper, or love of day-dreaming that's blocking your chance.

Check that with your own experience. You know it's true. Remember that fine job you had last year, Bill? Great at first, but after a couple of months it got your goat. Doing the same thing over and over. Funny, some people don't seem to mind monotony. But you never could stand it. You always liked doing something new. So, you moved on.

Or maybe that wasn't the reason. Maybe you didn't like the boss. Maybe you thought they were trying to put something over on you. Whatever the reason, you quit. Or fussed around until they let you out. And ever since you've been sore—thinking how other people have all the luck.

Remember that time Jim wanted you to marry him, Ella? You liked Jim a lot. But you couldn't bear the thought of leaving the folks and going clear off to Canada. Or perhaps you hated to settle down and give up your nice job and parties and everything. And now Jim's gone. And you're growing old—growing old and discouraged and bitter, envying other women, their homes and husband and noisy, adorable youngsters.

And so it went. There were chances—plenty of chances. But they were never quite what you wanted. They didn't just fit your nature or desires. So, instead of trying to make yourself fit, you let the chance pass and decided to wait until the Right Thing came along. But—somehow—it never came!

Text for Today Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man: But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away from his own lust, and enticed. James ii:13, 14.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THEN comes the Silurian, in which fishes and some land plants and invertebrata appear. Then Devonian and Carboniferous, with an ever-increasing amount of land forms, and the whole of the era closes with the Permian, in which reptiles first appear.

Above these comes the Mesozoic system of rocks, that gigantic volume which tells of the era of mighty reptiles and coniferous and cycad-like plants. Its formations (which, like the periods of the Palaeozoic, derive their names either from the districts in which the rocks are well developed or from well-defined physical characters) are the Triassic, the Jurassic, the Cretaceous.

H. G. Wells

Finally comes the Cenozoic Era, the age of modern life, of mammals, birds, grasses, flowering plants and trees. And here we warn the reader of one of those exasperating indistinctnesses of nomenclature in which the scientific mind at its worst seems to delight.

The Cenozoic Age is subdivided into the Eocene (dawn of recent life) and so onwards with progressive modernization of animals through the Oligocene (to slightly recent), Miocene (less recent than the next division), the Pleistocene (most nearly recent)—the period of the last great ice age—and the "Recent" Period, since the retreat of the ice, in which we live.

The use of local and mineral names for the formations is suddenly abandoned for these kindred confusable names.

For some reason quite a number of slightly inattentive students get "mixed" with Miocene and Mesozoic, just as it is the commonest misapprehension in the world to substitute Palaeolithic (a stage in human development) for Palaeozoic.

"The scientific systematist has never grasped what any novelist can tell him, that names must be distinctive if they are to be remembered.

We will, however, attempt something that may be of service to those who find these names of Eras and Periods too clumsy a load to carry in their memories.

We will attach numbers and letters to these Eras, periods and sub-periods, Roman numerals for the Eras, letters for the periods and Arabic numbers for sub-periods. These numbers we will append to the names as they crop up in what follows, and, at the price of certain typographical disfigurement the reader will be reminded of the position of each age as it is named.

Thus, Archeozoic is I, Proterozoic II, and the Palaeozoic Era III. The two former we do not sub-divide for our purposes.

But III falls into divisions, Cambrian (III A), Ordovician (III B), Silurian (III C), Devonian (III D), Carboniferous (III E) and Permian (III F). Each of these can be further divided into lower (1), middle (2) and upper (3).

Upper Carboniferous, for example, is III E 3. IV stands for the great era of the Mesozoic, with its divisions Triassic (IV A), Jurassic (IV B) and Cretacious (IV C). Finally, most modern of all our present Era (the Conozoic) is distinguished by V.

That again subdivides into Eocene (V A), Oligocene (V B), Miocene (V C), Pliocene (V D), Pleistocene (V E) and the current period, the Recent (V F).

We may add one further word of elucidation. In the earlier days of geology only three great Eras were distinguished, instead of the five we recognize now.

These were called Primary, Secondary, and Tertiary. Primary was our Archaeozoic (I), Proterozoic (II) and Palaeozoic (III) together, Secondary was what we now call Mesozoic (IV), and Tertiary, the Cenozoic (V).

Later a fourth term, Quarternary was added to distinguish the most modern deposits—those now called Pleistocene (VE) and Recent (VF). The word Primary is now rarely used, but Secondary and Quarternary turn up at times, and Tertiary (because it is an easier word, perhaps) has more than held its ground against Cenozoic.

Archbishop Ussher, less than three hundred years ago, dated the creation of the world in 4004 B. C. (and gave the day and hour, too!), and his calculations still adorn the margin of the Authorized Version of the Bible.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 18.—Broadway's Bad Boy, Nicky Arnstein, is on the up-and-up again, and the hard-boiled thoroughfare is dimpled in a secret gloat. His marriage a month or so ago to a lady of millions has put him "in the big money" again when the exchequer was low.

Arnstein has drifted in and out of prison, penniless one day and flush the next, married beautiful, rich and talented women, and with all his ups and downs invariably turns up unexpectedly as the gracious and fortunate rogue of fiction—smiling and debonair.

He has the Mephistophelean manner of the villain in the play—tall, engaging and fashionably attired. He has black, piercing eyes, a glossy mustache and patent leather hair and can modulate his voice to a drawing room purr or talk out the side of his mouth, prison style.

His amazing display of bravado was when the police of all cities were trailing him in connection with the $5,000,000 Wall street bond theft. Nicky, in an open automobile, drove alongside a police parade down Fifth avenue, and with insinuating mockery stood up and cheered the pageant.

An hour later he dropped into police headquarters to give himself up. His marriage to Fannie Brice was considered an "epic of Broadway love." The devotion of the actress to him, despite his devious escapades, reads like a chapter from the life of a romantic Apache.

With a twisted smile of suffering she sang "My Man" so effectively the night after his arrest that it softened the pawnbroking heart of the late Arnold Rothstein at a front row table at the Frolic. He sent for her and turned over $100,000 in bonds to bail Nicky out of durance vile.

But Nicky could not be content with only one love in his adventurous life, and at last Miss Brice divorced him. Arnstein vanished, "grievously stricken," he said. And now as Jules W. Arnstein, he and his bride are honeymooning in a swanky Sutton place home—the social roost of the Morgans and Vanderbilts.

Self-appointed cops who guard parked cars in the theatrical zone have become in instances terrorizing brigands, and many are charging an alliance between them and regularly appointed police. Certain side streets are open for parking during theater time. While a car is being parked a guard pops out of nowhere and gives himself a halo of authority. The motorist who does not tip him in advance is likely to return to find the door handles of his car broken off, the license plate removed and disfiguring scratches on the paint.

New York luncheons, as though not expensive enough, what with nickel soup 80 cents a plate, are now featuring costly favors. A luncheon without the favor is as out of date as the polka. The cheapest of souvenirs average $5 each and range upward to $25. The pinnacle of such profligacy was reached last week by an opera singer. At the plate of each of her 10 women guests was a monogrammed cigaret case costing $175.

Once a year an important New York business executive goes on a six weeks scouting trip to flush out promising talent for his organization. He goes incognito to strange communities, mingles with people and studies them. Experience in his line is not considered in making offers. One of his best bets was a hotel night clerk found in a town of 20,000. In three years he became the general manager of a branch factory employing 4,000 men.

In the same fashion, a $25 a week stenographer was forced by circumstances to handle the advertising copy of a big department store for two days this spring. A sudden increase of sales was satisfactorily traced to the "pull" of her efforts. She now has the job at $20,000 a year.

"One does not," writes a Jersey columnist, "ever see O. O. McIntyre lunching in such literary haunts as Bardi's, the Algonquin and Dinty Moore's. Can it be he thinks himself a little better than his fellow scribblers?"

Not better—just different.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU have a hard time to enjoy the things that most people of your age find pleasing.

Is this because your thought has not advanced as fast as your age?

You don't like to have your attitude explained in that way.

You like to think that your youthful ideas are a credit to you.

You are so anxious to have others think of you as a younger person.

You don't want to grow up.

But when you come right down to facts isn't it really that you talk younger and act younger than your years because you won't read and study and think?

People your age generally abandon trivial things that still interest you. They give less time and thought to superficial pleasures, and therefore they have more time for important subjects.

Perhaps you have schooled yourself to over-emphasize an effort to keep young and to "grow old gracefully."

For the sake of hearing some one say you take life gayly and don't let your mind grow up with your years.
